Franco Plans Move To Strengthen Relations With Western Alliance

Madrid, July 14. —(AP)— Generalissimo Francisco Franco will form a new government soon in a drastic shakeup designed to better Spanish relations with the Democratic world, high-level informants said today.

His new order, including a move toward greater freedom for the press, and possibly a greater share of power for the cortes (parliament), is expected to be forthcoming within a week.

It was outlined last night at a cabinet meeting following the visit of a touring U. S. Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee headed by Sen. Theodore F. Green (D-R. I.).

The senatorial group came to Spain in midweek to discuss possible contributions to the defense system for western Europe. Green said on arrival that while Spain was not now part of the defense effort, many Americans feel Spain might contribute substantially.

Spanish sources said last night's cabinet meeting was the last for most of the old ministers, who have been in office since July 21, 1945. The new government is expected to be announced in the state journal.

Only four old ministers will remain in office after the shakeup.

BRITAIN SEIZES POLISH TANKERS

English Invoke Wartime powers To Take Control Of Two New Ships

London, July 14. —(AP)— Britain, prodded by the United States, involved war-time powers today and seized two new oil tankers built here for Red Poland.

The action is the first of its kind since the end of World War II. It came after the United States strongly protested against letting the 7,500 gross ton vessels be delivered to the Soviet satellite.

The foreign office announced the the tankers under defense regulations. These are the government's war-time powers still in effect.

Last September following criticism in America and a bitter attack by opposition leader Winston Churchill, the labor government banned shipment of machine tools to Russia and Red-dominated eastern Europe.

Conservatives had charged that British factories were turning out machine tools—vitally needed for defense work—for export to Russia and Poland.

The blocking of delivery of the oil tankers to Poland posed a more difficult problem for the British Government. Ordered more than two years ago by the Polish ocean lines, title to the ships already had passed to the Polish line last December after about 80 per cent of the purchase price was paid.

The United States first asked Britain to prevent delivery of the tankers last May. There have been frequent Anglo - American exchanges of them since then.

American officials strongly opposed letting such highly strategic ships go to any iron curtain country. They called on Britain to halt the deal.

The tankers are the Tatry, which begins final trials Sunday, and the Beskidy, which is being fitted out.

Polish Ambassador Jerzy Michalowski was summoned to the foreign office this morning and told of Britain's action seizing them.

FRENCH DISPLAY MILITARY POWER

Tanks, Motorized Weapons Used In Bastille Day Parade At Paris

Paris, July 14.—(AP)—France today displayed new tanks and motorized weapons in a Bastille day parade which President Vincent Auriol hailed as affirming the country's "material and moral" rebirth.

In a reply of President Truman's message on the national fete day, the French president asserted that the nation was united around the army of the Republic.

"I assure you again of our will to make our effort side by side with all the free nations to discourage aggression," he said.

The two-hour parade of renewed French strength—the biggest military show in Paris since the war—was largely by courtesy program. But there were enough of the United States military aid samples of new French armament production to show that France too is pitching in.

Warmest cheers from the crowds thronging the champs Elysees were for the new 50-ton French tanks with their 100 millimeter guns (there were only three) and the 120-millimeter high speed mobile assault gun (of which there was only one).

National Defense Minister Jules Moch has pointed out these new weapons were only ordered between April and November last year. Prototypes were shown today. Production in number will follow.

It was the same with uniforms.

Fire On London Train Hurts 20

Huntingdon, Eng., July 14. —(AP)— Fire aboard a speeding express train sent a wall of flames roaring over four crowded coaches today, injuring 20 of the hundreds of passengers trapped inside.

The rest smashed windows and poured out of the doors as the train was brought to an emergency halt outside Huntingdon station some 65 miles north of London.

Cause of the fire was undetermined. The flames were fanned through one coach after another as the train sped along the tracks. Nine of the injured were kept at Huntingdon hospital, two of them listed in serious condition.

The blaze was similar to one which killed five persons a year ago aboard a speeding Glasgow express at Beattock, Scotland. The fire then was blamed on a cigarette tossed behind an upholstered seat.

Today's train had come from London bound for Leeds with a heavy Saturday afternoon standing-room-only crowd which packed the side aisles of Britain's continental - type compartment cars.

The third state-financed major project for improvement of city streets, the rebuilding and reconditioning of Powell avenue from the Milhaven road to DeSiard street at the intersection with the Sterlington road, was announced yesterday by Mayor John Coon.

The announcement was made following a conference with Wayne Huckaby, chief maintenance engineer of the state highway department, who was here to complete details of the proposed project. Mr. Huckaby was formerly Ouachita parish engineer.

The avenue, which now is in badly worn condition, will be reconditioned and hard surfaced by crews of the district highway department under the direction of J. H. Drake, district engineer. Materials will be furnished by the state but will be maintained by the city when completed.

The new Powell avenue thoroughfare will provide a convenient by-pass for through traffic, and will save several miles of travel through congested city streets.

While here Mr. Huckaby also inspected work being done in the widening of DeSiard road from Five Points to the Missouri Pacific overpass. He said he was well pleased with progress being made, he said.

This million-dollar project is one of the three which the state has undertaken within Monroe's city limits. The other was the reconditioning of the Loop road. The Loop road project has been completed in its entirety with the exception of paving over several sewer laterals.

Mr. Huckaby said the DeSiard road widening project will be completed within 60 days. The left side of the road already is widened beyond Edgewater Gardens and the right side work has progressed to almost that point.

When the widening process is completed, the road will be 24 feet wide instead of the original 18 feet, whose slab was poured in 1926. Traffic on DeSiard road has been

Fire On London Train Hurts 20

Huntingdon, Eng., July 14. —(AP)— Fire aboard a speeding express train sent a wall of flames roaring over four crowded coaches today, injuring 20 of the hundreds of passengers trapped inside.

The rest smashed windows and poured out of the doors as the train was brought to an emergency halt outside Huntingdon station some 65 miles north of London.

Cause of the fire was undetermined. The flames were fanned through one coach after another as the train sped along the tracks. Nine of the injured were kept at Huntingdon hospital, two of them listed in serious condition.

The blaze was similar to one which killed five persons a year ago aboard a speeding Glasgow express at Beattock, Scotland. The fire then was blamed on a cigarette tossed behind an upholstered seat.

Today's train had come from London bound for Leeds with a heavy Saturday afternoon standing-room-only crowd which packed the side aisles of Britain's continental - type compartment cars.

The third state-financed major project for improvement of city streets, the rebuilding and reconditioning of Powell avenue from the Milhaven road to DeSiard street at the intersection with the Sterlington road, was announced yesterday by Mayor John Coon.

The announcement was made following a conference with Wayne Huckaby, chief maintenance engineer of the state highway department, who was here to complete details of the proposed project. Mr. Huckaby was formerly Ouachita parish engineer.

The avenue, which now is in badly worn condition, will be reconditioned and hard surfaced by crews of the district highway department under the direction of J. H. Drake, district engineer. Materials will be furnished by the state but will be maintained by the city when completed.

The new Powell avenue thoroughfare will provide a convenient by-pass for through traffic, and will save several miles of travel through congested city streets.

While here Mr. Huckaby also inspected work being done in the widening of DeSiard road from Five Points to the Missouri Pacific overpass. He said he was well pleased with progress being made, he said.

This million-dollar project is one of the three which the state has undertaken within Monroe's city limits. The other was the reconditioning of the Loop road. The Loop road project has been completed in its entirety with the exception of paving over several sewer laterals.

Mr. Huckaby said the DeSiard road widening project will be completed within 60 days. The left side of the road already is widened beyond Edgewater Gardens and the right side work has progressed to almost that point.

When the widening process is completed, the road will be 24 feet wide instead of the original 18 feet, whose slab was poured in 1926. Traffic on DeSiard road has been

LA. GROUP ASKS ORDER CANCELLED

Washington, July 14. —(AP)— An Arkansas-Louisiana congressional group today asked U. S. army engineers to cancel an order closing down three navigation locks on the upper Ouachita river in southern Arkansas and northern Louisiana.

The group, headed by Senator McClellan (D.-Ark.), protested to the engineers at a hearing in McClellan's office that the order dooms river transportation on the upper Ouachita.

Senator McClellan and Rep. Harris (D.-Ark.) told a reporter after the meeting that they heard the engineers give their reasons for the order and in turn presented fully the case for the Ouachita.

They said they suggested that the engineers continue operation of the three locks for one more year to give interested parties an opportunity to prove that navigation is wanted and needed on the river.

"We believe," McClellan said, "that we are justified in insisting on maintenance of the locks for one more year."

Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, who issued the order to close the locks, was unable to attend the meeting. He left last night for Kansas City flood areas. He was represented by Col. W. D. Milne.

McClellan and Harris said Milne told the group that because of a congressional cut in river maintenance funds it was necessary for the engineers to reduce operations. They said he added that a survey showed that there is insufficient traffic on the Ouachita to justify continued operation of the locks. He said the engineers would save approximately $100,000 yearly in maintenance cost if they discontinued from operation of the locks.

Those attending today's meeting included; Senator McClellan, Reps. Harris, Norrell (D.-Ark.), Larcade (D.-La.) Brooks (D.-La.), Allen (D.-La.), Julan Langston, aide to Rep. Passman (D.-La.) Bruce Tucker, aide to Senator Long (D.-La.), H. K. Thatcher, of Camden, Ark., representing the Ouachita river association, and W. D. Thomas, Calion, Ark., lumberman.

McClellan and Harris said their position is that prior to World War II there was heavy traffic on the river. This dropped off during the war, however, because the government took all floating equipment for use elsewhere and as a result the 6 1-2-foot channel filled in.

The river was re-dredged three years ago and had been re-opened to traffic for two years.

McClellan and Harris said the traffic just now is beginning to develop and many industries have made plans to utilize the river.

"This sudden stoppage," they said, "upsets plans of many of these industries—they don't know just what to expect. We think we are entitled to a little time to show that the traffic is there."

McClellan said the situation is that the engineers say the channel won't be maintained unless the traffic is there while industry says it can't produce the traffic unless the channel is there.

Harris also said that closing down on the locks and neglect of the pools to operate the locks would endanger health. There no longer would be a steady flow of water to carry away pollution, he said.

Involved also in the problem is a proposed 9-foot channel for the stream, which congress has authorized.

The order to discontinue the locks "would be a death blow to this project," Harris said.

KANSAS CITY IS ON HIGH GROUND

City Is Not Flood-Emersed Town Generally Pictured In Country

Kansas City, Mo., July 14.—(AP)— Hard hit truly in most of its older rich industrial area, Kansas City still is not the flood-emersed city the country generally has pictured, judging from the flood of personal messages, especially from the east. Alarm need not be felt for residents or their belongings, except for the thousands of families who had to evacuate homes in low areas.

Ninety per cent of the residential sections and the more important retail and business districts are on high land far above the pressing floods. Apart from the industrially rich valleys, Kansas City largely is a community built on cliffs. But the valleys got it.

The loss in the areas that went under water has not been overstated in any estimate that has come to my attention. Damage is enormous and was a preventable damage. The flood here and through Kansas could have been prevented by a reasonable prompt start on the flood prevention plan for Kansas rivers.

The important Armourdale section with its big soap plants and other industries, the industrial Argentine district with its steel fabricating plants, the big packing plants and the miles of stockyards along the Kaw have been under water up to fifteen feet. That is on the Kansas side.

Kansas City, Mo., has shared this tremendous flood damage with the submerging of the teeming central industrial district, a warehouse, freight and industrial district with factories and lumber and oil yards that included the live stock exchange. Flood water followed low land, old stream beds, along Southwest Boulevard and adjacent land. When the water unexpectedly went over the dikes, it rose 14 feet in the two hours blocking efforts to move inventories, even records.

Railroads, operating at the river level, have been hit hard. But for residential Kansas City the flood is felt mainly through low water pressure, through flooding of a pumping station that supplies two-thirds of the city's water. That closed all but food stores and essential businesses today. All saloons are closed, the churches are open; a city flooded, but the great majority of the people short of water.

The loss is now into uncalculated millions, in hides, soaps, meats, lumber, oil, chemicals, some grain, all the sorts of supplies that are held in big store houses. The loss of thousands of drowned cattle and hogs was a small item in comparison with the enormous quantities of meat in cold storage. Where insurance is inadequate such loss can be crippling. Thousands of box cars, loaded with goodness knows what, were caught in the sudden over-flowing of the dikes.

As the crests pass, dikes have held, except for Seepate in the modern industrial districts of Fairfax in Kansas and the northeast industrial district of Kansas City, Mo.

But even here there is water from inches to several feet from sand boils, particularly in Fairfax where the airport has been closed. Dikes so far have done the job of protecting the vast north Kansas City industrial district. Kansas City with the crests past is starting to dig out and bring to count the cost.

Scissors were invented by an ancient shepherd to make wool-clipping an easier job.

Kansas Flood Cost Appraised

Washington, July 14.—(AP)—Dollarwise the current Kansas and Missouri floods are the costliest in United States history.

This appraisal came today from army engineers, after Chief Engineer Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick estimated damage at well over $500,000,000.

Engineer records showed the previous most costly flood was in the Ohio and Mississippi rivers in 1937 with a cash toll of $481,000,000.

That 1937 flood took 137 lives. Ten years earlier, in 1927, floods on the Mississippi and its tributaries caused $400,000,000 damage and took 327 lives.

The high death toll in those outbreaks compares with 14 known dead late today in the present floods. Engineers attribute the decline in loss of life to better communications and warning systems.

They also point out that dollar estimates of damage today, reflecting inflation, would be higher than for the same destruction years ago: When the dollar would buy a lot more.

Other big floods from engineer records:

Ohio river basin, March, 1913, $147,000,000 and 467 dead.

Columbia river basin, June, 1948, $90,000,000 and 45 lives.

Susquehanna river and others, March, 1936, $146,000,000 and 24 lives.

The second "Old Timers" night of the year will be held by the L. B. Faulk post of the American Legion Monday night at which time veterans of World War I will be hosts to World War II vets. The meeting will start at 8 p. m. and after a short business session is held, a buffett supper and other refreshments will be served.

Four nights designated and dedicated to the "old timers" are held each year, with the older vets furnishing the entertainment. A highlight of each meeting is the election of an official "Grand Dad." Robert Cowden holds that distinction at present, having succeeded S. C. Nettles at the last meeting.

"Old Timers" who have not registered are urged to do so Monday with Cowden, Nettles or John Bailey, although their registration will be accepted Monday night before the meeting. All veterans are urged to attend the meeting, which usually draw a large attendance.

Men Told To Get Out Of Mississippi

Baton Rouge, La., July 14—(AP)— A United Mine Workers official declared today two union representatives were given "24 hours to get out of Mississippi after Gov. Fielding L. Wright's intervention ended a strike at Hazlehurst, Miss.

Walter McCarty, director of the Louisiana - Mississippi region of district 50 of the UMW, said in an interview at Baton Rouge, UMW Field Representatives James Ledbetter and Sam Stevenson "were run out of Mississippi" by the State Highway Patrol.

McCarty said Ledbetter and Stevenson were met at their Brookhaven, Miss., homes Friday by highway patrolmen and told they had been given "24 hours to get out of the state."

Gov. Wright asserted in an interview at Jackson, Miss., that "no one gave them 24 hours to leave Mississippi, but I will say we don't want them or their kind here. Unless they can qualify under the law as bargaining agents, we don't want them stirring up trouble and causing strikes.

"We do not have Communists in Mississippi," Wright continued, "and we do not intend to tolerate them here.

"While the United Mine Workers officials claim that as a matter of principle they will not sign the non-Communist oath, we have little sympathy for anyone who refuses to disassociate themselves by oath from any connection with the Communist party."

Wright added, "I am not going to have them stirring up labor trouble here if I have to declare martial law and put them in a military jail."

The strike at the Hyman Manufacturing Company of Hazlehurst, about 30 miles south of Jackson, Miss., was an effort by the UMW to force the plant to recognize it as a bargaining agent for the workers. They had been represented by the United Garment Workers (AFL). The company makes overalls and nurses' uniforms.

Plant Manager L. S. Steverson (CQ) said about 80 workers quit on Tuesday. They went back to work yesterday after Gov. Wright sent national guardsmen to the plant. Meanwhile, about 65 others had continued on the job.

Governor Wright had suggested the NLRB could settle the dispute, but McCarty said the UMW was denied NLRB services because union officials refused to sign non-Communist oaths and divulge financial data "as a matter of principle."

Stepfather Of Girl Found Dead Sought

Los Angeles, July 14. —(AP)— The stepfather of blond Betty Jean Hansen, 20, whose body was found in a ravine, was sought throughout the nation by police today.

He is already charged with kidnaping the girl with whom police say he was infatuated. In the police and sheriff's radio messages, being broadcast every half hour, the phrase "also wanted for questioning for murder" was added today.

The hunted man is Frank W. Kristy, 48, a house painter living in nearby Paramount. He is charged with kidnaping the firl from their home July 5 and with threatening h erfamily with a gun at the time.

The body was found near Newhall, Calif., last night by the picnicking family of R. L. Hill of Bellflower. The decomposed remains were brought here for an autopsy by Dr. Victor Cefalu, coroner's pathologist.

Sheriff Sgt. R. T. Hopkins said a wrist watch band on the body bore the name "Betty Jean Hansen." The body was clad in a green and white checked gingham dress, identified as that worn by Miss Hansen when she disappreared. Nearby on the bank of the ravine was a cigaret lighter which had on it Kristy's initials, "F. W. K."

Kristy's wife, Margaret, 38, mother of Betty Jean by a previous marriage, told police previously that Kristy was infatuated witl. the girl and wouldn't let her have any boy friends. She said that on July 5 Kristy kept a gun on the family, packed a bag and drove away with Miss Hansen in her car, saying "I'm going to drive about 10 miles; then I'm going to turn the car over to Betty and kill myself."

The only previous clue of value since then, until last night, was discovery of the automobile parked in a gravel pit near an airport at Las Vegas, Nev. A county employe first noticed the car on Friday, July 6, but didn't report it until after he saw it was still there on Monday, July 9.

Las Vegas officers said they were unable to find clues in or around the car in the wind-blown sand. There was one report that a man of Kristy's description was seen boarding a bus at Boulder City, Nev., but police said nothing came of it.

EXPECTS VOTE ON BILL NEXT WEEK

House Will Probably Cast Ballots On Controversal Control Bill Thursday

Washington, July 14—(AP)— The free-for-all fight over economic controls raged toward a new climax next week with a House vote expected Thursday on a bill to extend the Defense Production Act.

Administration forces, apparently taking a drubbing, fought a rear guard action to salvage what they could of the Truman program for wage, price, rent and other controls.

They conceded, however, that a Republican-Southern Democrat coalition has power to deny Mr. Truman most of the new economic powers he asked and to modify some of those he already has.

During last week's House debate, the coalition won repeated victories in their efforts to tailor the measure more to their liking.

Some opponents of the administration controls program contend controls are not needed at all. Others view the administration's bid for additional powers as a trend toward socialism.

Labor unions generally support Mr. Truman's campaign for stronger price controls. Administration forces argue that economic cntrols must be tightened to stave off inflation and further the defense effort.

The Senate recently passed a bill reducing the president's present powers and giving him little of new authority he requested. The House measure seems to be trading a parallel path. House passage would send the bill to a Senate-House Conference Committee for ironing out differences in the two versions.

Rep. Spence (D-Ky), floor manager of the House bill, said today the Republican-Southern Democrat coalition is "fast making it a producers' bill" with little concern for the consumer.

Declaring that he believes the public knows who has been working for it and who fighting against, "effective" controls, Spence added to newsmen:

"I am sure the facts will have a great influence on the future political activities of our citizens."

Soviet Starts Magazine

Moscow, July 14.—(AP)—The Soviet Union started publication of a new magazine today whose first editorial said war is not inevitable and peaceful international cooperation is possible.

The magazine, called "News," will come out twice a month and is printed in English. Its editors said News will be devoted to closer understanding between the peoples of Russia and the west.

Contributors to the first issue included Alexander Troyanovsky, first Soviet ambassador to the United States; Dmitri Shostakovich, noted composer, and Eugene Tarle, economist.

The editorils said nations can cooperate in peace no matter what their political structures or social systems.

News said it intends to give a "truthful exposition of issues that are vexing relations between states." It said "unscrupulous press periodicals in the west" are deliberately fostering strife.

"We do not believe that war is inevitable," the editorial said. "We are firmly convinced that peaceful international cooperation is possible and indeed essential for tranquility and security of the peoples of the world."

Troyanovsky said "elimination of Soviet-American tension would certanly be an ernest of enduring world peace."

Kansas In State Of Emergency

Jefferson City, Mo., July 14.—(AP)—Gov. Forrest Smith proclaimed a state of emergency today to cope with the greatest flood disaster in Missouri history.

He urged President Truman and Congress to provide emergency relief funds immediately. He said Rep. Clarence Cannon (D - Mo.) chairman of the house appropriations committee, had told him by phone the committee would consider today a special $15,000,000 appropriation for Missouri and Kansas flood relief.

The governor plans to fly to Washington Sunday from S.t Louis. He said he would meet with the Missouri congressional delegation at breakfast Monday to plead for help.

Smith estimated the current flood damage to Missouri crops alone at $75,000,000 — or $15,000,000 more than the disastrous 1947 floods.

Stepfather Of Girl Found Dead Sought

Los Angeles, July 14. —(AP)— The stepfather of blond Betty Jean Hansen, 20, whose body was found in a ravine, was sought throughout the nation by police today.

Las Vegas officers said they were unable to find clues in or around the car in the wind-blown sand. There was one report that a man of Kristy's description was seen boarding a bus at Boulder City, Nev., but police said nothing came of it.

Editorials and Comment

Announcement Gratifying

Announcement that the federal government has issued a certificate of necessity to Commercial Solvents Corporation for the expenditure of $20,458,000 for vast enlargement of facilities in the Sterlington ammonia and methanol plant is extremely gratifying to citizens of Sterlington, Monroe, and West Monroe, as well as those of Ouachita Parish as a whole.

Importance of the commodities produced by Commercial Solvents at Sterlington has long been recognized and the issuance by the government of a certificate of necessity is further proof that the manufacture of these products is of vital importance to the economic welfare and safety of the nation. The certificate of necessity granted 50 per cent amortization, which means the government expects at least half of the plant's output to affect the nation's security and prosperity.

This certificate of necessity is believed to be the first to be issued by the government for a plant of this kind since vital materials were placed under federal regulation.

Construction of additional plants and facilities will provide employment for a large number of men in the building trades for about a year and a half, as it is expected that this work will not be completed before the spring of 1953. Announcement was made that the contract is expected to be awarded to a contractor in the vicinity of Monroe and this should mean that a large proportion of the construction force will be employed from among men in this area. A large part of the cost of the building the plant will go for labor and this will mean that a good many millions of additional dollars will be poured into the Monroe area and that merchants and other business men should profit thereby.

Once the plant is completed, it is likely that about 150 employees will be added to the force of about 300 working there now. New facilities will double the capacity of the present plant but only about 50 per cent more employees will be needed. However, the addition of 150 regular jobs should help both Sterlington and Monroe materially.

There is also a possibility that gas requirements at the plant may bring additional explorations in this area. C. C. Boardman, superintendent, said that although the ammonia plant uses only about 30,000,000 cubic feet a day, the corporation at present has no assurance that an adequate supply can be obtained from nearby fields, since pipeline companies carrying gas to more distant areas have contracted for the gas in new fields. Among new fields mentioned in this category were the Milhaven and Hico fields.

Mr. Boardman said, however, that the required gas will be obtained and that the plant's new facilities should be in operation early in 1953. He said he is always boosting for Sterlington and that the proposed new facilities should give that town a substantial boost. We believe that Monroe and West Monroe and Ouachita Parish as a whole will also profit.

Farmer Meets A Challenge

The latest USDA crop forecast indicates that cotton growers have responded generously to the government's request for greater production this year. Plantings this spring are estimated at 29,510,000 acres, which, allowing for the normal abandonment of acreage, would mean a crop of about 29,000,000 acres as compared to only 18,600,000 acres in 1950. If weather and insect conditions are normal, growers may harvest 18,000,000 bales as compared to only 10,000,000 bales last year and a 1951 goal of 16,000,000 bales.

Indications are that the growers, in turn, will be rewarded for their effort in planting a bumper crop. Demand probably will be good, whether the war in Korea is settled or not. The trade recently has been bidding about 35 cents a pound for the new crop and it is expected that government price supports will be between 32 cents and 35 cents. If the harvest totals as much as 18,000,000 bales, the crop may be worth $3,000,000,000 an all - time record, compared to $2,000,000,000 last year.

In this emergency, as in many others, the farmer has come through. Barring catastrophic weather and insect conditions, the cotton growers will produce enough to assure the free world that there will be no shortage of its most important fiber. And there is no indication so far that the production of food and other vital crops will suffer because of the big increase in cotton. It represents an added effort on the part of cotton growers.

Food and fiber are as important to the national defense as bullets. The ability of American farmers to meet record needs with record production is one of the greatest sources of American strength.

Polish Resistance

Often you hear it said that Russia doesn't want a big war now because she fears that her satellites would prove untrustworthy in battle.

All reports from the satellites indicate that the Russians are not loved by the peoples of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria. But there are wide differences among them in their will and their ability to combat their masters in Moscow.

The resistance movement in Poland is generally viewed as the strongest and most active. Indeed, the conduct of the Polish underground is an example to men of the resistance in other lands, and to all free peoples.

The Poles have a real resistance army, organized in secret cadres. They have stores of arms cached away. They are prepared for sabotage on an extensive scale. Taken together, these factors make them a genuinely dangerous threat to the Kremlin's control of Poland.

The regular Polish army, under command of Russian General Rokossovsky, is shot through with resistance members and sympathizers. As presently constituted, it can only be a huge question mark in Stalin's strategy for the conquest of western Europe.

The Polish peasants raised such a furore about certain restrictive, collectivizing proposals affecting their farms that the Kremlin's puppet government had to back down. In fact, the measures were so unpopular Moscow felt it necessary to liquidate the officials publicly labeled as responsible for them.

Yet with all this acknowledged strength, the Polish underground is playing an extremely cautious hand. The army trains, but it does not act. The arms are kept hidden. Factory slow - downs and incidents of sabotage do occur, but on a limited scale.

The mood is one of watchful waiting. The men of the underground, remembering Poland's costly premature uprising against the Nazis in World War II, are determined not to repeat that mistake. They do not intend to strike full force until they are convinced their moment of liberation has come.

When will that be? The Poles have no idea. But they are prepared to wait a long time. They are a people whose history is darkened by centuries of oppression. They are accustomed ot it, but they never accept it.

The Poles are not telling the West: "Liberate us now or our resistance will collapse. We cannot be expected to risk our lives indefinitely for a freedom that may never come."

They are not built that way. An unquenchable flame of independence burns in them, and no oppressor, however cruel, can snuff it out. Nor will the oppressor ever be made to feel at home in Poland.

If it is true the Russians are worried over the loyalty of their satellites in war, they must be troubled most of all by the fierce courage and the infinite patience of their tireless enemies, the Poles.

Uncle Sam Is In There Pitching

It is a safe bet that almost from the moment William Oatis, A. P. correspondent in Prague, was arrested by Czech police, the United States government has been working to secure his freedom.

The government never relaxed at any time its efforts to win the release of Robert Vogeler from his Hungarian prison, and they were finally fruitful. We must hope that once again careful planning and shrewd dealing will restore an innocent American to the normal life of the free world he knew.

Meantime, when you read of a senator or somebody else shouting that nothing is being done and that we ought to send the Marines after Oatis, take the charitable view. Just assume the gentleman doesn't understand how these things are accomplished.

George E. Sokolsky: THESE DAYS

POSITION OF EISENHOWER

By a process of self - elimination most of the perennial candidates for the presidential nomination in the Republican party have removed themselves. One of the most interesting contests at the present time is that betwen Thomas E. Dewey and Harold Stassen for secretary of state in an Eisenhower cabinet.

The case of General Dwight D. Eisenhower remains politically fascinating. He apparntly yearns to be president and an active campaign is being conducted from New York on his behalf for either a Republican of a Democratic nomination, or both. The campaign is being managed by George Allen, a capable politician and poker-playing friend of Harry Truman.

Since the days when he was regarded as the court jester of the Truman regime, George Allen has grown to be an important businessman, associated with the Victor Emanuel interests. He is no longer laughed at but with, which makes a tremendous difference. Seconding George Allen's efforts are such businessmen as Thomas Watson of the International Bus Machines Corporation, Winthrop Aldrich of the Chase National Bank and the Rockefeller interests, and most of the group who gave the Republicans Alf Landon, Wendell Willkie and Thomas E. Dewey.

It is strictly a New York crowd and represents the internationalism and so - called liberalism of the Park Avenue dinner parties. None of this is the fault of General Eisenhower, who, as a tyro in politics, belonging to no party, must take his friends where he can find them.

It is still not possible to know whether General Eisenhower is a Republican or a Democrat: He has made speeches in favor of private enterprise and the wickedness of big government and the rights of the individual, which caused a flutter of approval among those who have not found comfort in the socialistic concepts of Harry Truman. On the other hand, he has supported the total internationalist program of the state department.

General Eisenhower's candidacy is real and henceforth must be so regarded. The assumption that he is waiting to be drafted is strictly nonsense, because no political party in the United States needs to draft anyone. There are plenty of candidates as good as Eisenhower in both parties who would be willing to run.

The reason for Eisenhower's shynesss is that he cannot make up his mind which party is likely to win in 1952 and he also does not know exactly what Harry Truman intends to do. If Harry Truman withdraws from the race, the Democrats will need a candidate and it could be Chief Justice Vinson as well as General Eisenhower. If Harry Truman runs in 1952, Vinson can remain on the supreme court bench; then General Eisenhower would like to be a Republican.

All this is complicated by two factors: one is the towering position of Robert A. Taft, whom most Republicans, not living in the shadow of Park Avenue, would prefer as their candidate. The other is the presence in the United States of General Douglas MacArthur.

Taft speaks as Mr. Republican He leads his party and does so effectively. He has built a powerful Republican - southern Democratic coalition in the senate which has succeeded in arresting Truman socialism. His vote in Ohio proves his ability to be elected and the synthetic attack on the Taft - Hartley act has run its course. Taft would be a popular candidate among Republicans and independent Democrats who are weary of

Hal Boyle's Notebook

And 18 years on the bench have convinced her that only women can do anything permanent about reducing the crime rate in the United States.

"The men can't do it," she said flatly. "They have proved that.

"Today the womanpower of America should be saddled to clean up the country — physically and morally. But they can't do it by doing what men have been doing so long—merely paying lip service to democracy."

How can the ordinary housewife do anything about stopping crime?

"Well, she can't check it by merely seeing that her own children get home on time," said Judge Kross. "She has to be willing to do something about the kids on the other side of the railroad tracks. You can't get rid of smallpox just by inoculating the people who live on the hill.

The blunt - spoken little jurist —a mother herself—believes the whole approach to the problem of wiping out crime has been wrong. She believes the basic cure lies in creating happy families, and feels if a family is sick the individuals in it will be sick, too.

Judge Kross feels that explosures such as those made by the Kefauver committee do little real good.

"I have seen investigation after investigation make mayors, governors or senators," she said, "but the problem remains.

"It is all very well to stir up a community, to let it know what is really going on. But knowing what is going on and doing nothing about it—that is a real crime, too.

"We have to become realistic and face the music. Politics is corrupt not because of the politicians but because of the apathy of citizens. We have better government than we deserve."

Crime thrives, she added, because of "hypocrisy — and because everybody ducks responsibility.

"If there were a really serious desire to end crime in this country it could be done — by women. The women of any community can go to their chief of police and force him to clean it up."

But years of seeing a human tide of misery flow in and out of her court have convinced Judge Kross the final answer is this:

"We need more education for living. We are what our family background made us. Unless you take that into consideration, any other effort is meaningless."

"Wise is the child that knows how to choose his own parents. Nobody should be permitted to marry unless he can give proof he understands the responsibilities."

Building Housing Russian Delegates Is Picketed

New York, July 14—(AP)—Pickets paraded again today outside the building housing offices of the Russian delegation to the United Nations. They carried signs with such slogan as "Down with the Red imperialism."

Similar demonstrations a week ago and on other occasions have drawn protests by Soviet officials.

The picketing, outside the building entrance at 680 Park Avenue, was sponsored by the American-Hungarian federation. Thirty - six men and women marched in the line. One sign said:

"Let Stalin and any Communist murderers perish." Seven policemen and several radio cars were assigned to the area.

In Washington With BASCOM TIMMONS

The American press, which spares no expense to get full front line reports from its war correspondents, has learned again that the top level brass of the United States army is the hardest echelon of the armed services with which to cooperate.

Censorship is a constant barrier in the paths of all war correspondents, exercised at the discretion of officers delegated for that purpose by theater commanders, army or corps commanders, depending upon the circumstances of the particular operation.

When the Korean correspondents were first told they could not say a word about the arrival of the U. N. peace negotiators at Kaesong unarmed, only to be greeted by ranks of Communist troops under arms, the bureau chiefs in Washington pointed out one name and said:

"There he is again."

They were referring to Brig. Gen. Frank A. Allen, recently placed in charge of press relations for the United Nations in Korea, which makes him top press relations officer there.

General Allen is not unfamiliar to the American press. He was General Eisenhower's press relations officer in World War II, when he held up for 48 hours all dispatches on the German mass offensive which opened the Battle of the Bulge, while correspondents raged and swore. The general said that it was for "security reasons." Meanwhile the British Broadcasting broke the story.

When the U. S. swung to the counteroffensive, General Allen held back news of that until the correspondents got through to General Eisenhower, who authorized an immediate release of dispatches. But two U. S. weekly news magazines got it ahead of the dailies.

Allen later intimated that he had no authority to release the story, of vital interest to the home front. But the climax was on the Nazi surrender at Reims, when General Allen, flying there with war correspondents, announced on the plane that each of them must take an oath not to release the story until it had been approved by SHAEF headquarters.

One correspondent, Ed. Kennedy of the Associated Press, who later said he had refused to make such a pledge, flashed the story through London, which beat other correspondents by a few minutes, but forced SHAEF to release it to all.

Later General Allen was promoted to a higher post, in charge of all press relations for SHAEF, but with no cheers from most of the correspondents, who thought he had overstepped his authority on at least three occasions. But General Eisenhower upheld him on the Nazi surrender story. "Ike's" criticism was that the announcement of the surrender had to be held up because of an agreement with —the Russians!

Understandably, it was General Allen who imposed his censorial ban on any news of the reception of the U. N. peace negotiators in Korea by armed Reds, though he subsequently changed front, and the story immediately hit the front pages in the United States.

General Allen's presence in Korea is said here to be at the request of Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, who knew him in France. Aside from his press relations experience, General Allen had a distinguished combat record in two wars.

Since he went to Korea, censorship there has apparently been more inflexible than it was under the MacArthur command, though General MacArthur frequently had brushes with correspondents.

But this time, General Allen could not fall back on any agreement with the Russians to explain censorship. On this occasion, it was the United States which was not consulted and naively assumed that neither negotiating group would have an armed escort.

Announcement Gratifying

Announcement that the federal government has issued a certificate of necessity to Commercial Solvents Corporation for the expenditure of $20,458,000 for vast enlargement of facilities in the Sterlington ammonia and methanol plant is extremely gratifying to citizens of Sterlington, Monroe, and West Monroe, as well as those of Ouachita Parish as a whole.

Importance of the commodities produced by Commercial Solvents at Sterlington has long been recognized and the issuance by the government of a certificate of necessity is further proof that the manufacture of these products is of vital importance to the economic welfare and safety of the nation. The certificate of necessity granted 50 per cent amortization, which means the government expects at least half of the plant's output to affect the nation's security and prosperity.

This certificate of necessity is believed to be the first to be issued by the government for a plant of this kind since vital materials were placed under federal regulation.

Construction of additional plants and facilities will provide employment for a large number of men in the building trades for about a year and a half, as it is expected that this work will not be completed before the spring of 1953. Announcement was made that the contract is expected to be awarded to a contractor in the vicinity of Monroe and this should mean that a large proportion of the construction force will be employed from among men in this area. A large part of the cost of the building the plant will go for labor and this will mean that a good many millions of additional dollars will be poured into the Monroe area and that merchants and other business men should profit thereby.

Once the plant is completed, it is likely that about 150 employees will be added to the force of about 300 working there now. New facilities will double the capacity of the present plant but only about 50 per cent more employees will be needed. However, the addition of 150 regular jobs should help both Sterlington and Monroe materially.

There is also a possibility that gas requirements at the plant may bring additional explorations in this area. C. C. Boardman, superintendent, said that although the ammonia plant uses only about 30,000,000 cubic feet a day, the corporation at present has no assurance that an adequate supply can be obtained from nearby fields, since pipeline companies carrying gas to more distant areas have contracted for the gas in new fields. Among new fields mentioned in this category were the Milhaven and Hico fields.

Mr. Boardman said, however, that the required gas will be obtained and that the plant's new facilities should be in operation early in 1953. He said he is always boosting for Sterlington and that the proposed new facilities should give that town a substantial boost. We believe that Monroe and West Monroe and Ouachita Parish as a whole will also profit.

Farmer Meets A Challenge

The latest USDA crop forecast indicates that cotton growers have responded generously to the government's request for greater production this year. Plantings this spring are estimated at 29,510,000 acres, which, allowing for the normal abandonment of acreage, would mean a crop of about 29,000,000 acres as compared to only 18,600,000 acres in 1950. If weather and insect conditions are normal, growers may harvest 18,000,000 bales as compared to only 10,000,000 bales last year and a 1951 goal of 16,000,000 bales.

Indications are that the growers, in turn, will be rewarded for their effort in planting a bumper crop. Demand probably will be good, whether the war in Korea is settled or not. The trade recently has been bidding about 35 cents a pound for the new crop and it is expected that government price supports will be between 32 cents and 35 cents. If the harvest totals as much as 18,000,000 bales, the crop may be worth $3,000,000,000 an all - time record, compared to $2,000,000,000 last year.

In this emergency, as in many others, the farmer has come through. Barring catastrophic weather and insect conditions, the cotton growers will produce enough to assure the free world that there will be no shortage of its most important fiber. And there is no indication so far that the production of food and other vital crops will suffer because of the big increase in cotton. It represents an added effort on the part of cotton growers.

Food and fiber are as important to the national defense as bullets. The ability of American farmers to meet record needs with record production is one of the greatest sources of American strength.

The Polish peasants raised such a furore about certain restrictive, collectivizing proposals affecting their farms that the Kremlin's puppet government had to back down. In fact, the measures were so unpopular Moscow felt it necessary to liquidate the officials publicly labeled as responsible for them.

Yet with all this acknowledged strength, the Polish underground is playing an extremely cautious hand. The army trains, but it does not act. The arms are kept hidden. Factory slow - downs and incidents of sabotage do occur, but on a limited scale.

The mood is one of watchful waiting. The men of the underground, remembering Poland's costly premature uprising against the Nazis in World War II, are determined not to repeat that mistake. They do not intend to strike full force until they are convinced their moment of liberation has come.

When will that be? The Poles have no idea. But they are prepared to wait a long time. They are a people whose history is darkened by centuries of oppression. They are accustomed ot it, but they never accept it.

The Poles are not telling the West: "Liberate us now or our resistance will collapse. We cannot be expected to risk our lives indefinitely for a freedom that may never come."

They are not built that way. An unquenchable flame of independence burns in them, and no oppressor, however cruel, can snuff it out. Nor will the oppressor ever be made to feel at home in Poland.

If it is true the Russians are worried over the loyalty of their satellites in war, they must be troubled most of all by the fierce courage and the infinite patience of their tireless enemies, the Poles.

Uncle Sam Is In There Pitching

It is a safe bet that almost from the moment William Oatis, A. P. correspondent in Prague, was arrested by Czech police, the United States government has been working to secure his freedom.

The government never relaxed at any time its efforts to win the release of Robert Vogeler from his Hungarian prison, and they were finally fruitful. We must hope that once again careful planning and shrewd dealing will restore an innocent American to the normal life of the free world he knew.

Meantime, when you read of a senator or somebody else shouting that nothing is being done and that we ought to send the Marines after Oatis, take the charitable view. Just assume the gentleman doesn't understand how these things are accomplished.

George E. Sokolsky: THESE DAYS

POSITION OF EISENHOWER

By a process of self - elimination most of the perennial candidates for the presidential nomination in the Republican party have removed themselves. One of the most interesting contests at the present time is that betwen Thomas E. Dewey and Harold Stassen for secretary of state in an Eisenhower cabinet.

The case of General Dwight D. Eisenhower remains politically fascinating. He apparntly yearns to be president and an active campaign is being conducted from New York on his behalf for either a Republican of a Democratic nomination, or both. The campaign is being managed by George Allen, a capable politician and poker-playing friend of Harry Truman.

Since the days when he was regarded as the court jester of the Truman regime, George Allen has grown to be an important businessman, associated with the Victor Emanuel interests. He is no longer laughed at but with, which makes a tremendous difference. Seconding George Allen's efforts are such businessmen as Thomas Watson of the International Bus Machines Corporation, Winthrop Aldrich of the Chase National Bank and the Rockefeller interests, and most of the group who gave the Republicans Alf Landon, Wendell Willkie and Thomas E. Dewey.

It is strictly a New York crowd and represents the internationalism and so - called liberalism of the Park Avenue dinner parties. None of this is the fault of General Eisenhower, who, as a tyro in politics, belonging to no party, must take his friends where he can find them.

It is still not possible to know whether General Eisenhower is a Republican or a Democrat: He has made speeches in favor of private enterprise and the wickedness of big government and the rights of the individual, which caused a flutter of approval among those who have not found comfort in the socialistic concepts of Harry Truman. On the other hand, he has supported the total internationalist program of the state department.

General Eisenhower's candidacy is real and henceforth must be so regarded. The assumption that he is waiting to be drafted is strictly nonsense, because no political party in the United States needs to draft anyone. There are plenty of candidates as good as Eisenhower in both parties who would be willing to run.

The reason for Eisenhower's shynesss is that he cannot make up his mind which party is likely to win in 1952 and he also does not know exactly what Harry Truman intends to do. If Harry Truman withdraws from the race, the Democrats will need a candidate and it could be Chief Justice Vinson as well as General Eisenhower. If Harry Truman runs in 1952, Vinson can remain on the supreme court bench; then General Eisenhower would like to be a Republican.

All this is complicated by two factors: one is the towering position of Robert A. Taft, whom most Republicans, not living in the shadow of Park Avenue, would prefer as their candidate. The other is the presence in the United States of General Douglas MacArthur.

Taft speaks as Mr. Republican He leads his party and does so effectively. He has built a powerful Republican - southern Democratic coalition in the senate which has succeeded in arresting Truman socialism. His vote in Ohio proves his ability to be elected and the synthetic attack on the Taft - Hartley act has run its course. Taft would be a popular candidate among Republicans and independent Democrats who are weary of

And 18 years on the bench have convinced her that only women can do anything permanent about reducing the crime rate in the United States.

"The men can't do it," she said flatly. "They have proved that.

"Today the womanpower of America should be saddled to clean up the country — physically and morally. But they can't do it by doing what men have been doing so long—merely paying lip service to democracy."

How can the ordinary housewife do anything about stopping crime?

"Well, she can't check it by merely seeing that her own children get home on time," said Judge Kross. "She has to be willing to do something about the kids on the other side of the railroad tracks. You can't get rid of smallpox just by inoculating the people who live on the hill.

The blunt - spoken little jurist —a mother herself—believes the whole approach to the problem of wiping out crime has been wrong. She believes the basic cure lies in creating happy families, and feels if a family is sick the individuals in it will be sick, too.

Judge Kross feels that explosures such as those made by the Kefauver committee do little real good.

"I have seen investigation after investigation make mayors, governors or senators," she said, "but the problem remains.

"It is all very well to stir up a community, to let it know what is really going on. But knowing what is going on and doing nothing about it—that is a real crime, too.

"We have to become realistic and face the music. Politics is corrupt not because of the politicians but because of the apathy of citizens. We have better government than we deserve."

Crime thrives, she added, because of "hypocrisy — and because everybody ducks responsibility.

"If there were a really serious desire to end crime in this country it could be done — by women. The women of any community can go to their chief of police and force him to clean it up."

But years of seeing a human tide of misery flow in and out of her court have convinced Judge Kross the final answer is this:

"We need more education for living. We are what our family background made us. Unless you take that into consideration, any other effort is meaningless."

"Wise is the child that knows how to choose his own parents. Nobody should be permitted to marry unless he can give proof he understands the responsibilities."

Building Housing Russian Delegates Is Picketed

New York, July 14—(AP)—Pickets paraded again today outside the building housing offices of the Russian delegation to the United Nations. They carried signs with such slogan as "Down with the Red imperialism."

Similar demonstrations a week ago and on other occasions have drawn protests by Soviet officials.

The picketing, outside the building entrance at 680 Park Avenue, was sponsored by the American-Hungarian federation. Thirty - six men and women marched in the line. One sign said:

"Let Stalin and any Communist murderers perish." Seven policemen and several radio cars were assigned to the area.

And reported overhearing that Swanson once turned down the fabulous salary of $18,000 per week from a studio she did not prefer in that hazy-day Sennettville era. . . . A 70-ish doctor joyfully related as he shook Grandma (52) Swanson's hand: "I was state censor of your films for 20 years—and never had to cut a caper."

High and dry—Hedy Lamarr tells pals her blurbed auction of fineries was for cash for real estate, but T-men say taxes. . . . Incidentally, a family head with two dependents who earned $3000 in 1913 paid no taxes. In 1917 he paid $12. Now the same man pays $120, with dollars only half the value. . . . T-men have attached Xavier Cugat's fat fees from the Waldorf. A "baby-sitter" pays band members. The remainder is applied to Cugie's three-year-old tariff shortages.

In the works—"Seventeen," the Booth Tarkington novel set to tune, rates with Joe E. Brown's "Courtin' Time," among Broadway's top-musical successes that will find me frequently enjoying their air-conditioning on stifling evenings. . . . You're wrong if you think Van Johnson has the most trouble keeping abreast of his fan mail these days—it's little Arthur MacArthur. . . . Shelley Winters is rubbing a former boss's nose in his work this month. While her film is on the screen in the Paramount, Shelley's swimming-pooling in Hollywood. Georgie Kaye, who is still slaving for laughs on stage in the same theater, fired her as his comic stooge a few years ago. . . . Groucho Marx, Ella Logan and David Wayne have been approached for an autumn reopening of "Flahooley," which flopped early in its first spring.

Midtown mouthings — Imogene Coca postponed her trip to Europe for dentist's visits. She's kept six appointments in ten weeks, got as far as the chair four terrified times—but hasn't yet opened her mouth for drilling. . . . Comic book readers bought over 500,000 copies of "Cyrano de Bergerac" in cartoon editions. Shakespeare's works are also fast becoming best sellers in the funny-book field. . . . Jackie Robinson's friends say he'd just as soon give up baseball for a full-time career in combatting juvenile delinquency. . . . S. mediation board must think the striking airline pilots were "flighty," observes Dennis James.

Moving subject—Wish Theodore W. Kheel would let me in on his seven-league boot system. The former head of N. Y. C. labor relations division now has at least three other jobs. He's arbitrator of private transit links, head of a wage stabilization, section in Washington and chief of the mayor's board to examine legal claims of subway workers. Yet, while his wife Anne was hospitalized for surgery for nine weeks—Ted regularly journeyed far uptown for lunch with his Mrs.

Moving—Vaughan Monroe was caught with his lyrics down on his TV show when he forgot them and just stood there helpless—and lyricless. . . . A worse than price-war is on between a major concert agency and the independent managers. . . . The Jane Hadley who was Nancy Craig's secretary at station KMOX in St. Louis almost 25 years ago is now Mrs. Alben Barkley, the Veep's charming wife. . . . Joey Bishop, on the Arthur Murray TV show, claimed that he and another gent got caught in the subway rush and were pushed into Macy's against their will. The other victim, hearing Joey's protests, snorted: "You did not want to come to Macy's? How do you think I feel? I'm an executive of Gimbel's!"

New shingles—Saul "Red" Ritter may have to vote himself a cut in pay to stay out of new tax brackets, but come fall the wristband tycoon's resigned to sharing fame with a designing wife. When a Fifth avenue store learned that the current wardrobe of Lily Pons was a spare-time whim of millionheiress Melrod Ritter, up popped a contract for an August collection with enough paycheck attached to guarantee the missus a new set of fur coats. . . . When Herman E. Cooper, labor lawyer for C. I. O. and A. F. L. unions, was advised by his wife that there will be a new Cooper for Christmas, he expanded for cigar money. Took over legal matters of the movie operators' union formerly represented by Harry Sacher, convicted mouthpiece for the Foley Sq. Commies.

Travel log—Authoress Nina Wilcox Putnam returned from Mexico with more than a manuscript, a new full-length Spanish filming of one of her stories, "El Billetero." . . . Galo Plaza, debonair new president of Ecuador, descends on N. Y. for a reception this week after setting female hearts aflutter in Washington. His perfect diction, deft application of slang, South American jokes, drinks and Yankee-style dancing slayed Capital debs and delighted his state department "bodyguards."

In Washington With BASCOM TIMMONS

The American press, which spares no expense to get full front line reports from its war correspondents, has learned again that the top level brass of the United States army is the hardest echelon of the armed services with which to cooperate.

Censorship is a constant barrier in the paths of all war correspondents, exercised at the discretion of officers delegated for that purpose by theater commanders, army or corps commanders, depending upon the circumstances of the particular operation.

When the Korean correspondents were first told they could not say a word about the arrival of the U. N. peace negotiators at Kaesong unarmed, only to be greeted by ranks of Communist troops under arms, the bureau chiefs in Washington pointed out one name and said:

"There he is again."

They were referring to Brig. Gen. Frank A. Allen, recently placed in charge of press relations for the United Nations in Korea, which makes him top press relations officer there.

General Allen is not unfamiliar to the American press. He was General Eisenhower's press relations officer in World War II, when he held up for 48 hours all dispatches on the German mass offensive which opened the Battle of the Bulge, while correspondents raged and swore. The general said that it was for "security reasons." Meanwhile the British Broadcasting broke the story.

When the U. S. swung to the counteroffensive, General Allen held back news of that until the correspondents got through to General Eisenhower, who authorized an immediate release of dispatches. But two U. S. weekly news magazines got it ahead of the dailies.

Allen later intimated that he had no authority to release the story, of vital interest to the home front. But the climax was on the Nazi surrender at Reims, when General Allen, flying there with war correspondents, announced on the plane that each of them must take an oath not to release the story until it had been approved by SHAEF headquarters.

One correspondent, Ed. Kennedy of the Associated Press, who later said he had refused to make such a pledge, flashed the story through London, which beat other correspondents by a few minutes, but forced SHAEF to release it to all.

Later General Allen was promoted to a higher post, in charge of all press relations for SHAEF, but with no cheers from most of the correspondents, who thought he had overstepped his authority on at least three occasions. But General Eisenhower upheld him on the Nazi surrender story. "Ike's" criticism was that the announcement of the surrender had to be held up because of an agreement with —the Russians!

Understandably, it was General Allen who imposed his censorial ban on any news of the reception of the U. N. peace negotiators in Korea by armed Reds, though he subsequently changed front, and the story immediately hit the front pages in the United States.

General Allen's presence in Korea is said here to be at the request of Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, who knew him in France. Aside from his press relations experience, General Allen had a distinguished combat record in two wars.

Since he went to Korea, censorship there has apparently been more inflexible than it was under the MacArthur command, though General MacArthur frequently had brushes with correspondents.

But this time, General Allen could not fall back on any agreement with the Russians to explain censorship. On this occasion, it was the United States which was not consulted and naively assumed that neither negotiating group would have an armed escort.

Were Eisenhower not in the field ,Taft would, beyond doubt, be nominated. Dewey and Stassen are self - eliminated, so Taft's sailing would be smooth. However, with the New York sponsorship of Eisenhower, many complications have set in, particularly the prospect of an absolutely Dewey - controlled delegation from that state. A combination of New York, Pennsylvania and California could dominate or hog - tie the convention and guarantee the election of Harry Truman.

At that moment, General Douglas MacArthur would wield tremendous influence in the Republican party. All the factors in the Russell committee investigation, if one reads the records, justify the MacArthur position. His moral prestige in the country is enormous and will grow. He is as fearless politically as he is astutely competent and his personality is compelling. He can destroy the candidacy of Eisenhower beyond recovery if he sets out to do it.

This then is a complex situation for the party out of power and Harry Truman has reason to be grateful that the Republican party includes so many businessmen who, while masters of their jobs, are the world's worst politicians.

Jimmie Fidler IN HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, July 14.—As I've often commented before, this is a strange business—and by way of evidence for today, I'd like to cite the case of Kirk Douglas.

Less than four years ago, Kirk, an ex-waiter from New York, was an unknown; less than three years ago, despite a couple of fair supporting roles, he was still one of the Hollywood hoipolloi .In December of 1948, with the release of "A Letter to Three Wives," in which he played a featured role, he gained a bit of prominence — enough that had he remained at that level, he could probably have commanded a fair amount of work at, say, $10,000 a picture.

In 1949, Dame Fortune, the most unpredictable lady in Hollywood, took him in hand and shoved him into the title role of an independent picture—a "cheapie" as most feature productions go—and that picture proved to be a sensation, partly because of its honest merit and partly because it happened to be released at a time when pictures with any merit, whatsoever, were exceedingly few and far between.

On the strength of the role in "Champion,' 'Douglas signed a long term contract with Warner Brothers—a contract that made him one of the most envied stars in the movie industry. The "nobody" of two years ago was now guaranteed a minimum of two starring roles per year, at $100,000 per picture.

Wouldn't you be satisfied with so remarkable an overnight climb to fame and wealth?

Well, so was Kirk Douglas—for a few months. But in show business there is, apparently, no such thing as lasting satisfaction. For the past six months or so, he's been concentrating all his efforts on just one goal, to wit, getting out of that contract. He's "hot property," and, as such, figures he can earn evern more by "free lancing."

Now, I understand, he and the Warner Brothers bosses have reached an agreement. They'll give him the freedom he desires for $100,000—and he'll pay off the debt by working, sans salary, in one more W. B. film.

Had anyone told Kirk Douglas, on this day three years ago, that by 1951 he would be buying his way out of a contract worth $200,000 a year, he would have considered the teller insane.

Preview nights: Paramount's "Here Comes the Groom," starring Bing Crosby, Jane Wyman, Alexis Smith, Franchot Tone and James Barton is the most notetures of the year to date. It's hilarious comedy from its opening scene to its final fade-out, with Der Bingle playing a somewhat screwy newspaper reporter who wages an all-out campaign to win back the affections of a former fiancee (Jane Wyman) in the four days which remain before her scheduled marriage to the millionaire clubman portrayed by Franone a bumper crop of laughs—and a mighty thrill as you listen to a thirteen - year-old Italian girl named Anna Maria Alberghetti sing "Caro Nome." Better give "Here Comes the Groom" a top place on your "must see" list. . . . "No Highway," produced in England by 20th Century-Fox, co-stars James Stewart, Marlene Dietrich, Glynis Johns and Jack Hawkins. It's a thoroughly enjoyable mixture of sly comedy and "suspense drama"—precisely the kind of offering that is certain to please the average audience. . . . Warner Brothers' "On Moonlight Bay" teams Doris Day and Gordon MacRae in a frothy Technicolored filmusical based, rather remotely, on the "Penrod" stories by Booth Tarkington. There's a nostalgic appeal in the song numbers, for most of them are the big hits of 25 or 30 years ago, and there's enough comedy and romance between tunes to add up to a very palatable dish on a summertime movie menu. . . . Universal - International's "Iron Man," co-starring Jeff Chandler, Evelyn Keyes and Stephen McNally, is an off-the-beaten path story about a prizefighter who craves popularity and pays a high price to win it. Well-written, well-directed and well-acted, it should be well-received by most audiences. . . . "Calling Bulldog Drummond," an MGM offering made in England, has little to recommend it other than the presence of Walter Pidgeon in the title role. The plot has Drummond called back from retirement to solve a new series of crimes; personally I think it would have been wiser to leave him on the half-pay list.

The little girl who lives next door came running to her mother in great excitement the other afternoon. A beautiful butterfly had lit on her hand, and, "I never saw anything so beautiful!" she kept insisting. Listening, I couldn't help thinking what a strong argument there was in her admiration for that butterfly—an argument in support of the old contention that clothes make the man. The same little girl would hate ben in hysrics had a caterpillar fallen on her hand.

Sidney J. Romero Gets Fellowship

Sidney J. Romero, assistant professor of history and government in Southeastern Louisiana College, has been awarded a coveted Ford foundation faculty fellowship for a year's graduate work, it is announced by Dr. Gladney T. Tinsley, president.

Romero is one of 500 college instructors in the United States to receive the grant, the president said, adding that applications for foundations recently established fund for the advancement of education were approximately six thousand throughout the nation.

Objectives of the program are to promote improvements in instruction of the undergraduate level and to take out of immediate employment college instructors so as to relieve the anticipated over supply because of world conditions.

Romero, sponsor of the International Relations Club at Southeastern, also has taught at Oklahoma A and M and L. S. U. He received both his bachelors and masters degree at the state university.

Angelo Patri Our Children

One of the functions of parenthood is listening. Children must be free to tell their thoughts to their nearest and dearest, and that means to their fathers and mothers. A little child who has just begun to talk is likely to talk like a wound-up phonograph. Let him. Don't say, although you are tried almost beyond endurance, "For pity's sake, go play. You drive me crazy with your chatter."

If your child learns that you are not interested in his chatter, that you have no time to listen to him, he is going to bottle up his feelings and that is not going to help his mental and physical health one bit. Listen. Listen not only to the words but listen behind them, under them, through them to hear what is churning in his mind.

If you listen well you will detect signals of character formation, of fear, feelings of insecurity, jealousy, affection, generosity, ambition. You may detect a cry for help. This listening will enable you to help a child at the time he needs help and that timeliness is acutely important. Should it go by and his appeal, unconscious though it be, be allowed to pass unheeded it may work to his hurt.

A child who forms the habit of telling his mother and father all that happens to him, asking them questions, expressing his doubts and his hopes, will carry that trait into adolescence when he needs that trust and confidence most.

Don't be shocked by a display of ignorance, or of wrong ideas. Listen as impersonally as it is possible for a parent to do and without showing fear, shock, or blame, set the child right.

No intelligent child will mature without making mistakes. If he knows he can talk to his people about it, tell his story and be helpd he will be secure in his attitude toward people and toward life in general. Confession is therapeutic. Keeping a feeling of guilt smothered is inducing ill health in mind and body. It is better for a child to tell his story, free his mind of any pressure of guilt, any excess of feeling whether of joy or grief, then to bottle it up and cork it down with silence until the pressure blows the cork out.

Someone must listen. Better the parent than a stranger but if the parents' ears are not open, then a stranger must take over. Someone must listen with smypathy and understanding and wisdom. It might better be you.

Children well trained in obedience when they are little will reward their parents in later years. Dr. Patri tells how to train children in obedience from babyhood in his booklet No. 301, "Obedience." What Others Say Editors Roundtable

THE OATIS CASE

Reaction of a plurality of editors to the imprisonment of Associated Press Correspondent William Oatis in Czechoslovakia is limited now principally to agreement that the state department must, with the strongest diplomatic protests, work to secure Oatis' release quickly. A considerable minority feels the time has come for retaliatory action in such cases, but is uncertain what form such action should take at this time. A much larger minority argues that the time has come for ending diplomatic and trade relations with iron curtain nations ignoring rights of American citizens in such nations on legitimate business.

Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution (Dem.): "The 10 - year sentence given . . William N. Oatis . . . on trumped - up charges of espionage brings up the question of how much longer this country can tolerate the mistreatment of its nationals by the Communists. The pattern in the Oatis case is similar to that of the Robert Vogeler and other cases . . . Our state department has issued a stinging protest . . . But similar protests have followed every other such travesty and have proved ineffective. Surely it is getting time to consider retaliation."

Denver (Colo.) Post (Ind.): "It is unfortunate, but true, that there is not a great deal within reason that we can do as a nation to help Mr. Oatis at the moment. Eventually something will be done. . . . The United States and Britain could put a crimp in this kind of propaganda by issuing directives to all American and British nationals to confess readily to any crimes, if picked up by Communist police. Other nations could do the same. If this . . . were publicized over the Voice of America, the British Broadcasting Corporation and Radio Free Europe . . . we might even be able to put a stop to these trials by ridiculing them thus."

New York Times (Ind.-Dem.): "Clearly the Reds would not go on with purge after purge and trial after trial if they did not think the process was paying dividends or at least helping to keep them in power . . . What we see is an attack on the church and the western democracies, not in the hope of destroying them . . . but in order to undermine their influence inside the Communist bloc. And the method used is terror . . . What all of us would like to know is how we could make such tactics unprofitable now or in the immediate future."

Hartford (Conn.) Courant (Rep.): "Americans get hot under the collar when their fellow citizens, like Robert Vogeler in Hungary and now Mr. Oatis in Czechoslovakia, are caught in this terrorist machinery. . . . It would make us feel better if our government spoke loudly and swung a big stick. Yet the only retaliation that might be effective would be either to ape police - state methods ourselves by taking vengeance on hostages, or else to back our demands with the threat of war. One would mean giving up voluntarily all we are fighting for. The other should never be tried unless we meant war."

Asheville (N. C.) Citizen (Ind.-Dem.): "Later Oatis may be freed in some diplomatic trade between Washington and Prague, as Vogeler was . . . There have probably been good reasons in the past for delicate procedure in discussing such cases with the Russian satellites. Surely the time has come to hark back to American policy of other days — to say that American citizens, denied as Oatis and Vogeler were of consultation with any American lawyer or envoy, shall not be railroaded to prison to suit the domestic and foreign policies of some satellite despotism."

Chicago Sun - Times (Ind): "Some observers believe that Oatis was tried on trumped - up charges . . . so he can be held as a sort of hostage to force American concessions in related fields. Communists may demand American cessation of news broadcasts to the people of such nations in bondage as Czechoslovakia . . . But America cannot pull its punches in the cold war . . . If anything, America must step up its radio penetration of the iron curtain to hasten the day when the inhabitants of Communist police states will turn upon their oppressors and liberate not only men like Oatis but also themselves."

Washington (D. C.) News (Ind.): "It is time . . . to throw our own iron curtain around countries which do not conduct themselves as civillied nations . . . Cutting off trade and diplomatic relations would mean dealing with them in the only way they understand . . . Half of Czechoslovakia's favorable trade balance is accounted for by sales to the United States . . . Once this business is cut off they may begin to understand that relations between nations operate on a two - way street. The Reds laugh off our diplomatic protests. But it may not be so amusing when they lose a market for their goods."

THESE DAYS

Were Eisenhower not in the field ,Taft would, beyond doubt, be nominated. Dewey and Stassen are self - eliminated, so Taft's sailing would be smooth. However, with the New York sponsorship of Eisenhower, many complications have set in, particularly the prospect of an absolutely Dewey - controlled delegation from that state. A combination of New York, Pennsylvania and California could dominate or hog - tie the convention and guarantee the election of Harry Truman.

At that moment, General Douglas MacArthur would wield tremendous influence in the Republican party. All the factors in the Russell committee investigation, if one reads the records, justify the MacArthur position. His moral prestige in the country is enormous and will grow. He is as fearless politically as he is astutely competent and his personality is compelling. He can destroy the candidacy of Eisenhower beyond recovery if he sets out to do it.

This then is a complex situation for the party out of power and Harry Truman has reason to be grateful that the Republican party includes so many businessmen who, while masters of their jobs, are the world's worst politicians.

Jimmie Fidler IN HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, July 14.—As I've often commented before, this is a strange business—and by way of evidence for today, I'd like to cite the case of Kirk Douglas.

Less than four years ago, Kirk, an ex-waiter from New York, was an unknown; less than three years ago, despite a couple of fair supporting roles, he was still one of the Hollywood hoipolloi .In December of 1948, with the release of "A Letter to Three Wives," in which he played a featured role, he gained a bit of prominence — enough that had he remained at that level, he could probably have commanded a fair amount of work at, say, $10,000 a picture.

In 1949, Dame Fortune, the most unpredictable lady in Hollywood, took him in hand and shoved him into the title role of an independent picture—a "cheapie" as most feature productions go—and that picture proved to be a sensation, partly because of its honest merit and partly because it happened to be released at a time when pictures with any merit, whatsoever, were exceedingly few and far between.

On the strength of the role in "Champion," 'Douglas signed a long term contract with Warner Brothers—a contract that made him one of the most envied stars in the movie industry. The "nobody" of two years ago was now guaranteed a minimum of two starring roles per year, at $100,000 per picture.

Wouldn't you be satisfied with so remarkable an overnight climb to fame and wealth?

Well, so was Kirk Douglas—for a few months. But in show business there is, apparently, no such thing as lasting satisfaction. For the past six months or so, he's been concentrating all his efforts on just one goal, to wit, getting out of that contract. He's "hot property," and, as such, figures he can earn evern more by "free lancing."

Now, I understand, he and the Warner Brothers bosses have reached an agreement. They'll give him the freedom he desires for $100,000—and he'll pay off the debt by working, sans salary, in one more W. B. film.

Had anyone told Kirk Douglas, on this day three years ago, that by 1951 he would be buying his way out of a contract worth $200,000 a year, he would have considered the teller insane.

Preview nights: Paramount's "Here Comes the Groom," starring Bing Crosby, Jane Wyman, Alexis Smith, Franchot Tone and James Barton is the most notetures of the year to date. It's hilarious comedy from its opening scene to its final fade-out, with Der Bingle playing a somewhat screwy newspaper reporter who wages an all-out campaign to win back the affections of a former fiancee (Jane Wyman) in the four days which remain before her scheduled marriage to the millionaire clubman portrayed by Franone a bumper crop of laughs—and a mighty thrill as you listen to a thirteen - year-old Italian girl named Anna Maria Alberghetti sing "Caro Nome." Better give "Here Comes the Groom" a top place on your "must see" list. . . . "No Highway," produced in England by 20th Century-Fox, co-stars James Stewart, Marlene Dietrich, Glynis Johns and Jack Hawkins. It's a thoroughly enjoyable mixture of sly comedy and "suspense drama"—precisely the kind of offering that is certain to please the average audience. . . . Warner Brothers' "On Moonlight Bay" teams Doris Day and Gordon MacRae in a frothy Technicolored filmusical based, rather remotely, on the "Penrod" stories by Booth Tarkington. There's a nostalgic appeal in the song numbers, for most of them are the big hits of 25 or 30 years ago, and there's enough comedy and romance between tunes to add up to a very palatable dish on a summertime movie menu. . . . Universal - International's "Iron Man," co-starring Jeff Chandler, Evelyn Keyes and Stephen McNally, is an off-the-beaten path story about a prizefighter who craves popularity and pays a high price to win it. Well-written, well-directed and well-acted, it should be well-received by most audiences. . . . "Calling Bulldog Drummond," an MGM offering made in England, has little to recommend it other than the presence of Walter Pidgeon in the title role. The plot has Drummond called back from retirement to solve a new series of crimes; personally I think it would have been wiser to leave him on the half-pay list.

The little girl who lives next door came running to her mother in great excitement the other afternoon. A beautiful butterfly had lit on her hand, and, "I never saw anything so beautiful!" she kept insisting. Listening, I couldn't help thinking what a strong argument there was in her admiration for that butterfly—an argument in support of the old contention that clothes make the man. The same little girl would have ben in hysrics had a caterpillar fallen on her hand.

Sidney J. Romero Gets Fellowship

Sidney J. Romero, assistant professor of history and government in Southeastern Louisiana College, has been awarded a coveted Ford foundation faculty fellowship for a year's graduate work, it is announced by Dr. Gladney T. Tinsley, president.

Romero is one of 500 college instructors in the United States to receive the grant, the president said, adding that applications for foundations recently established fund for the advancement of education were approximately six thousand throughout the nation.

Objectives of the program are to promote improvements in instruction of the undergraduate level and to take out of immediate employment college instructors so as to relieve the anticipated over supply because of world conditions.

Romero, sponsor of the International Relations Club at Southeastern, also has taught at Oklahoma A and M and L. S. U. He received both his bachelors and masters degree at the state university.

Two Monroyans To Get Degrees

Natchitoches—Two students from Monroe are candidates for degrees from Northwestern State College at the end of the summer session Registrar Otis R. Crew has announced.

A total of 139 students mostly in the school of education are scheduled to receive either the bachelor of arts or the bachelor of science degree this summer.

Degree candidates from Monroe are:

Mrs. Cleora Laied Wilson (BA degree) and Mrs. Eleanor Claire McGee (BS degree).

LIONS PREPARING FOR ANNIVERSARY

Committees Put To Work On Plans For Celebration Of 30th Year

Plans are rapidly being formulated by members of the Monroe Lions club for the 30th anniversary celebration of the club, which will take place on the evening of August 7th.

A dinner will be served on the roof of the Francis Hotel, and various committees are going all out to make this occasion an event to be long remembered by local Lions.

While the state convention of the Louisiana Lions was being held in Baton Rouge in June of this year, a young lady appeared before the convention and proved to be a sensation. This young lady, Miss Karleen Buileau, who lives in the vicinity of Rayne, Louisiana, has been invited to attend the local celebration banquet, and local members can look forward something extraordinary if the young lady is able to accept the invitation.

An attempt is also being made to obtain a speaker from the group of officials of the Lions International. The name of the speaker has not been obtained, but local officials have been assured that a talented orator will appear here.

All committees have been appointed and have started to work on whatever assignments alloted to them.

The executive committee for the anniversary is as follows: R. M. Kettenring, president; A. B. Clarkson, anniversary chairman; C. D. McAdams and John F. Kelso, anniversary co-chairmen; L. E. Mathis, treasurer; Simon A. Johnson, banquet chairman; Garland Shell, chairman of music and microphone; George Moses, reception committee chairman.

Committes operating directly under the anniversary chairman are: W. Tom Davis, printing tickets and programs; Paul A. Voney, publicity; E. C. Gibson, guest speaker and program; Fran Brennan, ticket sales.

Committees under the second cochairman are: Mrs. P. A. Poag, decorations; W. W. Chapman, ticket collections; Bob Ellington, favors and door prizes; Guy Smith, seating.

All members will be permitted to bring their wives, and each one is urged to set aside August 7th to help make the anniversary celebration a splendid success.

HIGHWAY CREWS BUSY ON SEVERAL PROJECTS HERE; MORE TO COME

State highway crews are shown pushing toward completion of the DeSiard road widening project, which will extend from Five Points to the Missouri Pacific overpass and will cost more than a million dollars. Other projects in the city, financed with state aid, have been announced and work will start in the near future. The upper left photo shows part of the completed work on the east end of the DeSiard project. Top right shows use of the newly purchased Tru-Grader, a time and labor saving device which blades the road shoulder to the exact depth and width desired for pouring new concrete. Inspecting the grader are, left to right, Wayne Huckaby, maintenance engineer of the state highway department; Mayor John Coon and J. C. Watson, assistant state maintenance engineer. The new and modern district highway offices and warehouses are pictured in the lower left left photo, while the lower right picture shows crews pouring concrete on the DeSiard road job. estimated at 4,500 vehicles per day, and will be expedited approximately 20 per cent when the project is completed, Mr. Huckaby said. It will also provide a much safer highway, he added.

The work has been expedited by the use of a new machine, the Tru-Grader. The machine excavates dirt from the shoulders of the present slab to the exact width and depth desired with one stroke of a large blade. It has only recently been purchased by the highway department.

The state is purchasing ready mixed concrete locally for the DeSiard street job.

Other smaller jobs for which the state has furnished materials were those on Jackson, Texas and College avenues. Both the city and the parish shared in construction work on these three projects.

In addition to the city projects, there now are approximately 75 miles of asphalt roads in the parish, Mr. Drake said. A recent completion was the reconditioning, including asphalt surfacing, of the Milhaven road providing blacktop from Jackson street in Monroe to the intersection with Highway 80, a distance of four and a half miles.

While here, Mr. Huckaby discussed the improvement program for Highway 80 between Monroe and Shreveport. Much of the work of widening and improving the highway between here and Calhoun, and on the Shreveport end of the project already has been completed, other construction work is in progress and within 60 days all other phases of the program will either be under way or contracts will be let, he said.

Mr. Huckaby was accompanied here by J. C. Watson, assistant state highway maintenance engineer, and they were joined on the inspection tour by Frank Jones, construction superintendent of the local jobs.

Record Spending Approved In Eight Southern States

By James L. Thomasson

Atlanta, July 14.—(AP)— Record spending of more than $2,500,000,000 in the next two years has been authorized for the eight southern states having regular legislative sessions this year.

The eight are Florida, Alabama, South Carolina, Tennessee, North Carolina, Arkansas, Georgia and Texas. And Kentucky and Louisiana had special sessions which added about $25,000,000 to their budgets for the current year.

In some of the states, the budget bills admittedly appropritae sums greater than anticipated revenues.

But to finance the nearly $400,000,000 increase in spending authority, the eight legislatures nicked taxpayers with new or increased taxes expected to produce an extra $340,000,000 during the two-year period.

Georgia led the parade both in the larger size of its new budget and in additional tax charges. The annual appropriation is about $68,000,000 higher and the next tax increase will amount to around $70,000,000 a year.

The only deviation from the pattern was in Arkansas, where the budget for the next two years is $283,85,000, or some $9,500,000 less than for the two-year fiscal period which ended June 30. But even there, tax changes were made which are counted on to produce an additional $3,000,000 a year.

The hunt for new money also sent Texas into a new field of taxation for the first time since 1935. That state put a levy on "gathering" of natural gas.

Florida, with the second smallest budget of the group—$274,000,000 for the two year period—shows the lowest per capita tax burden for state operation—$47.44.

Alabama will have the smallest budget of the lot. The legislature there still is in session and has not acted on appropriations, but the administration budget bills seek spending authority of only $93,000,000 for the fiscal year beginning October 1, plus about $9,000,000 to make up a deficit.

Georgia's new budget authorizes expenditures of $207,000,000 in the new fiscal year, if the money becomes available. The state spent $139,000,000 in the year just ended.

To finance the greatly expanded spending program, Gov. Herman Talmadge offered a tax revision program, most of which the legislature adopted. It repealed emergency taxes of two cents a bottle on beer, two cents a package on cigarets and a cent a gallon on gasoline and more than 100 so-called nuisance taxes, which had been returning about $30,000,000 a year.

But a tough three per cent sales and use tax, which hits virtually every transaction, was adopted. It is expected to produce about $100,000,000 annually. Together with normal collections from other sources, that indicates a $210,000,000 income for the new year—or a per capita tax load of about $61.

Also, Talmadge has announced that he will eliminate all but a small fraction of the state property tax next year. It has been returning about $7,500,000 a year.

In Arkansas, with the smallest population among the eight states, anticipated revenue for the next two years is only $132,000,000 a year, but this will make its per capita tax load about $73, one of the highest.

Although the appropriations for the biennium are under those for the period just ended, they still are around $12,500,000 a year higher than expected income.

Much of the difference is due to the fact that appropriation bills were based on an anticipated one per cent increase in the state's two per cent sales tax. That increase, which would have meant about $12,000,000 a year, was defeated in the regular session. A few days later Gov. Sid McMath called a sepcial session to increase the sales tax for the benefit of schools and again the proposal failed. Also rejected was McMath's proposed tax of two cents a bottle on soft drinks.

But the Arkansas legislators did increase taxes about $2,000,000 a year by hiking the cigaret tax from four to six cents a package and about $1,000,000 a year by reducing wholesale and retail markups on liquor under the state's fair trades liquor price law.

The Texas legislature, faced with obligations incurred by the previous legislative session which did not put up the required money, raised taxes about $32,500,000 a year.

About $14,000,000 a year will come from the new tax of forty-five one hundredths of one cent per 1,000 cubic feet on gathering natural gas. Texas has taxed the production of gas for many years, but the gathering tax was the first new levy in the state in 16 years. The remainder of the tax increase comes from boosted rates on standard taxes on oil, gas, sulphur, beer, cosmetics and other items by ten per cent.

Texas' appropriation of $151,000,000 a year for general state services, is about the same as for the two previous fiscal years.

Florida didn't see the need for any new taxation, but made some changes in its three per cent sales tax, which may bring in an extra $2,000,000 a year.

One small reduction was granted by requiring the first penny tax to be collected on 11 cents instead of 10. The change exempts purchases of 10 cents or less. Previously the exemption applied only to purchases of nine cents or less.

However, the exemption on amusement admissions was dropped from 41 cents to 40 cents, to tax most adult theater tickets. The tax also was applied to packaged candy selling for 50 cents ore more and on the first six months of hotel and apartment rentals.

The budget for the two-year period—$274,000,000—is less than five per cent above most estimates of income for the period, and may give the state its most nearly balanced budget in years.

The Alabama legislature, which stretches its session into months by meeting only two or three days a week has hiked the sales tax in that state from two to three per cent. The movie is counted on for an extra $20,000,000 annually in revenue.

The appropriation bills are yet to be acted on. But the administration general fund appropriation bill asks $20,465,306, an increase of just over $50,000 more than for the current year. The education appropriation bill figure is $72,589,804, a boost of more than $11,000,000 above that for the current year.

The Alabama legislature, however, has appropriated $778,000 for prisons during the remainder of this fiscal year. The money goes to build a "little Alcatraz" for incorrigibles at Kilby State Prison, and to raise guards' salaries.

South Carolina is another state with a new sales tax—also three per cent. There it is expected to bring in about $30,000,000 a year. The new tax will hike state income to about $150.000,000 for a per capita load of about $75.

Along with the new sales tax, South Carolina also offered its citizens some tax relief. Two cents was cut from the six-cents a bottle beer tax and two cents dropped from the five cents a package cigaret tax. Individual income tax payments were reduced slightly by increasing exemptions and allowing deduction of federal income taxes up to $500.

The budget kept pace with anticipated revenues, being increased to $150,000,000 as compared with $120,000,000 this year.

Tennessee expects the increase from three cents to five cents in the cigaret tax to add $3,500,000 a year. A similar amount is expected from elimination of federal tax deductions in figuring the state corporation excise tax.

The state counts on revenue of $164,000,000 a year, or $49.91 per capita.

Appropriations included about $100,000,000 for general fund purposes, an increase of about $9,000,000. An indefinite amount was appropriated for highways, but the highway budget calls for $30,876,700 a year, the same as for the previous year. The $9,837,662 appropriation for payment on the state debt was about the same as in the previous yerar also.

North Carolina made no major tax changes, but it expects general fund tax collections of about $161,000,000 a year, and a total per capita rate of about $63.

The second largest state in the group, its new budget is $253,000,000 for each of the next two years, or $506,000,000 as compared with budget of $437,562,000 for the two-year period just ended. The general fund budget was based on anticipation of continued inflation. appropriated $16,150,600 additional for the new fiscal year for highways, hospitals and civil defense. Most of it came from a $13,000,000 surplus on hand June 30.

The Kentucky special session also dipped into a growing treasury surplus to $9,250,000 for school teachers, welfare payments and hospitals and prisons.

Greek Officer Gives Up Swim Of English Channel

Calais, France, July 14—(AP)—Observers on the French coast said today that Greek Army Maj. Jason Zirganos had abandoned his attempt to swim the English Channel when only a little more than a mile from Cap Gris Nez, France.

Zirganos, making the first bid of the season to swim the channel, entered the water at Dover at 1:57 a. m. GMT (8:57 p .m., Friday EST). He was attempting to swim it the hard way, from England to France, choosing the direction offering the rougher tides.

Eyewitnesses said they watched Zirganos through fileld - glasses from a seaside cafe. They added he had missed a favorable tide and struggled vainly for some time without making any progress.

Finally, a small boat put out from a vessel convoying Zirganos and picked him up, the observers said. This was timed at 8:50 p. m., (2:50 p. m. EST). The party headed back for England without touching French soil.

LIONS PREPARING FOR ANNIVERSARY

Committees Put To Work On Plans For Celebration Of 30th Year

Plans are rapidly being formulated by members of the Monroe Lions club for the 30th anniversary celebration of the club, which will take place on the evening of August 7th.

A dinner will be served on the roof of the Francis Hotel, and various committees are going all out to make this occasion an event to be long remembered by local Lions.

While the state convention of the Louisiana Lions was being held in Baton Rouge in June of this year, a young lady appeared before the convention and proved to be a sensation. This young lady, Miss Karleen Buileau, who lives in the vicinity of Rayne, Louisiana, has been invited to attend the local celebration banquet, and local members can look forward something extraordinary if the young lady is able to accept the invitation.

An attempt is also being made to obtain a speaker from the group of officials of the Lions International. The name of the speaker has not been obtained, but local officials have been assured that a talented orator will appear here.

All committees have been appointed and have started to work on whatever assignments alloted to them.

The executive committee for the anniversary is as follows: R. M. Kettenring, president; A. B. Clarkson, anniversary chairman; C. D. McAdams and John F. Kelso, anniversary co-chairmen; L. E. Mathis treasurer; Simon A. Johnson, banquet chairman; Garland Shell, chairman of music and microphone; George Moses, reception committee chairman.

Committees under the second co-chairman are: Mrs. P. A. Poag, decorations; W. W. Chapman, ticket collections; Bob Ellington, favors and door prizes; Guy Smith, seating.

All members will be permitted to bring their wives, and each one is urged to set aside August 7th to help make the anniversary celebration a splendid success.

HIGHWAY CREWS BUSY ON SEVERAL PROJECTS HERE; MORE TO COME

State highway crews are shown pushing toward completion of the DeSiard road widening project, which will extend from Five Points to the Missouri Pacific overpass and will cost more than a million dollars. Other projects in the city, financed with state aid, have been announced and work will start in the near future. The upper left photo shows part of the completed work on the east end of the DeSiard project. Top right shows use of the newly purchased Tru-Grader, a time and labor saving device which blades the road shoulder to the exact depth and width desired for pouring new concrete. Inspecting the grader are, left to right, Wayne Huckaby, maintenance engineer of the state highway department; Mayor John Coon and J. C. Watson, assistant state maintenance engineer. The new and modern district highway offices and warehouses are pictured in the lower left left photo, while the lower right picture shows crews pouring concrete on the DeSiard road job. estimated at 4,500 vehicles per day, and will be expedited approximately 20 per cent when the project is completed, Mr. Huckaby said. It will also provide a much safer highway, he added.

The work has been expedited by the use of a new machine, the Tru-Grader. The machine excavates dirt from the shoulders of the present slab to the exact width and depth desired with one stroke of a large blade. It has only recently been purchased by the highway department.

The state is purchasing ready mixed concrete locally for the DeSiard street job.

Other smaller jobs for which the state has furnished materials were those on Jackson, Texas and College avenues. Both the city and the parish shared in construction work on these three projects.

In addition to the city projects, there now are approximately 75 miles of asphalt roads in the parish, Mr. Drake said. A recent completion was the reconditioning, including asphalt surfacing, of the Milhaven road providing blacktop from Jackson street in Monroe to the intersection with Highway 80, a distance of four and a half miles.

While here, Mr. Huckaby discussed the improvement program for Highway 80 between Monroe and Shreveport. Much of the work of widening and improving the highway between here and Calhoun, and on the Shreveport end of the project already has been completed, other construction work is in progress and within 60 days all other phases of the program will either be under way or contracts will be let, he said.

Mr. Huckaby was accompanied here by J. C. Watson, assistant state highway maintenance engineer, and they were joined on the inspection tour by Frank Jones, construction superintendent of the local jobs.

Record Spending Approved In Eight Southern States

By James L. Thomasson

Atlanta, July 14.—(AP)— Record spending of more than $2,500,000,000 in the next two years has been authorized for the eight southern states having regular legislative sessions this year.

The eight are Florida, Alabama, South Carolina, Tennessee, North Carolina, Arkansas, Georgia and Texas. And Kentucky and Louisiana had special sessions which added about $25,000,000 to their budgets for the current year.

In some of the states, the budget bills admittedly appropritae sums greater than anticipated revenues.

But to finance the nearly $400,000,000 increase in spending authority, the eight legislatures nicked taxpayers with new or increased taxes expected to produce an extra $340,000,000 during the two-year period.

Schoolboy Painter Doesn't Mind Kidding But His Art Is Serious

New Iberia, La., July 14.—(AP)—Perhaps there is something to the theory that environment is more influential than heredity. It certainly seems so in the case of 17-year-old Robert Gordy of New Iberia, La., who recently won top honors in the national scholastic art awards exhibition in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Robert's folks can recall no one on either side of the family who was talented with brushes and paints. The only clue to Robert's budding art is his birthplace.

The south Louisiana lad was born at Jefferson Island, La., in the old Joe Jefferson home. Joe Jefferson, famed actor of a generation or two ago, also was a successful painter.

The youngest of the three sons of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gordy, Robert, from his diaper days, liked scribbling fanciful pictures. However, it wasn't until about four years ago that he became seriously interested in the so-called "modern art" which is now his favorite hobby.

About 1947 Robert began attending art classes sponsored by the then newly organized Iberia Art Association. He also enrolled in a couple of night art courses at Southwestern Louisiana Institute, Lafayette, La., and painted his first modern piece as an experiment.

Robert says his style is hard to explain but classifies his art as expressionistic with emphasis on child-like fantasy—primitive elements combined with strong color and good design.

As a teen-ager and a mere novice in the field he thinks his style changes each day with each painting but no doubt about it, Robert's art is modern.

Robert is a senior in the New Iberia High School. After graduation he plans to study art education at Southwestern Louisiana Institute, then go east for his master's degree, and some day to teach art in a college or university. His ambition is a one-man show in New York.

How does he develop a painting? He selects a subject,,then thinks about it. He decides what the most impressive feature of the subject is, and then emphasizes that feature.

That must be one way of doing it, because Robert recently won the distinction of having a full-page color illustration published in the "It's All Yours" May issue of Seventeen magazine. That issue was written, illustrated and edited by teen-agers. Robert illustrated the prize-winning short story.

Robert entered 17 paintings in the national scholastic art awards exhibition, and 13 of the 17 were hung. In the regional scholastic art exhibition which preceded the national show, Robert won 17 achievement keys with 18 paintings entered. In last year's national scholastic art awards, he won the Strathmore award for the best painting from the Louisiana district.

The young artist takes a lot of ribbing from his teen-aged friends (who call him Bobby), mostly because of his paintings just don't make much sense to them. However, Robert doesn't mind a little kidding and has a wide circle of friends.

Besides painting, Robert likes a variety of sports, including swimming, but "my favorite sports are horseback riding—and dating." He likes girls and dancing and when there's nothing much going on among his crowd, he reads the traditional teen-age literature.

Robert lives in a large, comfortable brick home on the banks of the famed Bayou Teche of Longfellow's "Evangeline." His father is an executive in an area salt company.

10-Year-Old Negro Girl Gives Birth To Baby

Picayune, Miss., July 1—(AP)—A 10-year-old unmarried Negro girl gave birth to a seven-pound, three-ounce baby boy, Dr. J. I. Woodward reported today.

The physician, who delivered the baby yesterday, said both mother and baby are doing well.

The girl's mother, the baby's grandmother, is 23, Dr. Woodward said.

"I don't know whether she is the youngest mother on record in this country or not but in my 15 years of practice I've never heard of one younger," the physician added.

PRESIDENT OKAYS HELP FOR KANSAS

Truman Says State Disaster Area, Asks Multi-Million Dollar Relief

Washington, July 14. —(AP)—President Truman officially decreed today that flood - stricken Kansas and Missouri are "disaster areas" and the federal government acted to rush multi-million dollar relief.

By designating the flooded sections as disaster areas, the president invoked a federal law allowing government agencies to take emergency steps. For example, the army can send cots and tents from its stores.

The president put Raymond M. Foley, federal housing administrator, in charge of all federal aid. In a letter to Foley, the president called the flood havoc "unprecedented."

A $15,000,000 emergency appropriation won quick approval from a house subcommittee. This is in addition to the sums already available.

Chairman Cannon (D-Mo.) of the house appropriations committee said his group would take it up Monday morning and be ready for the house to act when it meets at noon.

The money would be a grant to President Truman's disaster relief fund. Mr. Truman asked for it, and speedily, after hearing from the chief of army engineers that this was "much the worst flood in the history of the area." Such relief bills usually go through fast.

Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick of the engineers reported to Mr. Truman from Kansas City that the flood has displaced 500,000 people and damages "easily exceed $500,000,000."

Clement Attlee, British prime minister, sent a message to the president expressing "my lively sympathy" with him and the people in the flood area.

Rep. Cannon said his committee expects the money to be used to feed, shelter and clothe refugees, restore communications and transportation facilities, replace houses on their foundations and other rehabilitation and to take sanitary measures against the danger of pestilence.

Congressmen from Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma testified at the usual Saturday session of the appropriations subcommittee. They said damage would run to about $1,000,000,000.

Mr. Truman also asked Secretary of Agriculture Brannan to see that necessary food is available and to provide loans and other help for farmers to "help get them started again when the flood waters recede."

Brannan promised help "not only to farmers but to all others who can be aided by our facilities."

The department offered surplus food stocks to the Kansas department of welfare. Some supplies of dried eggs, dried skim, milk, beans and probably cheese are already in the state.

Disaster loans to farmers are available through the farmers home administration of the agriculture department. Department records show also that about 13,000 Kansas farmers are covered by federal crop insurance; at least 5,000 of these are reported to have been flooded. In general, the insurance protects a farmer up to the amount he spent to produce the 1951 crop.

No Rabies Cases In 1951 Reported

Not one case of rabies during the first six months of this year was reported in the entire state of Louisiana, a report received by Dr. H. H. Baur, veterinarian, from the livestock sanitary board at Baton Rouge showed. This was considered extremely unusual, as the summer season, when rabies is usually at its worst, is well advanced.

One case of tetanus among animals was reported. Parasitism showed the highest incidence of all ailments, 123 cases of this kind being reported. Next highest in incidence was hog cholera, of which there were 30 cases. Up to June 30, four cases of anthrax had been reported but several cases have been reported since that time. None of the cases reported since then, however, have been in Ouachita parish.

Schoolboy Painter Doesn't Mind Kidding But His Art Is Serious

New Iberia, La., July 14.—(AP)—Perhaps there is something to the theory that environment is more influential than heredity. It certainly seems so in the case of 17-year-old Robert Gordy of New Iberia, La., who recently won top honors in the national scholastic art awards exhibition in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Robert's folks can recall no one on either side of the family who was talented with brushes and paints. The only clue to Robert's budding art is his birthplace.

The south Louisiana lad was born at Jefferson Island, La., in the old Joe Jefferson home. Joe Jefferson, famed actor of a generation or two ago, also was a successful painter.

The youngest of the three sons of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gordy, Robert, from his diaper days, liked scribbling fanciful pictures. However, it wasn't until about four years ago that he became seriously interested in the so-called "modern art" which is now his favorite hobby.

About 1947 Robert began attending art classes sponsored by the then newly organized Iberia Art Association. He also enrolled in a couple of night art courses at Southwestern Louisiana Institute, Lafayette, La., and painted his first modern piece as an experiment.

Robert says his style is hard to explain but classifies his art as expressionistic with emphasis on child-like fantasy—primitive elements combined with strong color and good design.

As a teen-ager and a mere novice in the field he thinks his style changes each day with each painting but no doubt about it, Robert's art is modern.

Robert is a senior in the New Iberia High School. After graduation he plans to study art education at Southwestern Louisiana Institute, then go east for his master's degree, and some day to teach art in a college or university. His ambition is a one-man show in New York.

How does he develop a painting? He selects a subject,,then thinks about it. He decides what the most impressive feature of the subject is, and then emphasizes that feature.

That must be one way of doing it, because Robert recently won the distinction of having a full-page color illustration published in the "It's All Yours" May issue of Seventeen magazine. That issue was written, illustrated and edited by teen-agers. Robert illustrated the prize-winning short story.

Robert entered 17 paintings in the national scholastic art awards exhibition, and 13 of the 17 were hung. In the regional scholastic art exhibition which preceded the national show, Robert won 17 achievement keys with 18 paintings entered. In last year's national scholastic art awards, he won the Strathmore award for the best painting from the Louisiana district.

The young artist takes a lot of ribbing from his teen-aged friends (who call him Bobby), mostly because of his paintings just don't make much sense to them. However, Robert doesn't mind a little kidding and has a wide circle of friends.

Besides painting, Robert likes a variety of sports, including swimming, but "my favorite sports are horseback riding—and dating." He likes girls and dancing and when there's nothing much going on among his crowd, he reads the traditional teen-age literature.

Robert lives in a large, comfortable brick home on the banks of the famed Bayou Teche of Longfellow's "Evangeline." His father is an executive in an area salt company.

10-Year-Old Negro Girl Gives Birth To Baby

Picayune, Miss., July 1—(AP)—A 10-year-old unmarried Negro girl gave birth to a seven-pound, three-ounce baby boy, Dr. J. I. Woodward reported today.

The physician, who delivered the baby yesterday, said both mother and baby are doing well.

The girl's mother, the baby's grandmother, is 23, Dr. Woodward said.

"I don't know whether she is the youngest mother on record in this country or not but in my 15 years of practice I've never heard of one younger," the physician added.

FRANCO PLANS

the sources said. They are:

Labor Minister Jose Anotonio Giron De Velasco, leader of the left wing of the falange government party and a devoted follower of Franco.

Air Minister General Eduardo Gallarza, a monarchist who just returned from the United States with enthusiastic accounts of what he saw there.

Usually reliable sources said Franco told his outgoing ministers:

1—Spain must tighten her relations with the western world, principally with the United States.

2—Spain must play her part in preparing against Communist aggression, but to do this she must have American financial and war material aid.

3—The ministers would have to make way for new faces to carry out this policy.

A numble concessions to public opinion in the Democratic countries are expected to come from the new administration.

First of these concessions is scheduled to be greater freedom of the press. For the first time there will be a minister of information in the new government to carry this out, informants said.

These sources said Navy Captain Luis Arrero Blanco, present sub-secretary of the presidency of the government and close adviser to Franco, will be promoted to minister to relieve Franco of day-to-day affairs, and permit Franco to concentrate on top policy. In reality, the captain will become a sort of second-rank chief of government while the generalissimo will concentrate on being chief of state.

Madrid buzzed with talk of the new political situation.

Lists of forthcoming ministers circulated from hand to hand throughout the day. Nearly everybody had different ideas as to whom they will be. The lists will undoubtedly change considerably before the decrees officially announcing them appear in the state journal.

OFFERS TO POST

McDonald today with the $10,000 for bail. She said the money was her own.

"Where did you get this $10,000?" asked Assistant U. S. Attorney Roy M. Cohn.

Mrs. Mary Kaufman, attorney for the bail fund, objected on the ground the law did not require inquiry into the source when it was in cash.

McDonald over-ruled her objection, whereupon Mrs. Kaufman said Miss Alexander's offer was withdrawn.

Mrs. Kaufman said Hunton was prepared to offer $10,000 of his own money as bail for himself, but would refuse to answer questions as to its source.

She asked Cohn whether he intended to question Hunton on that point. Cohn declined to stipulate. McDonald then adjourned action on Hunton's bail until Monday. He suggested it be taken up with Judge Ryan at that time.

The four missing Communist leaders, objects of an intensive FBI search, are Gus Hall, Henry Winston, Robert Thomson and Gilbert Green.

They were among the 11 Communist leaders convicted on a charge of conspiring to advocate and teach violent overthrow of the United States government.

They failed to appear in court with the other seven on July 2 to start serving their prison terms.

Ryan expects to resume hearings Monday in the bail tangle involving 14 secondary Communist leaders indicted on the same charge as the 11.

They were free on bail during the weekend.

Judge Hand, however, ordered their bail reinstated—at least until Ryan completes his hearings on various government and defense motions concerning the bail—and Ryan ordered the 14 released from detention yesterday.

They were among 21 named in one indictment. Three of the 21 are free under bail arrangements not involving the civil rights congress and four are fugitives who never appeared in answer to the indictment.

try's taxpayers must pay part of the mailing costs.

Most of the incoming material is prepared in foreign languages "in the form of bulletins, newspapers and magazines which are cunningly designed to appeal principally to our citizens whose ancestry is traceable to one of the countries which has been taken over by the Communists," the Senator said.

O'Conor said leaders of various nationalistic groups in this country had complained about "this new tack in the Communist infiltration drive."

He called it a "real threat to the continued loyalty of many first- and second generation citizens."

"While I have no doubt that the vast majority of the recipients of this propaganda material are loyal Americans, I am determined that this poison shall not be injected into the life blood of our society," O'Conor said.

Post officials said they now have authority to ban four classes of mail: obscene, indecent, profane, or promoting a lottery.

Normally the mail is not opened or checked unless complaints are filed as to sources of illegal material.

O'Conor said he is having existing laws reviewed to see what is needed to stop the Communist propaganda, saying:

"Surely the United States government is not helpless to deny the use of the United States mail service to the Kremlin's propaganda agents."

MORE WATER

closed as officials struggled to maintain essential services.

Governor Forrest Smith of Missouri had proclaimed a state of emergency for the entire state and announced he planned to fly to Washington to discuss flood aid for the stricken areas.

President Truman, himself a resident of suburban Independence, Mo., asked congressional leaders today to rush through an emergency appropriation of $15,000,000 for flood relief in Kansas and Missouri. A house appropriations subcommittee quickly approved the grant. It will be submitted to the full committee Monday.

Secretary of Agriculture Brannan ordered unlimited supplies of surplus food shipped into the area.

The 2,000-acre Fairfax district is the newest of the city's industrial areas, developed within the last 20 years. It is located directly across the Missouri river from the municipal airport of Kansas City, Mo. Its big oil refineries are familiar sights to plane passengers.

It also houses the General Motors assembly plants. Police were escorting volunteers who were driving fleets of new cars from the plants in an effort to save them.

The dike break climaxed a day-long fight. Back water from sewers and a leak near the junction of the Kansas and Missouri rivers threatened the district since early morning.

The newest break endangered the water plant of Kansas City, Kas., located in the Missouri river lowlands at the northwest edge of the district.

Kansas City, Mo.'s water system already is cripple by flooding of Turkey Creek pumping station which normally handles two-thirds of that city's supply.

The break in the dike also put the Jersey Creek pumping station of the Kansas City, Kas., sewage system out of commission, adding to the city's health problems.

Three more deaths today brought the toll of the floods in Missouri and Kansas to 17.

At Glasgow, Mo., the last bridge between Kansas City and St. Louis Mo., was closed to traffic.

At Washington, the White House said Maj. Gen. Pick, chief of the army engineers, had estimated there were 500,000 persons displaced by the floods in two states.

A spokesman for General Pick said at Kansas City that by "displaced" the general meant not only homeless, but those persons stranded on trains, unable to get to their accustomed business places or follow their normal activities. The Red Cross has estimated there are 70,000 persons homeless in the two-state area.

General Pick said losses in the flood would exceed $500,000,000. This exceeds the highest previous destruction, figured dollarwise, which was $481,000,000 in the Ohio and Mississippi river floods of 1937. The inflated dollar now makes the cost figure of the present flood higher than it would have been in 1937.

The flood situation still was bad in Kansas, but the Kansas City area was hit hardest.

Citizens were instructed to boil all water and in many sections were ordered to restrict its use to human consumption. Typhoid immunization stations were set up in several districts.

The water supply in Kansas City, Mo., had diminished to a trickle in some areas. It was cut first by the flooding of the Turkey Creek pumping station which normally handles two thirds of the volume, and then still further as firemen fought a blaze that devastated two square blocks at Roanoke Road and Southwest Boulevard in the flood area. Much of the fire-fighting water supply, however, was being pumped from the flood, itself.

New explosions spread the fire this morning, 24 hours after a blast touched it off and the unusual quiet in the metropolis was shattered by sirens through the morning as more and more fire companies were called in an effort to stem the blaze. Fireman said damage from the fire might exceed $1,000,000.

The known death toll for the two states from the flood rose to 14 as a sightseer drowned in the Missouri river flood water. No one can say how many may be missing as persons so reported often appear later at refugee stations.

RESERVE CALL

hearings on a new proposed reserve law.

Brooks said a new reserve program must be so set up and managed that what he called the recent errors and injustices will "not again be visited on American citizens."

In the rush to build up strength to meet the Communist aggression, the committee said in its report, grandfathers in the inactive reserve were called up while youngsters in the organized reserve were left at home.

"Enlisted men with multiple dependents — one with ten children— were involuntarily ordered to duty while single men remained behind because of their membership in an organized unit.

"Reservists were picked out of college and ordered to report for actirve duty in amatter of days while their draft - protected non-veteran school mates continued to safely lounge on the campus."

Many inactive reservists, employed in essential industries, were called up who should not have been, the report continued.

The subcommittee said it was understandable that the armed forces was in a hurry.

There was a pressing need for individual men and officers to fill out regular units.

As a result many inactive reservists were called up before the organized reserve organizations, such as the national guard, while there had been a general belief that the organized reserve would be called first and the inactive reserve only as a last resort.

The report pointed out that as of April 1 there was a total of 650,100 reservists on active duty of whom 177,888 were officers and 72,212 were enlisted men. The number of reserves now on duty represents 24 per cent of the total reserve strength.

The subcommittee while urging as rapid release of men called up against their will as possible said it recognized the discharge must depend upon replacements.

Recently all the military services have announced release plans for some reservists and the subcommittee said it intended to watch the program closely.

"The military services should treat these schedules as contracts and every effort should be made to keep the terms of the proposed release," the report said.

The subcommittee found much fault with the services for not keeping up-to-date records on their reserves so they would know if a man when called could serve without undue hardship.

More fundamental, it said, was failure of the nation's military leaders to provide better for the contingency of a partial mobilization such as had to be undertaken when the decision was made to go into Korea.

and will be fully qualified in every respect.

Among the incumbent state officials, I believe it appropriate for me to state at this time that it is my intention to support for re-election the honorable A. P. "Pat" Tugwell, state treasurer; the honorable Shelby M. Jackson, superintendent of public education; and the honorable Wade O. Martin, Jr., secretary of state.

Mr. Tugweil has served the state long and honorably, and we are very fortunate indeed in having a man of his qualifications in this important post.

Mr. Martin is now serving his second term as secretary of state. He has not only performed outstanding service in this post but has been equally competent as state insurance commissioner. His work merits the support of all Louisianians.

Mr. Jackson has the vital and important post of directing the state's educational activities. In my judgment, this is one of the key positions in the state administration, and it involves the welfare of our young people at a time when adequate education is essential to preserve our Democratic institutions. Mr. Jackson has earned the respect of educational leaders throughout our state. He deserves to be reelected to continue the work which he was inaugurated.

Further announcements relative to our ticket will be made as the campaign gets underway."

REDS BOW

Red commander only five minutes to write this reply:

The liaison officer immediately relayed the message to Allied headquarters via the radio telephone in the helicopter.

Earlier, delivery of the Red reply in Ridgway's message had cleared the way for a third meeting between the United Nations and Communist delegations.

The Allied liaison officer left the peace camp at 6:40 a.m. (3:40 p.m. EST Saturday) by helicopter today, received the message from two Red Korean officers and returned to the camp at 7:20 a.m.

The message, asking for consultation on other points, but terming all the Allied demands "side questions," already had been broadcast Saturday night and this morning by the Pyongyang and Peiping radios.

Two North Korean officers delivered the official reply to U.S. Col. Andrew J. Kinney at Pan Mun Jom, six miles east of Kaesong. The message was written in Korean and Chinese.

The Korean Red officers translated it for Kinney.

At 8:40 a.m. (5:40 p.m., EST, Saturday), Ridgway's headquarters announced: "An English translation of the message is now being made."

The five-member Allied delegation, headed by Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, had been standing by at the advance UN peace camp for further instructions.

Helicopters and white flagged trucks and jeeps were held in readiness to carry the delegates to Kaesong.

The armistice talks began Tuesday but were suspended by the Allies Thursday after Red armed guards stopped an Allied truck convoy because it contained 20 news correspondents.

This marked one of few times the Reds have acceded so fully to United Nations demands. It was viewed in Seoul as indicating the Reds might be sincerely interested in ending the war, now in its 56th week.

The Red reply was signed by Kim Il Sung, supreme commander of the North Korean army, and Peng Teh Huai, commander of Chinese Reds in Korea.

They agreed to clear armed guards from Kaesong and also "from the routes through which your delegation and ours travel to the area of the meeting place."

The reply added:

"As to the size of the area of the meeting place and other related concrete questions, we propose that these be left to the delegations of both sides to settle at a single session."

This refrered to Ridgway's demands that Kaesong and a five-mile raduis around it be neutralized, and that each side be free to send up to 150 personnel of its own choosing.

The 150 would include correspondents. They would be permitted to visit Kaesong but would not be admitted to the residence where the talks have been held.

Thursday, after the 20 newsmen were turned back by armed Reds, Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief Allied delegate, notified North Korean Gen. Nam Il, chief Red delegate, that the Allied team was prepared to resume the talks if the correspondents were passed.

About the time General Nam rejected the proposal, Ridgway issued his neutrality demands which made the correspondents only one of the issues.

Today's broadcast from Peiping charged the Allies had used the correspondent issue as a "pretext."

"The question of news reporters which gave rise to the present suspension of the meeting is a trifling one," the Red reply stated.

"It is not worth while suspending the meeting for this, much less is it worth breaking up the meeting for this.

"Your delegation had raised this question at the meeting. Our delegation at the time considered that the arrival of news reporters of various countries in Kaesong to be inappropriate, as th meeting had not yet achieved any result and even the agenda had not yet been passed. Thus on this question no agreement was reached.

"We insist on the principle that all matters must be agreed upon by both sides before they can be executed. We hold this principle is fair and irrefutable. Since agreement was not reached on the question of news reporters, your side should not one-sidely and forcibly put it into operation.

"For the sake of preventing the meeting from being suspended for a long time or broken up by this trifle, we now agree to your proposal: To include the 20 news reporters of your side as a part of the personnel of your delegation. We have already ordered our delegation to provide facilities to your side on this question too."

He pointed out he had accepted the Red choice of Kasong in the first place in order to show good faith, only to have his delegates movements harassed by Red guards.

Ridgway then asked that the Reds show good faith by removing the armed guards.

Today's Red reply said "we agree to your proposal of fixing the Kaesong area as a neutral zone during the period of the meeting and that both parties do not carry out hostile acts of any kind within this area and all armed personnel be excluded from the area of the meeting place and from the routes through which your delegation and our travel to the area of the meeting place."

The Communist reply was no surprise to at least one Allied officer. Only a few hours earlier, Lt. Gen. Sir Horace Robertson, commander of British commonwealth, forces in Korea, told newsmen he expected the Reds to accept Ridgway's demands but with minor counter-proposals.

Ridgway's Chief of Information, Brig. Gen. Frank Allen, said the Supreme Allied Commander sent his demands to the Communists Friday without consulting Washington.

This heightened the impression in Seoul that Ridgway pretty much has a free hand in the negotiations.

The days of waiting had turned the Allied camp at Munsan into a sleepy tent town. Numbers of correspondents had moved back to Seoul to await developments. Saturday night, only a few minutes aftr first word on a reply came from Pyongyang, they began rushing back to Munsan. They were on an hour's alert to be ready any time the talks might be resumed.

The war was virtually in a lull. Ground action was largely patrolling. Even air activity Saturday was light.

Two Babies Are Reported Better

Knoxville, Tenn., July 14—(AP)—Twin babies suffering from serious malnutrition improved slowly in a Knoxville hospital today, unaware they had precipated a problem in welfare finance.

They are Harold and Helen Nicely, five-month-old son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nicely of Liberty Hill, Tenn.

Though they are five months old, they weighed only 10 pounds each when their parents took them to the hospital yesterday.

They were almost too weak to cry," said Robert Mynatt, the hospital business manager. "It would have been murder to have turned them away. We'll worry about the bill later."

What Mynatt has to worry about is that the Nicelys live in Grainger county where there is no charity hospitalization fund.

The county, which has a population of less than 15,000, has been providing the family with $114 monthly from its relief fund, according to County Judge W. H. Cabbage, chief administrative officer of the county.

But that is all there is available, Cabbage said. He said he could not provide more without action by the full county court, and the court couldn't do it without raising the tax rate.

In any case, he said, the court is not scheduled to meet until October.

BRITISH SEND 4 SHIPS TO EGYPT

Herbert Morrison Says Warships Will Protect English Shipping At Sea

London, July 14. —(AP)— Britain is sending four destroyers from the mediterranean into the Red sea where Egyptians dared humble the Union Jack a fortnight ago.

The admiralty order follows an indignant British protest over the stopping and search of the small freighter Empire Roach in the Red sea by an Egyptian corvette July 1.

After protesting to the Egyptian ambassador, Foreign Minister Herbert Morrison told commons this week he was asking the admiralty to send warships to protect British shipping at sea.

The Empire Roach was bound for the Jordan port of Aqaba with supplies for the British-supported Jordan Arab legion. Her captain said the armed Corvette crew looted the ship's stores, smashed the radio, and kept the freighter's crew below decks for 13 hours. The Empire Roach now is at Adabia, near Port Suez, Egypt, reloading for another voyage to Jordan.

Egypt otherwise has stopped only ships entering the Suez canal from the Red Sea on the ground that they might be carrying war supplies to Israeli ports on the eastern Mediterranean.

The Suez stoppage has led to reduced output of the oil refinery at Haifa, Israel, and to a complaint from Israel asking the United Nations security council in New York to take action toward breaking the Egyptian canal blockade. The council is expected to meet in mid-week.

Egypt and Jordan are Arab league Allies. They opposed the Jewish state of Israel in the Palestine war of the late 1940s. An armistice now prevails.

Besides their smouldering enmity for Israel, the Egyptians are again at lively odds with Britain. Egypt demands removal of British troops from Suez canal guard duty and an end to British partnership in the rule over the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. Egypt wants to absorb the Sudan under the crown of King Farouk.

Both the Suez and Sudan questions are covered by the 20-year mutual defense pact Britain and Egypt signed in 1936. Egypt now threatens to denounce the treaty.

The Egyptian cabinet yesterday disclosed a decision not to take part in any military conferences with Britain until Egypt's "national aspirations" are satisfied.

This turn had the immediate effect of breaking up plans for an all-Africa defense conference scheduled to be held soon in South Africa or Britain's Kenya colony.

The admiralty announced the destroyers from British Mediterranean navy headquarters at Malta will call at Aqaba, Jordan and proceed to the British protectorate of Aden at the tip of the Arabian peninsula where the Red sea meets the Indian ocean.

The destroyers are 1,710-tonners built in the second world war. Those at Malta are the Chequers, Chieftain, Chivalrous, Cheviot and Chevron. Of the five one will remain at Malta.

Pres. Secretary Enters L. S. U.

Baton Rouge, La., July 14.—(AP)— With the president back in Ecuador after a visit to the United States, his secretary started a tour of her own here today.

Petite, vivacious Leonor Garces, secretary to Ecuador President Galo Plaza, enrolled at Louisiana State University. The seven-week study is called "Latin American orientation" and stresses the English language and North American culture.

"I have to use English so much," she said, "I thought I should improve on it during my vacation. I want to learn all I can about your people and your way of life."

During the course, Miss Garces will visit New Orleans and Natchez, Miss. Afterwards she plans to see Washington, D. C., and New York on her own.

Miss Garces brought a gift with her—a box of books about life and the arts in Ecuador—for the LSU library.

Last week, her boss returned home after a visit to the United States. A football player during his college days in the United States, the president was feted royally during his stay.

Truck Crashes On Bridge, Ignites

Batesville, Miss., July 14.—(AP)— Thousands of gallons of gas erupted into a pillar of flame here today when a heavy truck smashed over a bridge rail. Officers said at least one man was killed.

Hours after the accident, the spreading pool of flaming fuel prevented investigators from checking whether anyone except the driver died in the heat-twisted wreckage.

The intense heat crumbled a concrete foundation of the highway 51 bridge that spans the Tallahatchie river, eight miles south of Sardis dam.

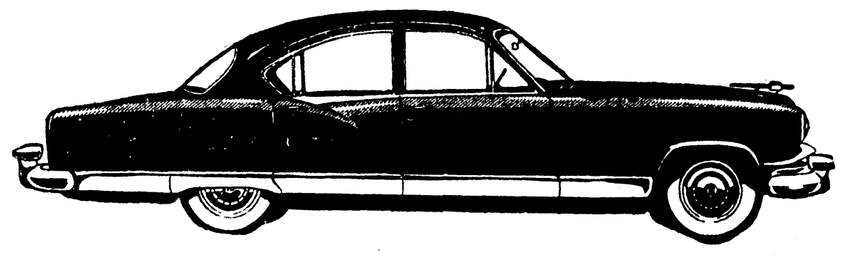

The big fuel truck landed upside down in a bayou in about three feet of water.

the sources said. They are:

Labor Minister Jose Anotonio Giron De Velasco, leader of the left wing of the falange government party and a devoted follower of Franco.

Air Minister General Eduardo Gallarza, a monarchist who just returned from the United States with enthusiastic accounts of what he saw there.

Usually reliable sources said Franco told his outgoing ministers:

1—Spain must tighten her relations with the western world, principally with the United States.

2—Spain must play her part in preparing against Communist aggression, but to do this she must have American financial and war material aid.

3—The ministers would have to make way for new faces to carry out this policy.

A numble concessions to public opinion in the Democratic countries are expected to come from the new administration.

First of these concessions is scheduled to be greater freedom of the press. For the first time there will be a minister of information in the new government to carry this out, informants said.

These sources said Navy Captain Luis Arrero Blanco, present sub-secretary of the presidency of the government and close adviser to Franco, will be promoted to minister to relieve Franco of day-to-day affairs, and permit Franco to concentrate on top policy. In reality, the captain will become a sort of second-rank chief of government while the generalissimo will concentrate on being chief of state.

Madrid buzzed with talk of the new political situation.

Lists of forthcoming ministers circulated from hand to hand throughout the day. Nearly everybody had different ideas as to whom they will be. The lists will undoubtedly change considerably before the decrees officially announcing them appear in the state journal.

OFFERS TO POST

McDonald today with the $10,000 for bail. She said the money was her own.

"Where did you get this $10,000?" asked Assistant U. S. Attorney Roy M. Cohn.

Mrs. Mary Kaufman, attorney for the bail fund, objected on the ground the law did not require inquiry into the source when it was in cash.

McDonald over-ruled her objection, whereupon Mrs. Kaufman said Miss Alexander's offer was withdrawn.

Mrs. Kaufman said Hunton was prepared to offer $10,000 of his own money as bail for himself, but would refuse to answer questions as to its source.

She asked Cohn whether he intended to question Hunton on that point. Cohn declined to stipulate. McDonald then adjourned action on Hunton's bail until Monday. He suggested it be taken up with Judge Ryan at that time.

The four missing Communist leaders, objects of an intensive FBI search, are Gus Hall, Henry Winston, Robert Thomson and Gilbert Green.

They were among the 11 Communist leaders convicted on a charge of conspiring to advocate and teach violent overthrow of the United States government.

They failed to appear in court with the other seven on July 2 to start serving their prison terms.

Ryan expects to resume hearings Monday in the bail tangle involving 14 secondary Communist le ders indicted on the same charge as the 11.

They were free on bail during the weekend.

Judge Hand, however, ordered their bail reinstated—at least until Ryan completes his hearings on various government and defense motions concerning the bail—and Ryan ordered the 14 released from detention yesterday.

They were among 21 named in one indictment. Three of the 21 are free under bail arrangements not involving the civil rights congress and four are fugitives who never appeared in answer to the indictment.

The 2,000-acre Fairfax district is the newest of the city's industrial areas, developed within the last 20 years. It is located directly across the Missouri river from the municipal airport of Kansas City, Mo. Its big oil refineries are familiar sights to plane passengers.

It also houses the General Motors assembly plants. Police were escorting volunteers who were driving fleets of new cars from the plants in an effort to save them.

The dike break climaxed a day-long fight. Back water from sewers and a leak near the junction of the Kansas and Missouri rivers threatened the district since early morning.

Kansas City, Mo.'s water system already is cripple by flooding of Turkey Creek pumping station which normally handles two-thirds of that city's supply.

The break in the dike also put the Jersey Creek pumping station of the Kansas City, Kas., sewage system out of commission, adding to the city's health problems.

Three more deaths today brought the toll of the floods in Missouri and Kansas to 17.

At Glasgow, Mo., the last bridge between Kansas City and St. Louis Mo., was closed to traffic.

At Washington, the White House said Maj. Gen. Pick, chief of the army engineers, had estimated there were 500,000 persons displaced by the floods in two states.

A spokesman for General Pick said at Kansas City that by "displaced" the general meant not only homeless, but those persons stranded on trains, unable to get to their accustomed business places or follow their normal activities. The Red Cross has estimated there are 70,000 persons homeless in the two-state area.

General Pick said losses in the flood would exceed $500,000,000. This exceeds the highest previous destruction, figured dollarwise, which was $481,000,000 in the Ohio and Mississippi river floods of 1937. The inflated dollar now makes the cost figure of the present flood higher than it would have been in 1937.

The flood situation still was bad in Kansas, but the Kansas City area was hit hardest.

Citizens were instructed to boil all water and in many sections were ordered to restrict its use to human consumption. Typhoid immunization stations were set up in several districts.

The water supply in Kansas City, Mo., had diminished to a trickle in some areas. It was cut first by the flooding of the Turkey Creek pumping station which normally handles two thirds of the volume, and then still further as firemen fought a blaze that devastated two square blocks at Roanoke Road and Southwest Boulevard in the flood area. Much of the fire-fighting water supply, however, was being pumped from the flood, itself.

New explosions spread the fire this morning, 24 hours after a blast touched it off and the unusual quiet in the metropolis was shattered by sirens through the morning as more and more fire companies were called in an effort to stem the blaze. Fireman said damage from the fire might exceed $1,000,000.

The known death toll for the two states from the flood rose to 14 as a sightseer drowned in the Missouri river flood water. No one can say how many may be missing as persons so reported often appear later at refugee stations.

RESERVE CALL

hearings on a new proposed reserve law.

Brooks said a new reserve program must be so set up and managed that what he called the recent errors and injustices will "not again be visited on American citizens."

In the rush to build up strength to meet the Communist aggression, the committee said in its report, grandfathers in the inactive reserve were called up while youngsters in the organized reserve were left at home.

"Enlisted men with multiple dependents — one with ten children— were involuntarily ordered to duty while single men remained behind because of their membership in an organized unit.

"Reservists were picked out of college and ordered to report for actirve duty in amatter of days while their draft - protected nonveteran school mates continued to safely lounge on the campus."

Many inactive reservists, employed in essential industries, were called up who should not have been, the report continued.

The subcommittee said it was understandable that the armed forces was in a hurry.

There was a pressing need for individual men and officers to fill out regular units.

As a result many inactive reservists were called up before the organized reserve organizations, such as the national guard, while there had been a general belief that the organized reserve would be called first and the inactive reserve only as a last resort.

The report pointed out that as of April 1 there was a total of 650,100 reservists on active duty of whom 177,888 were officers and 72,212 were enlisted men. The number of reserves now on duty represents 24 per cent of the total reserve strength.

The subcommittee while urging as rapid release of men called up against their will as possible said it recognized the discharge must depend upon replacements.

Recently all the military services have announced release plans for some reservists and the subcommittee said it intended to watch the program closely.

"The military services should treat these schedules as contracts and every effort should be made to keep the terms of the proposed release," the report said.

The subcommittee found much fault with the services for not keeping up-to-date records on their reserves so they would know if a man when called could serve without undue hardship.

More fundamental, it said, was failure of the nation's military leaders to provide better for the contingency of a partial mobilization such as had to be undertaken when the decision was made to go into Korea.

and will be fully qualified in every respect.

Among the incumbent state officials, I believe it appropriate for me to state at this time that it is my intention to support for re-election the honorable A. P. "Pat" Tugwell, state treasurer; the honorable Shelby M. Jackson, superintendent of public education; and the honorable Wade O. Martin, Jr., secretary of state.

Mr. Tugweil has served the state long and honorably, and we are very fortunate indeed in having a man of his qualifications in this important post.

Mr. Martin is now serving his second term as secretary of state. He has not only performed outstanding service in this post but has been equally competent as state insurance commissioner. His work merits the support of all Louisianians.

Mr. Jackson has the vital and important post of directing the state's educational activities. In my judgment, this is one of the key positions in the state administration, and it involves the welfare of our young people at a time when adequate education is essential to preserve our Democratic institutions. Mr. Jackson has earned the respect of educational leaders throughout our state. He deserves to be reelected to continue the work which he was inaugurated.

Further announcements relative to our ticket will be made as the campaign gets underway."

REDS BOW

Red commander only five minutes to write this reply:

The liaison officer immediately relayed the message to Allied headquarters via the radio telephone in the helicopter.

Earlier, delivery of the Red reply in Ridgway's message had cleared the way for a third meeting between the United Nations and Communist delegations.

The Allied liaison officer left the peace camp at 6:40 a.m. (3:40 p.m. EST Saturday) by helicopter today, received the message from two Red Korean officers and returned to the camp at 7:20 a.m.

The message, asking for consultation on other points, but terming all the Allied demands "side questions," already had been broadcast Saturday night and this morning by the Pyongyang and Peiping radios.

Two North Korean officers delivered the official reply to U.S. Col. Andrew J. Kinney at Pan Mun Jom, six miles east of Kaesong. The message was written in Korean and Chinese.

The Korean Red officers translated it for Kinney.

At 8:40 a.m. (5:40 p.m., EST, Saturday), Ridgway's headquarters announced: "An English translation of the message is now being made."

The five-member Allied delegation, headed by Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, had been standing by at the advance UN peace camp for further instructions.

Helicopters and white flagged trucks and jeeps were held in readiness to carry the delegates to Kaesong.

The armistice talks began Tuesday but were suspended by the Allies Thursday after Red armed guards stopped an Allied truck convoy because it contained 20 news correspondents.

This marked one of few times the Reds have acceded so fully to United Nations demands. It was viewed in Seoul as indicating the Reds might be sincerely in terested in ending the war, now in its 56th week.

The Red reply was signed by Kim Il Sung, supreme commander of the North Korean army, and Peng Teh Huai, commander of Chinese Reds in Korea.

They agreed to clear armed guards from Kaesong and also "from the routes through which your delegation and ours travel to the area of the meeting place."

The reply added:

"As to the size of the area of the meeting place and other related concrete questions, we propose that these be left to the delegations of both sides to settle at a single session."

This refrered to Ridgway's demands that Kaesong and a five-mile raduis around it be neutralized, and that each side be free to send up to 150 personnel of its own choosing.

The 150 would include correspondents. They would be permitted to visit Kaesong but would not be admitted to the residence where the talks have been held.

Thursday, after the 20 newsmen were turned back by armed Reds, Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief Allied delegate, notified North Korean Gen. Nam Il, chief Red delegate, that the Allied team was prepared to resume the talks if the correspondents were passed.

About the time General Nam rejected the proposal, Ridgway issued his neutrality demands which made the correspondents only one of the issues.

Today's broadcast from Peiping charged the Allies had used the correspondent issue as a "pretext."

"The question of news reporters which gave rise to the present suspension of the meeting is a trifling one," the Red reply stated.

"It is not worth while suspending the meeting for this, much less is it worth breaking up the meeting for this.

"Your delegation had raised this question at the meeting. Our delegation at the time considered that the arrival of news reporters of various countries in Kaesong to be inappropriate, as th meeting had not yet achieved any result and even the agenda had not yet been passed. Thus on this question no agreement was reached.

"We insist on the principle that all matters must be agreed upon by both sides before they can be executed. We hold this principle is fair and irrefutable. Since agreement was not reached on the question of news reporters, your side should not one-sidely and forcibly put it into operation.

"For the sake of preventing the meeting from being suspended for a long time or broken up by this trifle, we now agree to your proposal: To include the 20 news reporters of your side as a part of the personnel of your delegation. We have already ordered our delegation to provide facilities to your side on this question too."

He pointed out he had accepted the Red choice of Kasong in the first place in order to show good faith, only to have his delegates movements harassed by Red guards.

Ridgway then asked that the Reds show good faith by removing the armed guards.

Today's Red reply said "we agree to your proposal of fixing the Kaesong area as a neutral zone during the period of the meeting and that both parties do not carry out hostile acts of any kind within this area and all armed personnel be excluded from the area of the meeting place and from the routes through which your delegation and our travel to the area of the meeting place."

The Communist reply was no surprise to at least one Allied officer. Only a few hours earlier, Lt. Gen. Sir Horace Robertson, commander of British commonwealth, forces in Korea, told newsmen he expected the Reds to accept Ridgway's demands but with minor counter-proposals.

Ridgway's Chief of Information, Brig. Gen. Frank Allen, said the Supreme Allied Commander sent his demands to the Communists Friday without consulting Washington.

This heightened the impression in Seoul that Ridgway pretty much has a free hand in the negotiations.

The days of waiting had turned the Allied camp at Munsan into a sleepy tent town. Numbers of correspondents had moved back to Seoul to await developments. Saturday night, only a few minutes aftr first word on a reply came from Pyongyang, they began rushing back to Munsan. They were on an hour's alert to be ready any time the talks might be resumed.

The war was virtually in a lull. Ground action was largely patrolling. Even air activity Saturday was light.

Two Babies Are Reported Better

Knoxville, Tenn., July 14—(AP)—Twin babies suffering from serious malnutrition improved slowly in a Knoxville hospital today, unaware they had precipated a problem in welfare finance.

They are Harold and Helen Nicely, five-month-old son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nicely of Liberty Hill, Tenn.

Though they are five months old, they weighed only 10 pounds each when their parents took them to the hospital yesterday.

They were almost too weak to cry," said Robert Mynatt, the hospital business manager. "It would have been murder to have turned them away. We'll worry about the bill later."

What Mynatt has to worry about is that the Nicelys live in Grainger county where there is no charity hospitalization fund.

The county, which has a population of less than 15,000, has been providing the family with $114 monthly from its relief fund, according to County Judge W. H. Cabbage, chief administrative officer of the county.

But that is all there is available, Cabbage said. He said he could not provide more without action by the full county court, and the court couldn't do it without raising the tax rate.

In any case, he said, the court is not scheduled to meet until October.

BRITISH SEND 4 SHIPS TO EGYPT

Herbert Morrison Says Warships Will Protect English Shipping At Sea

London, July 14. —(AP)— Britain is sending four destroyers from the mediterranean into the Red sea where Egyptians dared humble the Union Jack a fortnight ago.

The admiralty order follows an indignant British protest over the stopping and search of the small freighter Empire Roach in the Red sea by an Egyptian corvette July 1.

After protesting to the Egyptian ambassador, Foreign Minister Herbert Morrison told commons this week he was asking the admiralty to send warships to protect British shipping at sea.

The Empire Roach was bound for the Jordan port of Aqaba with supplies for the British-supported Jordan Arab legion. Her captain said the armed Corvette crew looted the ship's stores, smashed the radio, and kept the freighter's crew below decks for 13 hours. The Empire Roach now is at Adabia, near Port Suez, Egypt, reloading for another voyage to Jordan.

Egypt otherwise has stopped only ships entering the Suez canal from the Red Sea on the ground that they migh' be carrying war supplies to Israeli ports on the eastern Mediterranean.

The Suez stoppage has led to reduced output of the oil refinery at Haifa, Israel, and to a complaint from Israel asking the United Nations security council in New York to take action toward breaking the Egyptian canal blockade. The council is expected to meet in mid-week.

Egypt and Jordan are Arab league Allies. They opposed the Jewish state of Israel in the Palestine war of the late 1940s. An armistice now prevails.

Besides their smouldering enmity for Israel, the Egyptians are again at lively odds with Britain. Egypt demands removal of British troops from Suez canal guard duty and an end to British partnership in the rule over the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. Egypt wants to absorb the Sudan under the crown of King Farouk.

Both the Suez and Sudan questions are covered by the 20-year mutual defense pact Britain and Egypt signed in 1936. Egypt now threatens to denounce the treaty.

The Egyptian cabinet yesterday disclosed a decision not to take part in any military conferences with Britain until Egypt's "national aspirations" are satisfied.

This turn had the immediate effect of breaking up plans for an all-Africa defense conference scheduled to be held soon in South Africa or Britain's Kenya colony.

The admiralty announced the destroyers from British Mediterranean navy headquarters at Malta will call at Aqaba, Jordan and proceed to the British protectorate of Aden at the tip of the Arabian peninsula where the Red sea meets the Indian ocean.

The destroyers are 1,710-tonners built in the second world war. Those at Malta are the Chequers, Chieftain, Chivalrous, Cheviot and Chevron. Of the five one will remain at Malta.

Pres. Secretary Enters L. S. U.

Baton Rouge, La., July 14.—(AP)— With the president back in Ecuador after a visit to the United States, his secretary started a tour of her own here today.

Petite, vivacious Leonor Garces, secretary to Ecuador President Galo Plaza, enrolled at Louisiana State University. The seven-week study is called "Latin American orientation" and stresses the English language and North American culture.

"I have to use English so much," she said, "I thought I should improve on it during my vacation. I want to learn all I can about your people and your way of life."

During the course, Miss Garces will visit New Orleans and Natchez, Miss. Afterwards she plans to see Washington, D. C., and New York on her own.

Miss Garces brought a gift with her—a box of books about life and the arts in Ecuador—for the LSU library.

Last week, her boss returned home after a visit to the United States. A football player during his college days in the United States, the president was feted royally during his stay.

Truck Crashes On Bridge, Ignites

Batesville, Miss., July 14.—(AP)— Thousands of gallons of gas erupted into a pillar of flame here today when a heavy truck smashed over a bridge rail. Officers said at least one man was killed.

Hours after the accident, the spreading pool of flaming fuel prevented investigators from checking whether anyone except the driver died in the heat-twisted wreckage.

The intense heat crumbled a concrete foundation of the highway 51 bridge that spans the Tallahatchie river, eight miles south of Sardis dam.

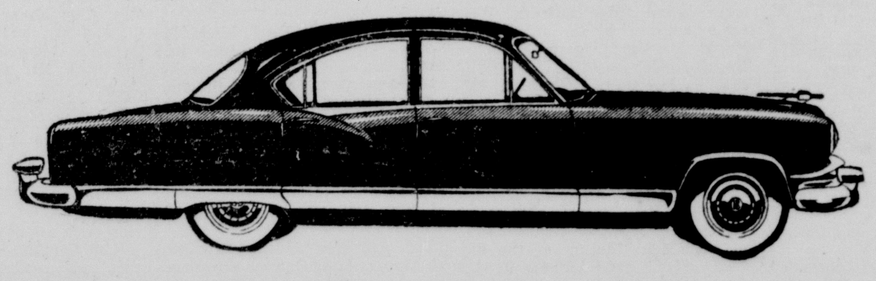

The big fuel truck landed upside down in a bayou in about three feet of water.

Junod Gives Travelogue About Devastated Europe

Viewing western Europe through the eyes of Ray Junod was experienced by Rotarians at this week's luncheon meeting at the Virginia Hotel. His talk was the first in a series of features planned by the International Service Committee of the local club. Mr. Junod, who experienced a spring tour abroad, gave a vivid account of his travels and colorful descriptions of the countries he visited. He was presented by Dr. William Bendel, chairman of programs.

Using France as a starting point, the tourist soon realizes that a large percentage of her 45 million people live in cities, especially in Paris and its vicinity, Mr. Junod said.

As the traveler goes through the country, he is constantly reminded of the Medieaval period. It is reflected in many cities, with walls, moats and castles dating back to the time when the way of life required people to seek security behind walls. In Paris one is impressed by events in which the city participated. These are evidenced in magnificent property, including old structures of grandeur.

The French Revolution and overthrow of the feudal regime, the ubsequent Reign of Terror with hundreds of executions, the emergence of Napoleon I—all these critical events were imprinted so forcefully upon Paris that the modern traveler is vividly reminded of them.

Conditions of the former mode of life affect present-day security there. To understand France, Mr. Junod said, one must remember that ever since the Restoration the country has been in danger of a new era of revolutions and another Reign of Terror. This situation has led to many attempts at peaceful settlement of rising and social difficulties.

The commercial view of Paris shows it as a city of small shops. Streets have a somewhat uniform appearance because of restrictions in heights of buildings. Usually the shops are on the street level and living quarters above.

Nearby is Versailles, made famous by Louis XIV, who transferred the control of govenment from Paris to this scene of artificial beauty. The place is characterized by the vastness of the chateau, its gardens and great expanse of property extending from the chateau's main courtyard to the Big and Little Trianons, quite a distance away.

The French countryside is fair and rolling, similar to our own midwest.

Ging from France to Holland, the traveler finds a small country with a population of approximately ten million. About 60 per cent of the people live in the larger cities of Amsterdam, The Hague, Rotterdam, Leyden and others.

Holland was thoroughly looted by the Nazis during World War II, and the people were left to starve. So it is natural, Mr. Junod explained, that the Dutch are in no mood to fight another war. They have displayed great courage in rebuilding their ravaged cities and now want help from America to defend what they have left.

Leaving the Netherlands for England, the visitor goes to London, where the bombing wounds of war are still gaping. England seems to be London and London-England. The history of the country is predomiately a story of the city of London.

Here the tourist finds a strange mixture of past and present, of vestiges of the Middle Ages intermingled with marks fo modern times. The Tower of London, Westminister Abbey, Buckingham Palace, Whitehall, Windsor Castle, dating back to 50 A. D., Hampden Court — all these are indicative of England's colorful history.

Added to the attractions of a tour of western Europe is the attempt made by the people there to welcome visitors and to make their way as easy as possible, Mr. Junod said.

Founder Of Music School Is Dead

West Los Angeles, Calif., July 14. —(AP) —Death has taken the founder of the national school of music, composer Arnold Schoenberg.

Long a sufferer from asthma, the noted teacher and composer succumbed last night at his home. He was 76.

Schoenberg invented the 12 tone harmonic system and was convinced that it would revolutionize musical composition. The Vienna-born composer also stressed dissonance in many of his works.

His best known pieces are "Gurre-Lieder" (Songs of the Dove) and "Verklarte Nacht" (Transfigured night). He wrote concertos for violin and piano and much chamber music. He also wrote several books of music, including "Theory of Harmony."

Schoenberg taught music in Berlin, Amsterdam, Boston and in Los Angeles. He was a professor emeritus at the University of California at Los Angeles.

He came to this country 20 years ago and was a naturalized citizen.

Funeral services will be held Monday. Burial arrangements have not yet been made.

GROUP LIKELY TO OPPOSE SALE TAX

George Says He Doesn't Like A Provision In House-Passed Tax Bill

Washington, July 14.—(AP)—Chairman George (D.-Ga.) said today the senate finance committee probably will reject proposals to impose a national sales tax to help pay for the defense program.

At the same time, George told reporters he doesn't like a provision of the $7,200,000,000 house-passed tax increase bill which would boost individual income taxes a flat 12 1-2 per cent.

The Georgia senator made it clear he believes individual taxes will have to be increased, but he said he hopes to work out some formula other than the one approved by the house last month. He added that he did not want to discuss details at this time.

The finance committee is conducting hearings on the house measure and the administration's request for a larger tax increase totaling $10,000,000,000.

Besides boosting individual income taxes $2,847,000,000, the house bill would hike corporation income and excess profits levies $2,855,000,000 and excise taxes $1,252,000,000. Miscellaneous changes in the revenue laws would raise an additional $245,000,000.

Business groups, including the National Association of Manufacturers (N. A. M.), have urged George's committee to approve instead a bill which would raise most or all of needed defense revenue through some form of national sales tax.

The N. A. M proposed that such a tax be imposed at the manufacturers' level and that only food be excluded.

George was asked whether he felt the sales tax idea was "out the window" so far as the pending bill is concerned.

"I think it is," he replied.

He noted that the house had rejected the idea and he said sentiment in his committee is divided on the issue.

He added that he believes, however, that the committee would not approve the proposal.

But George did not close the door to possible approval in the future "if we should need to have another tax bill and if defense spending were to continue at the projected levels."

George has said he believes the pending tax bill will be the last enacted during the current defense build-up unless there is a world war.

He said today that if there were a world conflict, it probably would be necessary for congress "to consider a sales tax or some tax of that charter." He said that to increase conventional taxes enough to meet the need under those circumstances would "run the rates through the ceiling."

GOVERNOR FREES EX-FILM STAR

Attractive Madge Meredith Released From Prison After Two Years

Sacramento, Calif., July 14.—(AP)—Attractive Madge Meredith, a former film starlet, was freed from prison today by Gov. Earl Warren.

She had been serving time at Tehachapi state prison for women since May 9, 1949 for helping to kidnap and beat up her former manager, Nicholas Gianaclis, and Verne Davis, his bodyguard, in the Hollywood Hills.

The governor acted on the day before the thirtieth birthday of the young woman who was the former Marjorie May Massow of Iowa Falls, Ia.

The commutation of her five-year-to-life sentence to time already served was recommended to the governor in March by the state adult authority.

Said the governor as he ordered Miss Meredith let from behind bars:

"This is a bizarre case, perhaps more fantastic than any moving picture in which the defendant acted—but certainly having many of the attributes of a scenario."

Governor Warren noted that Miss Meredith has continued to claim innocence but he said, in a press statement, that she must share some of the guilt.

The governor said the exact extent of it, however, probably never will be known.

Albert W. Tucker was convicted with Miss Meredith in Los Angeles superior court and is still in San Quentin prison. Two other men, Damon Klinkenberg, and James Hatfield, served short sentences in the Los Angeles county jail.

Warren also said he had been advised that Miss Meredith "still has a future in the motion picture industry if she is in position to reenter it."

Jerry Wald, a producer at RKO, which filmed Miss Meredith's most recent picture, commented: "Since Governor Warren felt that in the interests of justice she be released immediately, I see no reason why she should not be considered for any movie role for which she is suited."

Governor Warren acted "in the interest of justice" and he pointed out that Miss Meredith "was a young woman of little worldly exsituation in which she found herself.

After the adult authority recommended commutation in March, the assembly committee on crime and corrections issued a report saying this of the case:

"Had Miss Meredith been properly defended in a court free of prejudice she undoubtedly would have been innocent of the crime."

The assertion was disputed in Los Angeles by trial Judge Charles W. Fickel, and Prosecutor J. Miller Leavy.

The committee said the case was a "mockery of investigation, of defense counseling, of trial procedure and of justice, itself."

Ingrid Bergman Is Being Sued

Rome, July 14.—(AP)—Ingrid Bergman and Roberto Rossellini were sued by their doctor today for a $4,000 medical bill covering the birth of Roberto, their love child.

Lawyer Anzo Manfredonia said he filed the suit with the Rome tribunal on behalf of Dr. Giuseppe Sannicandro.

The bill of particulars alleged that the producer and his actress wife for more than 17 months have ignored demands for payment. An offer by the Rome physicians' association to mediate also was spurned, the bill of particulars claimed.

The Rossellinis, reported at their country home outside Rome, could not be reached immediately for comment.

Roberto was born Feb. 1, 1950, in a blaze of publicity. Miss Bergman and Rossellini, who fell in love while filming "Stromboli," were married after his birth.

Dr. Sannicandro said he sued only after the Rome physicians' association had approved the amount of the bill and indicated it approved his action.

Junod Gives Travelogue About Devastated Europe

Viewing western Europe through the eyes of Ray Junod was experienced by Rotarians at this week's luncheon meeting at the Virginia Hotel. His talk was the first in a series of features planned by the International Service Committee of the local club. Mr. Junod, who experienced a spring tour abroad, gave a vivid account of his travels and colorful descriptions of the countries he visited. He was presented by Dr. William Bendel, chairman of programs.

Using France as a starting point, the tourist soon realizes that a large percentage of her 45 million people live in cities, especially in Paris and its vicinity, Mr. Junod said.

As the traveler goes through the country, he is constantly reminded of the Medieaval period. It is reflected in many cities, with walls, moats and castles dating back to the time when the way of life required people to seek security behind walls. In Paris one is impressed by events in which the city participated. These are evidenced in magnificent property, including old structures of grandeur.

The French Revolution and overthrow of the feudal regime, the ubsequent Reign of Terror with hundreds of executions, the emergence of Napoleon I—all these critical events were imprinted so forcefully upon Paris that the modern traveler is vividly reminded of them.

Conditions of the former mode of life affect present-day security there. To understand France, Mr. Junod said, one must remember that ever since the Restoration the country has been in danger of a new era of revolutions and another Reign of Terror. This situation has led to many attempts at peaceful settlement of rising and social difficulties.

The commercial view of Paris shows it as a city of small shops. Streets have a somewhat uniform appearance because of restrictions in heights of buildings. Usually the shops are on the street level and living quarters above.

Nearby is Versailles, made famous by Louis XIV, who transferred the control of govenment from Paris to this scene of artificial beauty. The place is characterized by the vastness of the chateau, its gardens and great expanse of property extending from the chateau's main courtyard to the Big and Little Trianons, quite a distance away.

The French countryside is fair and rolling, similar to our own midwest.

Ging from France to Holland, the traveler finds a small country with a population of approximately ten million. About 60 per cent of the people live in the larger cities of Amsterdam, The Hague, Rotterdam, Leyden and others.

Holland was thoroughly looted by the Nazis during World War II, and the people were left to starve. So it is natural, Mr. Junod explained, that the Dutch are in no mood to fight another war. They have displayed great courage in rebuilding their ravaged cities and now want help from America to defend what they have left.

Leaving the Netherlands for England, the visitor goes to London, where the bombing wounds of war are still gaping. England seems to be London and London-England. The history of the country is predomiately a story of the city of London.

Here the tourist finds a strange mixture of past and present, of vestiges of the Middle Ages intermingled with marks fo modern times. The Tower of London, Westminister Abbey, Buckingham Palace, Whitehall, Windsor Castle, dating back to 50 A. D., Hampden Court — all these are indicative of England's colorful history.

Added to the attractions of a tour of western Europe is the attempt made by the people there to welcome visitors and to make their way as easy as possible, Mr. Junod said.

Founder Of Music School Is Dead

West Los Angeles, Calif., July 14. —(AP)—Death has taken the founder of the national school of music, composer Arnold Schoenberg.

Long a sufferer from asthma, the noted teacher and composer succumbed last night at his home. He was 76.

Schoenberg invented the 12 tone harmonic system and was convinced that it would revolutionize musical composition. The Vienna-born composer also stressed dissonance in many of his works.

His best known pieces are "Gurre-Lieder" (Songs of the Dove) and "Verklarte Nacht" (Transfigured night). He wrote concertos for violin and piano and much chamber music. He also wrote several books of music, including "Theory of Harmony."

Schoenberg taught music in Berlin, Amsterdam, Boston and in Los Angeles. He was a professor emeritus at the University of California at Los Angeles.

He came to this country 20 years ago and was a naturalized citizen.

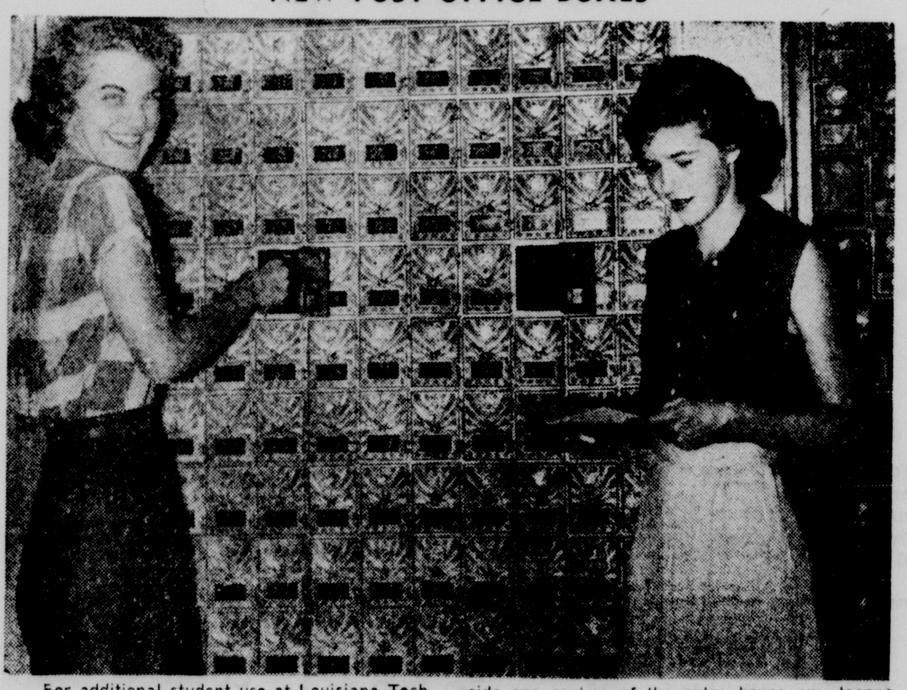

Funeral services will be held Monday. Burial arrangements have not yet been made.

The composer is survived by his widow, Gertrude and five children: A daughter, Nuria, and two sons, Ronald and Lawrence, by his widow, and two other children, Mrs. Gertrude Greissle and George by his first wife, Matilde, who died in 1923.

GROUP LIKELY TO OPPOSE SALE TAX

George Says He Doesn't Like A Provision In House-Passed Tax Bill

Washington, July 14.—(AP)—Chairman George (D.-Ga.) said today the senate finance committee probably will reject proposals to impose a national sales tax to help pay for the defense program.

At the same time, George told reporters he doesn't like a provision of the $7,200,000,000 house-passed tax increase bill which would boost individual income taxes a flat 12 1-2 per cent.

The Georgia senator made it clear he believes individual taxes will have to be increased, but he said he hopes to work out some formula other than the one approved by the house last month. He added that he did not want to discuss details at this time.

The finance committee is conducting hearings on the house measure and the administration's request for a larger tax increase totaling $10,000,000,000.

Besides boosting individual income taxes $2,847,000,000, the house bill would hike corporation income and excess profits levies $2,855,000,000 and excise taxes $1,252,000,000. Miscellaneous changes in the revenue laws would raise an additional $245,000,000.

Business groups, including the National Association of Manufacturers (N. A. M.), have urged George's committee to approve instead a bill which would raise most or all of needed defense revenue through some form of national sales tax.

The N. A. M proposed that such a tax be imposed at the manuf. cturers' level and that only food be excluded.

George was asked whether he felt the sales tax idea was "out the window" so far as the pending bill is concerned.

"I think it is," he replied.

He noted that the house had rejected the idea and he said sentiment in his committee is divided on the issue.

He added that he believes, however, that the committee would not approve the proposal.

But George did not close the door to possible approval in the future "if we should need to have another tax bill and if defense spending were to continue at the projected levels."

George has said he believes the pending tax bill will be the last enacted during the current defense build-up unless there is a world war.

He said today that if there were a world conflict, it probably would be necessary for congress "to consider a sales tax or some tax of that charter." He said that to increase conventional taxes enough to meet the need under those circumstances would "run the rates through the ceiling."

GOVERNOR FREES EX-FILM STAR

Attractive Madge Meredith Released From Prison After Two Years

Sacramento, Calif., July 14.—(AP)—Attractive Madge Meredith, a former film starlet, was freed from prison today by Gov. Earl Warren.

She had been serving time at Tehachapi state prison for women since May 9, 1949 for helping to kidnap and beat up her former manager, Nicholas Gianaclis, and Verne Davis, his bodyguard, in the Hollywood Hills.

The governor acted on the day before the thirtieth birthday of the young woman who was the former Marjorie May Massow of Iowa Falls, Ia.

The commutation of her five-year-to-life sentence to time already served was recommended to the governor in March by the state adult authority.

Said the governor as he ordered Miss Meredith let from behind bars:

"This is a bizarre case, perhaps more fantastic than any moving picture in which the defendant acted—but certainly having many of the attributes of a scenario."

Governor Warren noted that Miss Meredith has continued to claim innocence but he said, in a press statement, that she must share some of the guilt.

The governor said the exact extent of it, however, probably never will be known.

Albert W. Tucker was convicted with Miss Meredith in Los Angeles superior court and is still in San Quentin prison. Two other men, Damon Klinkenberg, and James Hatfield, served short sentences in the Los Angeles county jail.

Warren also said he had been advised that Miss Meredith "still has a future in the motion picture industry if she is in position to reenter it."

Jerry Wald, a producer at RKO, which filmed Miss Meredith's most recent picture, commented: "Since Governor Warren felt that in the interests of justice she be released immediately, I see no reason why she should not be considered for any movie role for which she is suited."

Governor Warren acted "in the interest of justice" and he pointed out that Miss Meredith "was a young woman of little worldly exsituation in which she found herself.

After the adult authority recommended commutation in March, the assembly committee on crime and corrections issued a report saying this of the case:

"Had Miss Meredith been properly defended in a court free of prejudice she undoubtedly would have been innocent of the crime."

The assertion was disputed in Los Angeles by trial Judge Charles W. Fickel, and Prosecutor J. Miller Leavy.

The committee said the case was a "mockery of investigation, of defense counseling, of trial procedure and of justice, itself."

Ingrid Bergman Is Being Sued

Rome, July 14.—(AP)—Ingrid Bergman and Roberto Rossellini were sued by their doctor today for a $4,000 medical bill covering the birth of Roberto, their love child.

Lawyer Anzo Manfredonia said he filed the suit with the Rome tribunal on behalf of Dr. Giuseppe Sannicandro.

The bill of particulars alleged that the producer and his actress wife for more than 17 months have ignored demands for payment. An offer by the Rome physicians' association to mediate also was spurned, the bill of particulars claimed.

The Rosselinis, reported at their country home outside Rome, could not be reached immediately for comment.

Roberto was born Feb. 1, 1950, in a blaze of publicity. Miss Bergman and Rossellini, who fell in love while filming "Stromboli," were married after his birth.

Dr. Sannicandro said he sued only after the Rome physicians' association had approved the amount of the bill and indicated it approved his action.

MONROE SQUARES SERIES WITH GREENVILLE

Sports End Mississippi Visit Today, Return Home Tomorrow

Greenville, Miss., July 14—(Special)—Although he showed streaks of wildness at times, Claude White hurled his twelfth victory for the Monroe Sports here tonight as he tamed the Greenville Bucks, 6 to 1, on five hits. White, who has lost only five games, got himself in trouble a few times in his generousity with bases on balls but was able to pull out in the clutches.

The triumph enabled the Sports, leaders of the Cotton States League, to even their series. The Bucks and Sports close out their current rivalry with a single game Sunday afternoon before Greenville moves to Clarksdale Monday night while Monroe returns home for a series with Hot Springs.

The Sports banged two Greenville pitchers, Pete Brunswick and "Red" Kennedy, for twelve hits to night as Jesse Van Winkle sparked the Monroe attack with three hits in three times at bat. Van Winkle reached base every time he came to bat, walking once and being hit by a pitched ball. He scored two runs.

Only extra-base socker of the night was Monroe's Bob Hamric. He hit two-for-four, accounting for a triple and a double. He scored twice and batted in one run. Don Reimer led the Bucks with two-for-four.

Two hits and an error enabled Monroe to grab an early lead with one run in the first inning. Harvill Jakes led with a single and went on to second when George Yanen let his drive get through him in left field. A single by John Paul Jones scored Jakes.

The Bucks missed a good scoring opportunity in the second when walks to Jim Bynon, Wally Buerger and Yanen loaded the sacks with only one out. But White fanned Brunswick and got Don Reimer on a grounded to Jesse Van Winkle at second to end the threat.

The Sports rocked along until the fifth when they opened up for three more runs. Van Winkle led with a single and went to third when Bob Hamric doubled. Jones fanned, but Bobby Greene walked to load the bases. George Andrews punched a long fly to Bynon in center field, Van Winkle scoring after the catch. Then Al Mazur lined a single into left field, scoring Hamric, and Greene also scored as Yanen again let the hit through.

Greenville broke the shut out in the sixth with an unearned run. Manager Larry Bucynski was safe when Jones dropped the throw from Andrews. Dick Kelly sent his skipper to second with a single, and Bynon walked, loading the sacks. Buerger forced Bucynski at the plate, Mazur to Anderson, but Cullums followed with a long fly to Jakes in center that scored Kelly after the catch.

Monroe made its lead more comfortable with two runs in the eighth. Two were out when Kenny, taking over on the mound for the Bucks after Brunswick had been pulled for a pinch hitter in the seventh, hit Van Winkle with a pitched ball. Hamric smashed out a triple, scoring Van Winkle, and Hamric came home when Jones beat out an infield hit.

White gave the Bucks another scoring chance in the ninth when he loaded the bases with free passes and none out, but he got Jim Sinovic on a pop fly for the first out and then Bucynski hit into a double play, Andrews to Van Winkle to Jones, to end the game.

Palestinian Cops $57,100 Brooklyn

New York, July 14.—(AP)—Palestinian, a fragile five-year-old galloper from the stable of Isadore Bieber, sneaked through a tight hole along the rail a sixteenth of a mile from home today and captured the $57,100 Brooklyn Handicap in a roaring finish at Aqueduct race course.

Jockey Sam Boulmetis, imported from Monmouth Park for the day to ride Palestinian, kept the handsome chestnut son of Sun Again-Dolly Whisk in fourth place in the early part of the mile and one quarter.

Then as the pace-setting Sheilas Reward, owned by Mrs. Louis Lazare, began to tire, Boulmetis began moving in the stretch and barged under the finish a full length and a quarter ahead of the third horse, the Rokeby stable's County Delight. It was four more lengths back to Peter A. Markey's Piet, and another length and a half behind came the Brookmeade stable's Greek Ship, the $2.30 to $1 favorite.

Palestinian, who won his first race here in a claiming race in 1948, stepped the route in a good 2:03 2-5 on a fast track. The crowd of 32,271 made Palestinian the second choice in the mutuels, and his backers picked up $9.60, $4.80 and $3.40 for $2. Sheilas Reward kicked back $13.20 and $7.40 to place, and County Delight paid $4.40 to show.

The annual district softball tournament for the northeastern parishes of Louisiana will be held here July 28 and 29, it was announced last night by Jack Hesketh, district commissioner.

Parishes eligible to send teams to the tournament were listed as Lincoln, Union, Ouachita, Caldwell, Morehouse, Richland, West Carroll, East Carroll, Madison, Franklin, and Tensas, but all players must be living or working in the parish from which their teams are listed.

All contending teams must also be registered with the Amateur Softball Association of America. The association membership fee is $3, and the tournament entry fee is $5.

Each team will be allowed 15 players, and only towns with a population under 2,000 will be allowed to enter an All-Star combination or the best players of any teams in their community. Teams from towns with more than 2,000 population will be allowed to use two extra players not members of their regular squad.

Wednesday, July 25, is the deadline for listing entries which should be sent to "The Monroe Recreation Department, Box 1293, Monroe, La."

Commissioner Hesketh said games in the tournament will also be called after five innings if a team has a ten-run lead.

Tatum Now Tops Slugging Parade

Dallas, July 14.—(AP)—Jim Tatum of Oklahoma City took over the Texas League batting leadership this week, moving ahead of Lou Farotto, Dallas, and Johnny Creel, Oklahoma City, who were one-two last week.

Tatum pounded the ball at a 314 clip to lead those with 100 or more times at bat.

Farotto slumped slightly to .307 from .310 the previous week, while Creel took a sharp drop, from .309 to .297.

Jerry Witte, Houston, continued to pace the circuit in home runs with 28, adding four during the week.

Bob Turley, San Antonio, has the best hurling mark with 14 wins against 3 losses. Nine pitchers have won 10 or more games. Duke Markell, Oklahoma City, leads in strikeout, fanning 132.

Citation Takes Gold Cup, Becomes Turf's 1st Million-Dollar Winner

Inglewood, Calif., July 14. —(AP)— Proud Citation reached his golden goal of $1,000,000 today with a magnificent triumph in the $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup Handicap. The wonderful dark bay wonder from Kentucky smashed through to a rousing four length victory.

And to round out a tremendous day for the powerful Calumet farm stable, Citation's stablemate, Bewitch, made it a perfect picture by racing second to become the biggest money winning mare in history.

The win, executed before a howling, screaming crowd of 50,700 fans crammed in Hollywood Park under cloudless skies, was worth exactly $100,000 net to Citation, and sent his lifetime earnings to the fabulous figure of $1,085,760.

The six - year - old champion of champions thus became the first horse millionaire in the annals of the turf, and finally realized a dream and a goal set by his late owner and master of the Calumet empire in Kentucky, Warren Wright.

Bewitch, like Citation a six-year-old, collected $20 000 and boosted her lifetime earnings to $462,605, passing the previous record for mares held by the late W. L. Brann's Gallorette at $445,535.

Citation, with Bewitch and All Blue the odds - on favorite, returned $2.70, $2.40 and $2.10 across the board; Bewitch $2.40 and $2.10, and Be Fleet $4.10.

The mile and one quarter race, No. 12 in the Gold Cup series, was timed at 2.01 flat.

All Blue was taking care of Be Fleet in great style when they hit the backstretch, with Citation third.

Along about then Citation and Brooks must have decided they were wasting their time, because the big fellow began to closre ground. He stowed Be Fleet away without any trouble, and then it was All Blue's time to fall back behind the flying feet and long tail of Citation.

That was just about the race. Citation kept rolling along, and Be Fleet tried to get back up. He couldn't — and then came the Calumet queen, Bewitch. She collared Be Fleet a few strides from the wire and just got under in time to cop the second prize.

Rioting In Ill. City Is Stopped

Cicero, Ill., July 14—(AP)— A spokesman for a Negro bus driver announced today he will continue his efforts to occupy a mob-battered apartment in Cicero.

All was quiet today as soldiers and police patrolled behind barbed wire barricades in the half mile square trouble area—scene of a riot Thursday night.

In a news conference held by the National Association for the advancement of colored people, Leighton, said the Negro family will move in when the riot-torn apartment is fit to occupy.

"We will demand that every public official, from the town president to the governor, remove all vestiges of lawlessness, and then move Clark into the building," Leighton declared.

He said he was one of several lawyers representing Harvey E. Clark, 29, Negro bus driver who attempted to move into the building on Tuesday. Walter White, secretary of the NAACP who is investigating the case, attended the news conference.

MONROE SQUARES SERIES WITH GREENVILLE

Sports End Mississippi Visit Today, Return Home Tomorrow

Greenville, Miss., July 14—(Special)—Although he showed streaks of wildness at times, Claude White hurled his twelfth victory for the Monroe Sports here tonight as he tamed the Greenville Bucks, 6 to 1, on five hits. White, who has lost only five games, got himself in trouble a few times in his generousity with bases on balls but was able to pull out in the clutches.

The triumph enabled the Sports, leaders of the Cotton States League, to even their series. The Bucks and Sports close out their current rivalry with a single game Sunday afternoon before Greenville moves to Clarksdale Monday night while Monroe returns home for a series with Hot Springs.

The Sports banged two Greenville pitchers, Pete Brunswick and "Red" Kennedy, for twelve hits to night as Jesse Van Winkle sparked the Monroe attack with three hits in three times at bat. Van Winkle reached base every time he came to bat, walking once and being hit by a pitched ball. He scored two runs.

Only extra-base socker of the night was Monroe's Bob Hamric. He hit two-for-four, accounting for a triple and a double. He scored twice and batted in one run. Don Reimer led the Bucks with two-for-four.

Two hits and an error enabled Monroe to grab an early lead with one run in the first inning. Harvill Jakes led with a single and went on to second when George Yanen let his drive get through him in left field. A single by John Paul Jones scored Jakes.

The Bucks missed a good scoring opportunity in the second when walks to Jim Bynon, Wally Buerger and Yanen loaded the sacks with only one out. But White fanned Brunswick and got Don Reimer on a grounded to Jesse Van Winkle at second to end the threat.

The Sports rocked along until the fifth when they opened up for three more runs. Van Winkle led with a single and went to third when Bob Hamric doubled. Jones fanned, but Bobby Greene walked to load the bases. George Andrews punched a long fly to Bynon in center field, Van Winkle scoring after the catch. Then Al Mazur lined a single into left field, scoring Hamric, and Greene also scored as Yanen again let the hit through.

Greenville broke the shut out in the sixth with an unearned run. Manager Larry Bucynski was safe when Jones dropped the throw from Andrews. Dick Kelly sent his skipper to second with a single, and Bynon walked, loading the sacks. Buerger forced Bucynski at the plate, Mazur to Anderson, but Cullums followed with a long fly to Jakes in center that scored Kelly after the catch.

Monroe made its lead more comfortable with two runs in the eighth. Two were out when Kenny, taking over on the mound for the Bucks after Brunswick had been pulled for a pinch hitter in the seventh, hit Van Winkle with a pitched ball. Hamric smashed out a triple, scoring Van Winkle, and Hamric came home when Jones beat out an infield hit.

White gave the Bucks another scoring chance in the ninth when he loaded the bases with free passes and none out, but he got Jim Sinovic on a pop fly for the first out and then Bucynski hit into a double play, Andrews to Van Winkle to Jones, to end the game.

Palestinian Cops $57,100 Brooklyn

New York, July 14.—(AP)—Palestinian, a fragile five-year-old galloper from the stable of Isadore Bieber, sneaked through a tight hole along the rail a sixteenth of a mile from home today and captured the $57,100 Brooklyn Handicap in a roaring finish at Aqueduct race course.

Jockey Sam Boulmetis, imported from Monmouth Park for the day to ride Palestinian, kept the handsome chestnut son of Sun Again-Dolly Whisk in fourth place in the early part of the mile and one quarter.

Then as the pace-setting Sheilas Reward, owned by Mrs. Louis Lazare, began to tire, Boulmetis began moving in the stretch and barged under the finish a full length and a quarter ahead of the third horse, the Rokeby stable's County Delight. It was four more lengths back to Peter A. Markey's Piet, and another length and a half behind came the Brookmeade stable's Greek Ship, the $2.30 to $1 favorite.

Palestinian, who won his first race here in a claiming race in 1948, stepped the route in a good 2:03 2-5 on a fast track. The crowd of 32,271 made Palestinian the second choice in the mutuels, and his backers picked up $9.60, $4.80 and $3.40 for $2. Sheilas Reward kicked back $13.20 and $7.40 to place, and County Delight paid $4.40 to show.

Commissioner Hesketh said games in the tournament will also be called after five innings if a team has a ten-run lead.

Tatum Now Tops Slugging Parade

Dallas, July 14.—(AP)—Jim Tatum of Oklahoma City took over the Texas League batting leadership this week, moving ahead of Lou Farotto, Dallas, and Johnny Creel, Oklahoma City, who were one-two last week.

Tatum pounded the ball at a 314 clip to lead those with 100 or more times at bat.

Farotto slumped slightly to .307 from .310 the previous week, while Creel took a sharp drop, from .309 to .297.

Jerry Witte, Houston, continued to pace the circuit in home runs with 28, adding four during the week.

Bob Turley, San Antonio, has the best hurling mark with 14 wins against 3 losses. Nine pitchers have won 10 or more games. Duke Markell, Oklahoma City, leads in strikeout, fanning 132.

Blum Wins Dixie Amateur Tourney

Columbus, Ga., July 14. —(AP)— Arnold Blum of Macon, Ga., defeated Eddie Merrins of Meridian, Miss., 3-2 today to win the Southern Amateur Golf Tournament.

Blum won his first Southern on the 16th hole when he ran in a 10-foot putt for a birdie two. Merrins, an 18 - year old Louisiana State University Golfer, narrowly missed his putt.

Inglewood, Calif., July 14. —(AP)— Proud Citation reached his golden goal of $1,000,000 today with a magnificent triumph in the $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup Handicap. The wonderful dark bay wonder from Kentucky smashed through to a rousing four length victory.

And to round out a tremendous day for the powerful Calumet farm stable, Citation's stablemate, Bewitch, made it a perfect picture by racing second to become the biggest money winning mare in history.

The win, executed before a howling, screaming crowd of 50,700 fans crammed in Hollywood Park under cloudless skies, was worth exactly $100,000 net to Citation, and sent his lifetime earnings to the fabulous figure of $1,085,760.

The six - year - old champion of champions thus became the first horse millionaire in the annals of the turf, and finally realized a dream and a goal set by his late owner and master of the Calumet empire in Kentucky, Warren Wright.

Bewitch, like Citation a six-year-old, collected $20,000 and boosted her lifetime earnings to $462,605, passing the previous record for mares held by the late W. L. Brann's Gallorette at $445,535.

Citation, with Bewitch and All Blue the odds - on favorite, returned $2.70, $2.40 and $2.10 across the board; Bewitch $2.40 and $2.10, and Be Fleet $4.10.

The mile and one quarter race, No. 12 in the Gold Cup series, was timed at 2.01 flat.

All Blue was taking care of Be Fleet in great style when they hit the backstretch, with Citation third.

Along about then Citation and Brooks must have decided they were wasting their time, because the big fellow began to closre ground. He stowed Be Fleet away without any trouble, and then it was All Blue's time to fall back behind the flying feet and long tail of Citation.

That was just about the race. Citation kept rolling along, and Be Fleet tried to get back up. He couldn't — and then came the Calumet queen, Bewitch. She collared Be Fleet a few strides from the wire and just got under in time to cop the second prize.

Rioting In Ill. City Is Stopped

Cicero, Ill., July 14—(AP)— A spokesman for a Negro bus driver announced today he will continue his efforts to occupy a mob-battered apartment in Cicero.

All was quiet today as soldiers and police patrolled behind barbed wire barricades in the half mile square trouble area—scene of a riot Thursday night.

In a news conference held by the National Association for the advancement of colored people, Leighton, said the Negro family will move in when the riot-torn apartment is fit to occupy.

"We will demand that every public official, from the town president to the governor, remove all vestiges of lawlessness, and then move Clark into the building," Leighton declared.

He said he was one of several lawyers representing Harvey E. Clark, 29, Negro bus driver who attempted to move into the building on Tuesday. Walter White, secretary of the NAACP who is investigating the case, attended the news conference.

SNEAD TIES FAZIO IN WESTERN OPEN

Lloyd Mangrum One Stroke Off Pace In Second Place At End Of 3rd Round

Davenport, Ia., July 14. —AP— Sam Snead, the defending champion, and George Fazio, the little fighter from the Pine Valley, N. J., club, battled to a 202 first-place tie today to lead the Western Open Golf Tournament through the third round.

Slamming Sam, the fellow with a lot of titles and a big golf bankroll, was first home with a 31-34—65, five under par for the Davenport Country Club course. That gave Snead, two strokes behind leader Fazio at the 36-hole mark, a 202 total for 54 holes.

Fazio, who opened the tournament with a record-breaking 63, was busy whipping par when Snead's score was posted. George, a slight, balding 36-year-old shooter, was last in. At least 2,000 of the estimated 8,000 persons who tromped the hills on the hot, humid day waited his arrival.

Fazio needed a par 4 to tie Snead. He missed a 20-foot sidehill putt that would have given him a 3 and sent him ahead. But he tapped in his second putt and the crowd cheered his 34-33—67.

Lloyd Mangrum, Niles, Ill., also two strokes behind Fazio at 36 holes, closed the margin to one shot by firing a 66 for a 203 figure and the third position.

Jack and George Curtis, light heavyweight brothers, combine their wrestling talents in Gus Kallio's Arena Tuesday night in answer to a challenge by veteran Rex Mobley, who is sided by Al Getz.

Mobley tossed the challenge to Jack, the elder Curtis, last week when the former title-holder tangled with "Buff" Serois in his first Monroe appearance in months.

"It looks like Curtis has lost a lot of weight," Mobley told Promoter Kallio. "He's just about my size now, and if he isn't, he will be after the match."

Kallio agreed to give Mobley his shot at Curtis, but Jack refused to be drawn into a relay tag match unless his younger brother could side him in the ring. Mobley arranged for Getz, and in the meantime the younger Curtis informed Kallio to go ahead with the match.

Bill Barney of West Monroe will referee the match, which starts at 8 p. m. with two brief opening bouts between members of the opposing tag teams.

STANLEY TAKES PUBLINKS TITLE

Repulses Stirring Stretch Drive Of Varanesic To Win In 38 Holes

Milwaukee, July 14—(AP)—One of the greatest comebacks in golfing history fell short today as Dave Stanley, 20-year-old U. C. L. A. junior, defeated Ralph Vranesic, Denver, on the 38th hole to win the 26th National Public Links championship.

Vraneisc, five down at the end of 27 holes, clipped a stroke off par to square the match in the stretch drive, dropping a six-footer on the 36th then send it into extra holes.

They halved the 37th in fives, one over par, as Stanley muffed an 18-inch putt, but Vranesic ran into trouble on the 38th and Stanley's par four was good enough to win the longest finals in Public Links annalsr

On his stretch drive, 35-year-old Vranesic was red-hot on the greens as he ran down putts of 20, 40, 25 and six feet for wins—two with birdies—to square the match after taking the 28th with a park.

District Legion Baseball Title At Stake Today

American Legion Junior baseball teams of Farmerville and Monroe, their meeting here last night postponed because of rain, will tangle at Legion Memorial Stadium this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock to determine the Fifth District championship.

Farmerville defending champions lost the series opener to the Monroe Juniors, 23-4, at Farmerville Friday night. If Farmerville should square the series this afternoon, the two clubs will immediately turn their date into a double header show with the second game to decide the title.

The winner of the Farmerville-Monroe series will appear against the champion from the Shreveport area in a state regional series pointing toward the state championship.

Firemen Dampen Fire Of Police

"Anything can happen on a baseball diamond," policemen lamented Friday night after suffering a 10 to 2 defeat at the hands of the fire department, as firemen and police clashed in their second annual game at Legion Memorial Stadium.

While Theo Finkbeiner was busy hurling a five-hitter for the firemen, two or three clowns administered Hadacol to a balking Griffin-Lutz, but policemen accused firemen of using the medicine before the game.

A fireman gave the final score as 10 to 2. A policeman said it was 8 to 3, but a captain finally agreed with the fireman's version, and offered a score by innings from memory to prove his point. He seemed a little doubtful, however, over whose team made the ten runs.

The score by innings:

Firemen	101 152 0—10
Police	101 000 0— 2

T. Finkbeiner and J. D. Brownlee; Scarborough, Kelly and Simpson.

Texas Junior Leaguers Clash With Red Shield

A Corpus Christi, Tex., Junior baseball team will revert to softball here Wednesday night on the Barkdull Faulk diamond, in a game with the Red Shield Junior Recreation League softball club of Monroe.

Ben Jones, skipper of the Texas travelers, has a total of 25 wins against no losses in his Texas baseball games, but since he was unable to find a baseball club in Monroe in the same age group as his own team, Jones agreed to make it a softball game with the local Juniors.

Bruins Relish Hit-Feast To Wallop Dodgers In Both Ends Of Twin Bill

Brooklyn, July 14.—(AP)—The big bats of Hank Sauer, Randy Jackson and Bruce Edwards ended Chicago's victory famine at eight games today as the Cubs bounced Brooklyn's league-leading Dodgers, 5 to 4 and 11 to 7, in a hit-filled double header.

Brooklyn's eight-game winning streak was snapped in the opener as Sauer smashed across four runs on a double and two home runs.

Jackson and Edwards knocked in nine of Chicago's runs in the nightcap, with Jackson accounting for five.

While the respective eight-game winning and losing streak were halted, Frankie Frisch's string of being chased from the field was extended to three straight days. The Cubs' manager was tossed out in the fourth inning of the opener after arguing with Umpire Lee Ballanfant.

Jack and George Curtis, light heavyweight brothers, combine their wrestling talents in Gus Kallio's Arena Tuesday night in answer to a challenge by veteran Rex Mobley, who is sided by Al Getz.

Mobley tossed the challenge to Jack, the elder Curtis, last week when the former title-holder tangled with "Buff" Serois in his first Monroe appearance in months.

"It looks like Curtis has lost a lot of weight," Mobley told Promoter Kallio. "He's just about my size now, and if he isn't, he will be after the match."

Kallio agreed to give Mobley his shot at Curtis, but Jack refused to be drawn into a relay tag match unless his younger brother could side him in the ring. Mobley arranged for Getz, and in the meantime the younger Curtis informed Kallio to go ahead with the match.

Bill Barney of West Monroe will referee the match, which starts at 8 p. m. with two brief opening bouts between members of the opposing tag teams.

STANLEY TAKES PUBLINKS TITLE

Repulses Stirring Stretch Drive Of Varanesic To Win In 38 Holes

Milwaukee, July 14—(AP)—One of the greatest comebacks in golfing history fell short today as Dave Stanley, 20-year-old U. C. L. A. junior, defeated Ralph Vranesic, Denver, on the 38th hole to win the 26th National Public Links championship.

Vranesic, five down at the end of 27 holes, clipped a stroke off par to square the match in the stretch drive, dropping a six-footer on the 36th then send it into extra holes.

They halved the 37th in fives, one over par, as Stanley muffed an 18-inch putt, but Vranesic ran into trouble on the 38th and Stanley's par four was good enough to win the longest finals in Public Links annalsr

On his stretch drive, 35-year-old Vranesic was red-hot on the greens as he ran down putts of 20, 40, 25 and six feet for wins—two with birdies—to square the match after taking the 28th with a park.

District Legion Baseball Title At Stake Today

American Legion Junior baseball teams of Farmerville and Monroe, their meeting here last night postponed because of rain, will tangle at Legion Memorial Stadium this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock to determine the Fifth District championship.

Farmerville defending champions lost the series opener to the Monroe Juniors, 23-4, at Farmerville Friday night. If Farmerville should square the series this afternoon, the two clubs will immediately turn their date into a double header show with the second game to decide the title.

The winner of the Farmerville-Monroe series will appear against the champion from the Shreveport area in a state regional series pointing toward the state championship.

Firemen Dampen Fire Of Police

"Anything can happen on a baseball diamond," policemen lamented Friday night after suffering a 10 to 2 defeat at the hands of the fire department, as firemen and police clashed in their second annual game at Legion Memorial Stadium.

While Theo Finkbeiner was busy hurling a five-hitter for the firemen, two or three clowns administered Hadacol to a balking Griffin-Lutz, but policemen accused firemen of using the medicine before the game.

A fireman gave the final score as 10 to 2. A policeman said it was 8 to 2. Another believed it was 8 to 3, but a captain finally agreed with the fireman's version, and offered a score by innings from memory to prove his point. He seemed a little doubtful, however, over whose team made the ten runs.

The score by innings:

Firemen	101 152 0—10
Police	101 000 0— 2

T. Finkbeiner and J. D. Brownlee; Scarborough, Kelly and Simpson.

Texas Junior Leaguers Clash With Red Shield

A Corpus Christi, Tex., Junior baseball team will revert to softball here Wednesday night on the Barkdull Faulk diamond, in a game with the Red Shield Junior Recreation League softball club of Monroe.

Ben Jones, skipper of the Texas travelers, has a total of 25 wins against no losses in his Texas baseball games, but since he was unable to find a baseball club in Monroe in the same age group as his own team, Jones agreed to make it a softball game with the local Juniors.

Bruins Relish Hit-Feast To Wallop Dodgers In Both Ends Of Twin Bill

Brooklyn, July 14.—(AP)—The big bats of Hank Sauer, Randy Jackson and Bruce Edwards ended Chicago's victory famine at eight games today as the Cubs bounced Brooklyn's league-leading Dodgers, 5 to 4 and 11 to 7, in a hit-filled double header.

Brooklyn's eight-game winning streak was snapped in the opener as Sauer smashed across four runs on a double and two home runs.

Jackson and Edwards knocked in nine of Chicago's runs in the nightcap, with Jackson accounting for five.

While the respective eight-game winning and losing streak were halted, Frankie Frisch's string of being chased from the field was extended to three straight days. The Cubs' manager was tossed out in the fourth inning of the opener after arguing with Umpire Lee Ballanfant.

Chicago, July 14. —(AP)— The Boston Red Sox' money-player, Clyde Vollmer, paid off again with a two-run ninth inning single for a 3-2 win over the Chicago White Sox in the finale of a torrid four-game set. The victory moved the first place Red Sox a full game in front of the White Sox.

The fourth straight one run decision of the crucial series came as the White Sox failed to score against lefty Charley Stobbs after filling the bases with two out in the ninth. Chicago scored its only runs in the second.

It was Stobbs' first win of the season over the White Sox. He scattered six hits for his seventh victory against three defeats— all notched against him by the Pale Hose.

The triumph gave the Red Sox a 50-30 record for a .625 percentage, while the White Sox nestled into a .610 second place rating with 50-32 after starting today's game only three percentage points behind the Red Sox.

Vollmer's line single to left after Bobby Doerr had singled and Billy Goodman doubled in the ninth won the game. It was the sixth time the big fly chaser produced the winning punch for Boston in the last seven games.

It was a heart-breaking defeat for the White Sox, who showed signs on repeating their great comeback for a 19-inning, 5-4 win last night. They filled the bases in the ninth. But Stobbs wasn't to be denied.

INDIANS PASTE YANKS

Cleveland, July 14. —(AP)— The vengeful Cleveland Indians, smarting from their no-hit defeat Thursday, pulled to within one game of third place New York today by handing the Yankees an 8 to 0 drubbing behind Early Wynn's two-hit pitching.

It gave the Tribe a 2 to 1 margin in their three-game series and further tightened the close American League pennant race. The victory also marked the first time the Tribe has shut out the New Yorkers in two years.

CHANDLER REIGN ENDS TOMORROW

'Happy' Ends Stormy Six-Year Rule As Baseball Commissioner

Cincinnati, July 14.—(AP)—Happy Chandler's stormy six-year reign as baseball commissioner ends tomorrow. Then he becomes just another fan.

"I'm going fishing for a while—in the quiet and calm waters of God's country—Kentucky," Chandler said recently when he agreed to resign.

There were 10 months to go on Chandler's unfinished contract when he signed himself out of office—to the relief of the owners who refused to give him another seven-year term.

Quitting at his own terms, as he announced, Chandler will be paid off in full on his $65,000 annual salary. He will be granted legal protection from any suit against baseball but will defend baseball in the several suits against it.

There were years of victories and heart-breaking defeats for the smiling man from Kentucky who was nicknamed "Happy" when he entered politics years ago. Before he was elected commissioner he served as governor of his state and U. S. senator.

Chandler's collapse as the big boss of baseball came as startling shock to the commissioner, just when he expected to be voted the job for life.

He entered the winter meetings at St. Ptersburg, Fla. last December, confident of a new contract and a salary boost. The night before his scheduled re-election, Chandler attended a banquet.

While Chandler dined, the owners met in another hotel and refused to vote him a new term. Needing 12 votes for re-election, the best Happy could muster was nine. Seven owners held out against him.

The owners sent a delegation to inform Chandler of their decision. Shocked by the news, Happy asked for another vote. His request was granted. He lost again.

Calling a hurried press conference, Chandler announced he was resigning at the end of his term because the owners failed to vote him a new contract.

But Chandler decided to make a fight of it. Next day he announced he would serve out his term "to the last second." Confident of his ability to rally the necessary 12 votes, he campaigned for re-election.

Once more he failed. A second meeting of the owners at Miami Beach last March turned him down. Again he had nine votes but not enough to win.

Chandler announced he would step out but did not name the day until June 21 after a series of conferences with the owners and their lawyers.

In the absence of a commissioner, baseball will be ruled by the executive council, composed of presidents Ford Frick of the National League and Will Harridge of the American, Tom Yawkey, Boston Red Sox owner, and Warren Giles, president of the Cincinnati Reds.

'Old-Timers' To Show Their Wares In Exhibition With Monroe Sports

The yellowed pages of the baseball history books will be opened again Tuesday night at American Legion Memorial Stadium.

More than a dozen former professional players will take part in the first annual "Old - Timers Game" prior to the Monroe-Hot Springs clash that night as the ex-greats will play a three-inning exhibition tilt against the Sports.

Headed by such former major league stars as Atley Donald "Buddy" Blair, Ray Harrell and Bob Harmon, the performance will be the first in what, Business Manager Paul Manasseh hopes, will become an annual occurrence in the Twin Cities.

Manager Al Mazur is scheduled to toe the mound for the current edition of the Sports while the starter for the "elder statesmen" remains in doubt. It's probably going to depend on which one of the hurling hopefulis isn't too worn out from pre-game drills.

In addition to the above-named ex-players the remainder includes Pete Medak, Sonny Keith, "Buck" Weaver, Ray Hoffman, Tom Perry, Ernie Horne, Earl Wyatt, Eddy Whetstone, and a surprise starter who's identity will not be made known until game time.

Although Manasseh refused to reveal who it is, he did say that he is a player who formerly performed with the Sports and established quite a reputation while with the locals.

Donald is a former New York Yankee ace who now serves as a scout for the Bombers; Blair played with the Yankees and the Philadelphia Athletic and now is a local sporting goods dealer; Harrell, who was with the St. Louis Cardinals, presently is managing the semi-pro Bastrop Barons of the Northeast Louisiana League; while Bob Harmon, a star with the Cards and the Pittsburgh Pirates in the first decade of the century, is retired from active business pursuits.

Game time for the affair will be at 7:30 p. m. with the regular match between the Sports and the Bathers will follow the conclusion of three innings of play.

The Mazurmen return home tomorrow night after a six - game road trip. They'll meet the Hot Springs Bathers and Monday night will be observed as "ladies night" with the fairer sex being admitted on payment of a small service charge. In addition, Manasseh announced that the seventh in the seris of "Casey at the Bat" drinking glasses will be given to each of the first 300 ladies entering the grandstand.

Bobby Greene Again Threatening Cotton States' Batting Leaders

By J. P. Friend

Blytheville, Ark., July 14.—(Special)— Monroe's thumping young outfielder, Bobby Greene, is making his bid for the Cotton States League batting leadership.

Apparently recovered from a painful side injury, the former Fair Park High School (Shreveport) all-round star picked up seven points in three games during the week ending July 10 and closed in on the battling leaders, Jim Gilbert, Natchez, and Carl Tumlinson, Greenwood, with an impressive .342. In his last game of the period, he blasted a perfect 3-3, batted in a pair and drew three bases on balls.

Gilbert clung to his loop lead by a slim one-point margin over Tumlinson, .367 to .366. The Indian clouter lost three points, Carl only two during the busy week, according to the Friend News Service, statistician.

Greenwood thwarted Billy Muffett's bid for win No. 15, July 8, (Greenville did it again Friday night) but the Monroe ace still leads the pitchers in total wins and percentage with 143 and .824. Ira Moxley, his conquerer in the annual All-Star game, July 9, has a record of 13-5. Nine others have won 10 games and more: Vachel Perkins, Pine Bluff, 11-5 ; Bill Black, Pine Bluff, and Larry Fox, Natchez, 11-6 each; Joe Kopach, Clarksdale, 11-12; Claude White, Monroe and Jerry Gardner, El Dorado, 10-5 apiece; Roy Jayne, Natchez, and Don Ferguson, 10-7, and Tommy Graham, El Dorado, 10-8. Jayne leads the strikeouters with 115. White has whiffed 109; Darvin (No- Hit) Chrisco, Monroe, 106. Black earned the distinction of walking 103, the first to issue 100 passes. Jayne has handed out 102 free tickets. Fred Waters has won his two starts since joining Greenwood.

Chicago, July 14. —(AP)— The Boston Red Sox' money-player, Clyde Vollmer, paid off again with a two-run ninth inning single for a 3-2 win over the Chicago White Sox in the finale of a torrid four-game set. The victory moved the first place Red Sox a full game in front of the White Sox.

The fourth straight one run decision of the crucial series came as the White Sox failed to score against lefty Charley Stobbs after filling the bases with two out in the ninth. Chicago scored its only runs in the second.

It was Stobbs' first win of the season over the White Sox. He scattered six hits for his seventh victory against three defeats— all notched against him by the Pale Hose.

The triumph gave the Red Sox a 50-30 record for a .625 percentage, while the White Sox nestled into a .610 second place rating with 50-32 after starting today's game only three percentage points behind the Red Sox.

Vollmer's line single to left after Bobby Doerr had singled and Billy Goodman doubled in the ninth won the game. It was the sixth time the big fly chaser produced the winning punch for Boston in the last seven games.

It was a heart-breaking defeat for the White Sox, who showed signs on repeating their great comeback for a 19-inning, 5-4 win last night. They filled the bases in the ninth. But Stobbs wasn't to be denied.

INDIANS PASTE YANKS

Cleveland, July 14. —(AP)— The vengeful Cleveland Indians, smarting from their no-hit defeat Thursday, pulled to within one game of third place New York today by handing the Yankees an 8 to 0 drubbing behind Early Wynn's two-hit pitching.

It gave the Tribe a 2 to 1 margin in their three-game series and further tightened the close American League pennant race. The victory also marked the first time the Tribe has shut out the New Yorkers in two years.

CHANDLER REIGN ENDS TOMORROW

'Happy' Ends Stormy Six-Year Rule As Baseball Commissioner

Cincinnati, July 14.—(AP)—Happy Chandler's stormy six-year reign as baseball commissioner ends tomorrow. Then he becomes just another fan.

"I'm going fishing for a while—in the quiet and calm waters of God's country—Kentucky," Chandler said recently when he agreed to resign.

There were 10 months to go on Chandler's unfinished contract when he signed himself out of office—to the relief of the owners who refused to give him another seven-year term.

Quitting at his own terms, as he announced, Chandler will be paid off in full on his $65,000 annual salary. He will be granted legal protection from any suit against baseball but will defend baseball in the several suits against it.

There were years of victories and heart-breaking defeats for the smiling man from Kentucky who was nicknamed "Happy" when he entered politics years ago. Before he was elected commissioner he served as governor of his state and U. S. senator.

Chandler's collapse as the big boss of baseball came as startling shock to the commissioner, just when he expected to be voted the job for life.

He entered the winter meetings at St. Ptersburg, Fla. last December, confident of a new contract and a salary boost. The night before his scheduled re-election, Chandler attended a banquet.

While Chandler dined, the owners met in another hotel and refused to vote him a new term. Needing 12 votes for re-election, the best Happy could muster was nine. Seven owners held out against him.

The owners sent a delegation to inform Chandler of their decision. Shocked by the news, Happy asked for another vote. His request was granted. He lost again.

Calling a hurried press conference, Chandler announced he was resigning at the end of his term because the owners failed to vote him a new contract.

But Chandler decided to make a fight of it. Next day he announced he would serve out his term "to the last second." Confident of his ability to rally the necessary 12 votes, he campaigned for re-election.

Once more he failed. A second meeting of the owners at Miami Beach last March turned him down. Again he had nine votes but not enough to win.

Chandler announced he would step out but did not name the day until June 21 after a series of conferences with the owners and their lawyers.

In the absence of a commissioner, baseball will be ruled by the executive council, composed of presidents Ford Frick of the National League and Will Harridge of the American, Tom Yawkey, Boston Red Sox owner, and Warren Giles, president of the Cincinnati Reds.

'Old-Timers' To Show Their Wares In Exhibition With Monroe Sports

The yellowed pages of the baseball history books will be opened again Tuesday night at American Legion Memorial Stadium.

More than a dozen former professional players will take part in the first annual "Old - Timers Game" prior to the Monroe-Hot Springs clash that night as the ex-greats will play a three-inning exhibition tilt against the Sports.

Headed by such former major league stars as Atley Donald "Buddy" Blair, Ray Harrell and Bob Harmon, the performance will be the first in what. Business Manager Paul Manasseh hopes, will become an annual occurrence in the Twin Cities.

Manager Al Mazur is scheduled to toe the mound for the current edition of the Sports while the starter for the "elder statesmen" remains in doubt. It's probably going to depend on which one of the hurling hopefulls isn't too worn out from pre-game drills.

In addition to the above-named ex-players the remainder includes Pete Medak, Sonny Keith, "Buck" Weaver, Ray Hoffman, Tom Perry, Ernie Horne, Earl Wyatt, Eddy Whetstone, and a surprise starter who's identity will not be made known until game time.

Although Manasseh refused to reveal who it is, he did say that he is a player who formerly performed with the Sports and established quite a reputation while with the locals.

Donald is a former New York Yankee ace who now serves as a scout for the Bombers; Blair played with the Yankees and the Philadelphia Athletic and now is a local sporting goods dealer; Harrell, who was with the St. Louis Cardinals, presently is managing the semi-pro Bastrop Barons of the Northeast Louisiana League; while Bob Harmon, a star with the Cards and the Pittsburgh Pirates in the first decade of the century, is retired from active business pursuits.

Game time for the affair will be at 7:30 p. m. with the regular match between the Sports and the Bathers will follow the conclusion of three innings of play.

The Mazurmen return home tomorrow night after a six - game road trip. They'll meet the Hot Springs Bathers and Monday night will be observed as "ladies night" with the fairer sex being admitted on payment of a small service charge. In addition, Manasseh announced that the seventh in the seris of "Casey at the Bat" drinking glasses will be given to each of the first 300 ladies entering the grandstand.

Bobby Greene Again Threatening Cotton States' Batting Leaders

By J. P. Friend

Blytheville, Ark., July 14.—(Special)— Monroe's thumping young outfielder, Bobby Greene, is making his bid for the Cotton States League batting leadership.

Apparently recovered from a painful side injury, the former Fair Park High School (Shreveport) all-round star picked up seven points in three games during the week ending July 10 and closed in on the battling leaders, Jim Gilbert, Natchez, and Carl Tumlinson, Greenwood, with an impressive .342. In his last game of the period, he blasted a perfect 3-3, batted in a pair and drew three bases on balls.

Gilbert clung to his loop lead by a slim one-point margin over Tumlinson, .367 to .366. The Indian clouter lost three points, Carl only two during the busy week, according to the Friend News Service, statistician.

Greenwood thwarted Billy Muffett's bid for win No. 15, July 8, (Greenville did it again Friday night) but the Monroe ace still leads the pitchers in total wins and percentage with 143 and .824. Ira Moxley, his conquerer in the annual All-Star game, July 9, has a record of 13-5. Nine others have won 10 games and more: Vachel Perkins, Pine Bluff, 11-5 ; Bill Black, Pine Bluff, and Larry Fox, Natchez, 11-6 each; Joe Kopach, Clarksdale, 11-12; Claude White, Monroe and Jerry Gardner, El Dorado, 10-5 apiece; Roy Jayne, Natchez, and Don Ferguson, 10-7, and Tommy Graham, El Dorado, 10-8. Jayne leads the strikeouters with 115. White has whiffed 109; Darvin (No- Hit) Chrisco, Monroe, 106. Black earned the distinction of walking 103, the first to issue 100 passes. Jayne has handed out 102 free tickets. Fred Waters has won his two starts since joining Greenwood.

Chicago, July 14. —(AP)— A crowd of 23,850 today saw Sickle's Image romp to a convincing victory in the $72,400 Arlington Matron Handicap at Arlington Park today.

The purse to the winner was $53,925, the largest ever won in a single race by a filly or mare in all racing history.

Sickle's Image, winner of seven in 12 previous starts this season, triumphed by a length and a half, with Aunt Jinny, juvenile filly champion of 1950, second, War Talk and Here's Hoping fourth in a field of thirteen.

The time for the mile was 1:36 1-5.

She earned $38,700 as a juvenile last year and today's victory boosted her life time earnings to $154,275.

Sickle's Image went to the post as second choice to the Dixiana pair of Here's Hoping and Wondering. The winner returned $9.60, $5.40 and $4.20, with Aunt Jinny paying $29.80 to place and $14.60 to show. The show price on War Talk was $6.80.

Policeman Is Suspended For Criticizing Dept.

New Orleans, July 14—(AP)—A policeman who criticized the police department here was fired today, but Police Superintendent Joseph L. Scheuerling said the dismissal was based on the officer's past record.

Patrolman Albert C. Haenel, assigned to the traffic division, was one of a group of officers who recently signed a petition protesting what they called a quota system for traffic tickets. The group contended they were required to issue a specified number of traffic-violation tickets per day. Police authorities denied they issued such instructions.

Scheuering said today that Haenel had been suspended five times on various charges and on three occasions was brought before him for trial.

Negro Treated For Cuts Sustained In Accident

A Negro named Montia Williams, of Mangham, was treated at the Vaughan - Wright-Bendel Clinic last night for arm lacerations following an accident on U.S. Highway 80 near Roadside Park around 9:30.

No report from the state police was available on the details of the accident.

FRENCH DISPLAY

Only one infantry regiment marched past the reviewing stand in the new French battle-dress —water proof khaki blouses and baggy pants whose ample folds will allow woolen linings to replace the old-time military topcoats in winter months.

But most of the 7,000 men on parade marched in the British battle-dress they have worn since the end of the war. Even the once-colorful North African Spahis were in sober khaki and rode light tanks instead of plunging Arab horses.

These were some of the things which made this year's July 14 parade different from all those which preceded it:

A helicopter, piloted by a French air force captain, whirled along in the parade just a few feet from the ground and dipped in hovering salute right before the reviewing stand.

A hundred planes—most of them jets — screamed overhead in a lightning review which lasted less than three minutes of the two-hour parade. Among the planes was a new French jet, "Mystery," and American-made thunderjets.

New French-built eight-wheeled reconnaissance cars rolled, equipped with dual driving posts like trolley-cars and able to travel as fast backwards as forwards.

Jet-propelled assault boats, 13-ton light tank chasers and rocket-launching ramps, all French made.

These are all new weapons introduced to warfare since an old-fashioned French army went down before Adolf Hitler's modern style Blitzkreig.

French army engineers threw a 100-ton floating bridge across the Seine in four hours and sent three Sherman tanks across it.

In his message to the Republic, President Truman said "in the course of the past year, the French people and the American people have made heavy sacrifices for liberty. They have resisted aggression with success. Their strength, joined with that of other peace-loving peoples, has steadily grown. Pursuit of these combined efforts will assure peace, for it will discourage aggression."

Will Seek Indictments In Black Market Baby Trade

New York, June 14.—(AP)—Indictments in a "black market in babies operating from Massachusetts to Florida, will be sought next week, Queens County District Attorney Charles P. Sullivan said today.

Baby farms, where expectant mothers stayed, were located in Lynn, Mass., Baltimore, and Miami, he said.

Sullivan said he will seek indictments for perjury, forgery, and conspiracy.

The district attorney mentioned no names.

He estimated the ring made profits of $100,000 in the last 18 months by charging foster parents fees ranging from $1,500 to $4,500.

The mothers frequently promised fat fees for giving up their infants, he said, usually received nothing, but at times got as much as $300.

Sullivan said doctors and nurses offered unmarried young women secret and gratis facilities for childbirth on their promise to give up the children.

"The vicious practice of baby selling and the victimizing of unfortunate or destitute mothers must be stamped out," Sullivan said.

"We will prosecute these vultures with all the power and punishment prescribed by the state's welfare laws pertaining to adoption and by the penal laws pertaining to perjury and conspiracy."

FIRE ALARMS

A falling limb snapped an electrical wire at 1006 North Second street at 6:05 p m yesterday, but firemen of Company 103 stood by at the scene until city repairmen removed the danger

A short circuit set fire to the car of C. L. Cook, 4311 Dick Taylor street, at 9:45 o'clock last night, but no serious damage was incurred, and no one was injured. Company 103 extinguished the blaze on the scene, at Eighth and Adams street

Journalists Urged To Support Oatis

Miami, Fla., July 14.—(AP)—Professional newspaper men of the nation were urged today to speak out in defense of William N. Oatis, American newspaperman sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment on charges of espionage by the Communist government of Czechoslovakia.

The greater Miami professional chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, the professional journalistic fraternity, urged the national fraternity "to name a committee with full authority to speak and act in the name of professional newspapermen who are members of this fraternity in defense of honorable news reporting and William N.e Oatis."

Lee Hills, managing editor of the Miami Herald and a vice president of the national fraternity, was named a committee of one to work out the plan with the fraternity and the Associated Press.

Oatis was chief of bureau in Czechoslovakia for the Associated Press. Three Czech associates in his office also were convicted.

A resolution adopted by the Miami chapter and made public by Hills today said that Oatis was trained in the American tradition of alert and inquiring reporting. He was particularly criticized by the Communist prosecutor, the resolution said, "because of his discretion and insistence on only accurate, correct and verified information."

"A similar performance of duty by Oatis in the United States or similar reporting by a Czech newspaperman assigned to the United States or similar reporting by a Czech newspaperman assigned to the United States would not constitute espionage but would be considered proper and good work in the professional of journalism in behalf of the general public," it continued.

The resolution deplored the injustice to the ideals of journalism, to Oatis for performing his duties in the American tradition of enlightment for all peoples, and to the Associated Press "which is known to have gathered and distributed the news of the world for a full century with a splendid record for accuracy without bias or partiality."

Policeman Is Suspended For Criticizing Dept.

New Orleans, July 14—(AP)—A policeman who criticized the police department here was fired today, but Police Superintendent Joseph L. Scheuerling said the dismissal was based on the officer's past record.

Patrolman Albert C. Haenel, assigned to the traffic division, was one of a group of officers who recently signed a petition protesting what they called a quota system for traffic tickets. The group contended they were required to issue a specified number of traffic-violation tickets per day. Police authorities denied they issued such instructions.

Scheuering said today that Haenel had been suspended five times on various charges and on three occasions was brought before him for trial.

Negro Treated For Cuts Sustained In Accident

A Negro named Montia Willams, of Mangham, was treated at the Vaughan - Wright-Bendel Clinic last night for arm lacerations following an accident on U.S. Highway 80 near Roadside Park around 9:30.

No report from the state police was available on the details of the accident.

Only one infantry regiment marched past the reviewing stand in the new French battle-dress —water proof khaki blouses and baggy pants whose ample folds will allow woolen linings to replace the old-time military topcoats in winter months.

But most of the 7,000 men on parade marched in the British battle-dress they have worn since the end of the war. Even the once-colorful North African Spahis were in sober khaki and rode light tanks instead of plunging Arab horses.

These were some of the things which made this year's July 14 parade different from all those which preceded it:

A helicopter, piloted by a French air force captain, whirled along in the parade just a few feet from the ground and dipped in hovering salute right before the reviewing stand.

A hundred planes—most of them jets — screamed overhead in a lightning review which lasted less than three minutes of the two-hour parade. Among the planes was a new French jet, "Mystery," and American-made thunderjets.

New French-built eight-wheeled reconnaissance cars rolled, equipped with dual driving posts like trolley-cars and able to travel as fast backwards as forwards.

Jet-propelled assault boats, 13-ton light tank chasers and rocket-launching ramps, all French made.

These are all new weapons introduced to warfare since an old-fashioned French army went down before Adolf Hitler's modern style Blitzkreig.

French army engineers threw a 100-ton floating bridge across the Seine in four hours and sent three Sherman tanks across it.

In his message to the Republic, President Truman said "in the course of the past year, the French people and the American people have made heavy sacrifices for liberty. They have resisted aggression with success. Their strength, joined with that of other peace-loving peoples, has steadily grown. Pursuit of these combined efforts will assure peace, for it will discourage aggression."

Will Seek Indictments In Black Market Baby Trade

New York, June 14.—(AP)—Indictments in a "black market in babies operating from Massachusetts to Florida, will be sought next week, Queens County District Attorney Charles P. Sullivan said today.

Baby farms, where expectant mothers stayed, were located in Lynn, Mass., Baltimore, and Miami, he said.

Sullivan said he will seek indictments for perjury, forgery, and conspiracy.

The district attorney mentioned no names.

He estimated the ring made profits of $100,000 in the last 18 months by charging foster parents fees ranging from $1,500 to $4,500.

The mothers frequently promised fat fees for giving up their infants, he said, usually received nothing, but at times got as much as $300.

Sullivan said doctors and nurses offered unmarried young women secret and gratis facilities for childbirth on their promise to give up the children.

"The vicious practice of baby selling and the victimizing of unfortunate or destitute mothers must be stamped out," Sullivan said.

"We will prosecute these vultures with all the power and punishment prescribed by the state's welfare laws pertaining to adoption and by the penal laws pertaining to perjury and conspiracy."

Journalists Urged To Support Oatis

Miami, Fla., July 14.—(AP)—Professional newspaper men of the nation were urged today to speak out in defense of William N. Oatis, American newspaperman sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment on charges of espionage by the Communist government of Czechoslovakia.

The greater Miami professional chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, the professional journalistic fraternity, urged the national fraternity "to name a committee with full authority to speak and act in the name of professional newspapermen who are members of this fraternity in defense of honorable news reporting and William N.e Oatis."

Lee Hills, managing editor of the Miami Herald and a vice president of the national fraternity, was named a committee of one to work out the plan with the fraternity and the Associated Press.

Oatis was chief of bureau in Czechoslovakia for the Associated Press. Three Czech associates in his office also were convicted.

A resolution adopted by the Miami chapter and made public by Hills today said that Oatis was trained in the American tradition of alert and inquiring reporting. He was particularly criticized by the Communist prosecutor, the resolution said, "because of his discretion and insistence on only accurate, correct and verified information."

"A similar performance of duty by Oatis in the United States or similar reporting by a Czech newspaperman assigned to the United States or similar reporting by a Czech newspaperman assigned to the United States would not constitute espionage but would be considered proper and good work in the professional of journalism in behalf of the general public," it continued.

The resolution deplored the injustice to the ideals of journalism, to Oatis for performing his duties in the American tradition of enlightment for all peoples, and to the Associated Press "which is known to have gathered and distributed the news of the world for a full century with a splendid record for accuracy without bias or partiality."

"BAKED FINISH" PAINT JOB
High Luster Finish . . . Longer Lasting
Let us restore your car to all its original beauty with a paint job that's BAKED with INFRA-RED HEAT RAYS just as the makers do on new cars. After careful preparation, we spray paint your car with the finest paint available. Then (instead of the usual air drying), the finish is baked dry and hard by DRY QUICK infra-red baking panels.
Since DRY QUICK equipment enables us to do more paint jobs in less time, our price is LOWER than the old conventional method.

"BAKED FINISH"
PAINT JOB
High Luster Finish . . . Longer Lasting

Let us restore your car to all its original beauty with a paint job that's BAKED with INFRA-RED HEAT RAYS just as the makers do on new cars. After careful preparation, we spray paint your car with the finest paint available. Then (instead of the usual air drying), the finish is baked dry and hard by DRY QUICK infra-red baking panels.

Since DRY QUICK equipment enables us to do more paint jobs in less time, our price is LOWER than the old conventional method.

WE ARE cleaning house. The boss wants a month vacation (he needs it too). He said to sell it, get rid of it, give it away. He gave us orders so we are following them out. It's his loss, your gain. Just take a glance at a few of the many articles and prices. We definitely know that many items cost him more than he is selling them for. Why not come in and see for yourself — there's bargains galore. Junk that has been in homes and attics for years. You'll love browsing around in Monroe's most unusual store—Brennan Utilities. An almost new clarinet, cost new $135, our price $45. Large new guitar $19. A $300 xylophone $35. A $190 Gibson electric steel guitar, $65. It's new. An Italian constantino $12.50. A new $145 transit $79. Butane tank, 30 gallon with regulator $39. Brand new tank type vacuum cleaner with all attachments, $25. Most beautiful wall paper in town, 25 cents roll. Phono records, 7½ cents each. 2,000 to pick from. Double car cool cushions $1.98 ea. New car seat covers $4.50. One pair French doors $17. Other single doors, $8. Screen doors $4. 15 Gal. insecticide pump sprayer $17.50. One 5 H.P. motor $75. 3 1½ H. P. motors, $45. 2 ¾ H. P. motors, $30. New 54" Barbrook attic fan with ¾ H.P. motor $175. 6 only, new 28" 2 speed Hunter fans, while they last, $75. New 36" Hunter ceiling fans, $45. Never will you ever get a buy like this again. Have very near any sort of power tools, and marked down cheap too. Hand power saws, fanders, metal lathe, drill press hack saw, grinders and hand drills. Kemtone paint 75 cents per gal. Wall board $1.50 per sheet. Asbestos siding $2.50 per square. Good clean lumber cheap. 25 console radios. Take your pick for $20 each. All plain. Used bath tubs, lavatories, sinks and commodes priced to move. Have plenty ½ and ¾" galvanized pipe, also aluminum. 1½" angles in 4-6 and 12 ft. lengths. Have approximately 100 gross 4-8-16 and 32 new glass containers. These bottles are in our way. We will let you have them dirt cheap. 15 counter style G.E. Refrigerators. All in good operating condition. $27.50 each. Your ice bill would amount to more than that in a few months. Gas cook stoves, have 12 or more for $10 up. Ice boxes. Your choice $5. One deep freeze $50. One 60" 6-door refrigerator. All porcelain with unit. You move it, we just want the $395. Believe us, it cost $1,595 new. One sliding heavy duty cycle power mower, cost $285, new, our price $75. Have another one at $75. That is the best buy in town. 3 complete cafe booths and tables $85. Stools $5. We could go on and on telling you about beds, springs, mattresses, miscellaneous furniture and other items that we have in stock. Believe us folks, the boss says move it and we intend to do just that, so come on in and browse around at Brennan Utilities opposite M. P. Depot.

WE ARE cleaning house. The boss wants a month vacation (he needs it too). He said to sell it, get rid of it, give it away. He gave us orders so we are following them out. It's his loss, your gain. Just take a glance at a few of the many articles and prices. We definitely know that many items cost him more than he is selling them for. Why not come in and see for yourself — there's bargains galore. Junk that has been in homes and attics for years. You'll love browsing around in Monroe's most unusual store—Brennan Utilities. An almost new clarinet, cost new $135, our price $45. Large new guitar $19. A $300 xylophone $35. A $190 Gibson electric steel guitar, $65. It's new. An Italian constantino $12.50. A new $145 transit $79. Butane tank, 30 gallon with regulator $39. Brand new tank type vacuum cleaner with all attachments, $25. Most beautiful wall paper in town, 25 cents roll. Phono records, 7½ cents each. 2,000 to pick from. Double car cool cushions $1.98 ea. New car seat covers $4.50. One pair French doors $17. Other single doors, $8. Screen doors $4. 15 Gal. insecticide pump sprayer $17.50. One 5 H.P. motor $75. 3 1½ H. P. motors. $45. 2 ¾ H. P. motors, $30. New 54" Barbrook attic fan with ¾ H.P. motor $175. 6 only, new 28" 2 speed Hunter fans, while they last, $75. New 36" Hunter ceiling fans, $45. Never will you ever get a buy like this again. Have very near any sort of power tools, and marked down cheap too. Hand power saws, sanders, metal lathe, drill press hack saw, grinders and hand drills. Kemtone paint 75 cents per gal. Wall board $1.50 per sheet. Asbestos siding $2.50 per square. Good clean lumber cheap. 25 console radios. Take your pick for $20 each. All plain. Used bath tubs, lavatories, sinks and commodes priced to move. Have plenty ½ and ¾" galvanized pipe, also aluminum. 1½" angles in 4-6 and 12 ft. lengths. Have approximately 100 gross 4-8-16 and 32 new glass containers. These bottles are in our way. We will let you have them dirt cheap. 15 counter style G.E. Refrigerators. All in good operating condition. $27.50 each. Your ice bill would amount to more than that in a few months. Gas cook stoves, have 12 or more for $10 up. Ice boxes. Your choice $5. One deep freeze $50. One 60' 6-door refrigerator. All porcelain with unit. You move it, we just want the $395. Believe us, it cost $1,595 new. One sliding heavy duty cycle power mower, cost $385, new, our price $75. Have another one at $75. That is the best buy in town. 3 complete cafe booths and tables $85 Stools $5. We could go on and on telling you about beds, springs, mattresses, miscellaneous furniture and other items that we have in stock. Believe us folks, the boss says move it and we intend to do just that, so come on in and browse around at Brennan Utilities opposite M. P. Depot.

Truman Orders Probe Of "Poor Security Risks"

Washington, July 14.—(AP)—President Truman ordered an investigation today to determine whether efforts to weed "poor security risks" from federal payrolls have unduly infringed on the rights of individuals.

His action followed complaints, in newspapers and elsewhere, that persons were being suspended, or denied employment, without proper chance to defend themselves. Critics have said that in some cases the accused is not permitted to know the name of his accuser, and that the system lends itself to penalizing people on the basis of malicious gossip.

On the other side of the argument, there are contentions that these are extraordinary times demanding extraordinary measures to keep the government free of persons who might be dangerous to its security.

President Truman ordered the inquiry in a letter to James S. Lay, Jr., executive secretary of the national security council, which is composed of cabinet members and other high officials.

"I have become seriously concerned," he said, "by a number of reports I have heard recently concerning the administration of the provisions of existing law which authorize the heads of the various departments and agencies to discharge employees, or to refuse government employment to applicants, on the ground that they are poor security risks.

"If these provisions of law are to achieve their purpose of protecting the security of the government without unduly infringing on the rights of individuals, they must be administered with the utmost wisdom and courage."

Saying that the rights of individuals must be protected, he asked the security council to look into the question whether uniform procedures should be set up throughout the government, with provisions for a central review of the various agencies' decisions.

He pointed out that there is provision for central review in connection with the "government employee loyalty program."

The latter program covers persons suspected of actual subversive tendencies. A "poor security risk" may be a person who talks indiscreetly, or who has associated with persons deemed to questionable loyalty.

In other development today, two Republican members of the house un - American activities committee called for a full scale investigation of possible Communist activity within the state department.

Rep. Velde (R.-Ill.) issued a statement saying he will insist that "minor investigations" be "temporarily shelved in favor of complete investigations and hearings in the matter of direct Soviet influence in the present and past democratic administration.

And Rep. Kearney (R.-N. Y.) told reporters "I am in favor of reopening the investigation of the state department concerning possible Communist infiltration there."

The Republicans apparently were prompted by the disclosure by chairman Wood (D.-Ga.) that Oliver Clubb, a state department official who has been suspended pending a hearing on security charges, had been questioned by a subcommittee last March.

Wood made the announcement yesterday, saying Clubb was quizzed about testimony given the committee earlier by Whittaker Chambers.

Velde called Wood's action "most unfair," adding that the Republican members of the committee were not given an opportunity to participate in the Clubb hearing.

Kearney said the first he knew about Clubb's testimony came when he read of it in newspapers.

Wood told reporters that Rep. Walters (D.-Pa.) was the only committee member available when Clubb was questioned.

Subsequently Wood said, Rep. Jackson (R.-Calif.) was briefed on Clubb's testimony so he could participate in a subcommittee questioning of Grace Hutchins.

Grace Hutchins was identified by committee files as a Communist party candidate for New York State comptroller in 1936 and a contributor to the Daily Worker and New Masses, Communist publications.

The committee was told by Chambers that he met Clubb in the office of the New Masses in New York City and that Clubb carried a message for Grace Hutchins. Wood reported that Clubb denied this.

Velde said he was "greatly surprised at chairman Wood's use of Truman Ward Heeler tactics in taking the testimony in this manner and making the release as he did."

Velde said the committee, since the Republican-control 80th congress ended in 1948 has been "engaged in menial and routine work in ferreting out communism in lower echelons."

"These investigations have been important, but have not developed the real techniques of the Communist party in America."

Velde said "high-ups in the Truman administration" have been "working secretly and vigorously to cover up and destroy the evidence which would prove the charges of communism and Communist espionage in the Roosevelt-Truman administrations."

Military Strength, Secret Weapon Shown By Britain

Salisbury, England, July 14—(AP)—Britain showed off some of her new armor, including a secret weapon which beats a path across a minefield, to military attaches from 27 countries here today.

The demonstration included the breaching of a minefield by infantry under cover of live ammunition, the blasting of wire barricades by torpedoes and the breaching of an anti-tank ditch by Churchill tanks.

More than 2,000 troops took part in the demonstration.

Among the attaches were those of Persia, Yugoslavia and Egypt. No representatives from eastern Europe were invited.

GAMBLES AWAY $3,000

Venice, Italy, July 14—(AP)—Egypt's honeymooning King Farouk I gambled away 2,000,000 lire (about $3,000) early today, reliable sources at Venice's casino said.

The king tried his hand at baccarat and lost, the informants said. He then switched to chemin de fer, but his bad luck continued.

J. Adcock Gets Welfare Board Job

Baton Rouge, La., July 14—(AP)—J. W. Adcock, former assistant director of Louisiana's department of commerce and industry, has been named a member of the State Board of Public Welfare.

Adcock's appointment by Gov. Earl K. Long was listed today in records of the Secretary of State.

Adcock moved to Monroe a few months ago when he resigned his commerce and industry post. He had been assistant to Director Mary Evelyn Dickerson, who also is chariman of the Welfare Board.

Other recent appointments include:

Quintin Hardtner of LaSalle parish (county) as a member of the State Forestry Commission.

Waverly A. Henning and Nester Currault, Jr., both of Jefferson parish, assistant district attorneys, 24th judicial district.

Frank Chandler, James Neilson, James Normand, Thomas We" and L. Morrell Lewis as members of the Board of Commissioners, Alexandria water district.

Marvin Clark of Morehouse parish as a member of the Board of Levee Commissioners, Tensas Basin Levee district.

Two Ships Taken Out Of Mothballs

Washington, July 14. —(AP) —The 45,000 ton battleship Iowa and two Essex class carriers are being taken out of mothballs and put in "standby status," ready for quick use if needed, the navy said today.

The Iowa, first ship of her class to be built, was commissioned in February, 1943, and has been in mothballs since shortly after the end of World War II. She was tied up at San Francisco.

The navy, in answering questions, did not identify the two 27,400-ton carriers to be put in standby status.

The other three 45,000 ton battleships — the Missouri, New Jersey, and Wisconsin—all are in condition, the New Jersey having relieved the Missouri in service in the Korean war. Both the Missouri and Wisconsin are now operating with the Atlantic fleet.

At present, there are therr 45,00 ton midway class carriers and nine essex class in the operating fleet.

The "standby status" means that a skeleton crew will be aboard the ships and that this crew can be expanded quickly if the ships are needed for full wartime duty.

The Iowa class battleships have a wartime personnel strength of about 2,700. The essex class carriers have a complement of about 2,500 when at full strength.

Funds which will allow the return of the ships to unlimited status are contained in the 1952 budget.

Jena Man Will Be Tried In Colo.

Pagosa, Springs, Colo., July 14—(AP)—George W. Clary of Jena, La., will be tried in district court on a murder charge stemming from the rifle killing of James Nobles, 50.

Assistant District Attorney Larry McDaniel of Durango filed an information yesterday. McDaniel said this supercedes a previous charge filed in Justice of the Peace Court.

Clary has been held in jail here since the slaying June 30 at the Kennedy brothers sawmill, 14 miles north of Chama, N. Mex., where both men worked.

He has told officers that Nobles threatened him with a butcher knife during an argument. The other man kept advancing toward him, Clary said, so he grabbed a .22-caliber rifle and shot him.

The trial date will be set in September.

3 Negroes Jailed By Police Here

Three Negroes were in jail yesterday afternoon under bonds of $400, $200, and $40.

In jail for drunk driving and carrying a concealed weapon was Andrew Elliott, 26, of Sterlington. He was taken into custody shortly after noon and placed under a $400 bond.

Warner Haines, 37, of 1018 Calypso street, surrendered to police at city hall for drawing and displaying a dangerous weapon. Police fixed his bond at $200.

A Negro named Jessie James of 2709 Grammont, was arrested on DeSiard street for being drunk and disorderly and carrying obscene literature on his person.

Al Brancato of the St. Paul Saints in the American Association, batted six times against six different pitchers in a double header recently He failed to hit against any of them.

Truman Orders Probe Of "Poor Security Risks"

Washington, July 14.—(AP)—President Truman ordered an investigation today to determine whether efforts to weed "poor security risks" from federal payrolls have unduly infringed on the rights of individuals.

Velde said the committee, since the Republican-control 80th congress ended in 1948 has been "engaged in menial and routine work in ferreting out communism in lower echelons."

"These investigations have been important, but have not developed the real techniques of the Communist party in America."

Velde said "high-ups in the Truman administration" have been "working secretly and vigorously to cover up and destroy the evidence which would prove the charges of communism and Communist espionage in the Roosevelt-Truman administrations."

Military Strength, Secret Weapon Shown By Britain

Salisbury, England, July 14—(AP)—Britain showed off some of her new armor, including a secret weapon which beats a path across a minefield, to military attaches from 27 countries here today.

The demonstration included the breaching of a minefield by infantry under cover of live ammunition, the blasting of wire barricades by torpedoes and the breaching of an anti-tank ditch by Churchill tanks.

More than 2,000 troops took part in the demonstration.

Among the attaches were those of Persia, Yugoslavia and Egypt. No representatives from eastern Europe were invited.

GAMBLES AWAY $3,000

Two Ships Taken Out Of Mothballs

Washington, July 14. —(AP) —The 45,000 ton battleship Iowa and two Essex class carriers are being taken out of mothballs and put in "standby status," ready for quick use if needed, the navy said today.

The Iowa, first ship of her class to be built, was commissioned in February, 1943, and has been in mothballs since shortly after the end of World War II. She was tied up at San Francisco.

The navy, in answering questions, did not identify the two 27,400-ton carriers to be put in standby status.

The other three 45,000 ton battleships — the Missouri, New Jersey, and Wisconsin—all are in condition, the New Jersey having relieved the Missouri in service in the Korean war. Both the Missouri and Wisconsin are now operating with the Atlantic fleet.

At present, there are therr 45,000 ton midway class carriers and nine essex class in the operating fleet.

The "standby status" means that a skeleton crew will be aboard the ships and that this crew can be expanded quickly if the ships are needed for full wartime duty.

The Iowa class battleships have a wartime personnel strength of about 2,700. The essex class carriers have a complement of about 2,500 when at full strength.

Funds which will allow the return of the ships to unlimited status are contained in the 1952 budget.

Jena Man Will Be Tried In Colo.

Pagosa, Springs, Colo., July 14—(AP)—George W. Clary of Jena, La., will be tried in district court on a murder charge stemming from the rifle killing of James Nobles, 50.

Assistant District Attorney Larry McDaniel of Durango filed an information yesterday. McDaniel said this supercedes a previous charge filed in Justice of the Peace Court.

Clary has been held in jail here since the slaying June 30 at the Kennedy brothers sawmill, 14 miles north of Chama, N. Mex., where both men worked.

He has told officers that Nobles threatened him with a butcher knife during an argument. The other man kept advancing toward him, Clary said, so he grabbed a .22-caliber rifle and shot him.

The trial date will be set in September.

Miss Blanche Anita Town Weds Mr. Charles Wallace Gladney

St. James Episcopal Church In Baton Rouge Is Scene Of Impressive Wedding

The St. James Episcopal Church in Baton Rouge was the scene of a lovely wedding uniting Miss Blanche Anita Town, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hays Town, of Baton Rouge, and Charles Wallace Gladney, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Gladney, also of that cirty. The Rev. Philip Werlein officiated at the double ring service.

The bride's dress, which followed traditional lines with its fitted bodice and covered buttons extending from the neckline to the hem, was of blush pink. A similar pink color was employed in the attendants' dresses and in the floral decorations used in the church and at the reception which was held at the Baton Rouge Country Club.

Further details of the bridal dress included the double collar, long sleeves coming to points over the hands, and pleated skirt which extended into a long train.

The blush pink of the gown was repeated in the seed pearls which formed a juliet cap holding in place a veil of blush pink illusion.

The bride, who carried a cascade arrangement of lilies of the valley around a white orchid, wore her grandmother's diamond pin for her only ornament. She carried a handkerchief Mrs. W. W. Gladney had used in her wedding.

Strapless dresses worn with stoles and made of pink net over taffeta embossed with velvet were the attire of the maid of honor, Miss Patricia Boyet, and the bridesmaids, Miss Nan Young, Miss Myra Parkes, Miss Merilyn Lindsey and Miss Dorothy Ann Roubique. In their hair the group wore circlets of pink stephanotis. Their bouquets were of pink calla lilies mixed with silver lace fern.

A pink dotted swiss dress with puffed sleeves and full skirt was worn by the flower girl, Sharynn McDowell, who carried a pink basket of pink rose petals.

Mr. William W. Gladney was the best man for his brother. Groomsmen were Mr. Hays Town, Jr., Mr. E. L. Gladney, III, Mr. Clifton Morris and Mr. Charles Kahoa.

Candelabra placed at each pew together with pink calla lilies arranged with dark green fern formed the floral background in the church.

"Panis Angelicus" and the "Lord's Prayer" were presented by Miss Phyllis Werlein, organist, and Mr. Reynaud Staring, soloist.

Pink flowers and green fern were used throughout the club, where the pink motif was featured in the elaborately decorated blush pink cake which centered the bride's table.

Pink flowers and fern and silver candelabra also were on the table, which was overlaid with a banquet cloth trimmed with cutwork and handmade lace.

The bride's mother wore a gown of mauve chiffon, with bodice of chantilly lace. She had matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

For their wedding trip to Miami Beach and Nassau the bride wore a white double-breasted Irish linen suit with lavender kid shoes and purse and white linen straw hat. For ornament she wore pearls given her by the groom. On their return the couple will reside in Alexandria.

The bride was graduated from Baton Rouge High school and L. S. U., where she was a member of Chi Omega sorority. The groom is a graduate of Sewanee Military academy and L. S. U., where he was a member of Kappa Alpha order. Grandparents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Washburn of Monroe. Mrs. Gladney, mother of the groom, is the former Miss Ruth Washburn of this city.

Luggage Information

A vacation with some rare days of freedom may be just the kind of relaxation you need. Vacation days can be carefree, and you can set out with plenty of luggage appeal if you'll give your suitcase a brighter look. Mrs. Mildred Swift assoc. agent with your agricultural extension department says to start with an examination of the suitcase for scuffs and scratches. Perhaps a good dusting, a thorough airing and a good saddle soap lathering will give you renewed confidence in the beauty of luggage you carry. Any suitcase that's travelled many miles gets a few scuffs and scratches. A container of wax shoe polish that matches the leather will hide the scuffs. You can buy a color to match almost any suitcase. Light colored, modern leather bags can be touched up with neutral cream polish. The oil in suitcase leather dries out during non - travelling days. Luggage that's completely wax - polished will do wonders for its travel appeal and for your luggage carrying confidence.

If you live out of a suitcase your packing technique probably is pretty good. On the other hand, an occasional trip may be the reason suitcase packing does not come easy. Before starting on a trip or a vacation, consider the kind of place at which you'll spend your vacation. Perhaps you'll need only one street dress or dress suit and some comfortable shoes. Go prepared with the clothing that's most comfortable and with clothes for the occasion. Clothes that travel in a suitcase need not have that "slept - in" look when they end the journey. Whether you roll or fold dresses and jackets, they'll hold their shape if you zip up the side plackets and use plenty of tissue paper in folds. You can borrow an old sock from one of the men folk in the family for slipping over shoes for traveling.

Members of at least one group of present - day Indians in New Mexico are descendants of the cliff - dwellers who lived in what is now Bandelier National Monument.

You can buy a color to match almost any suitcase. Light colored, modern leather bags can be touched up with neutral cream polish. The oil in suitcase leather dries out during non - travelling days. Luggage that's completely wax - polished will do wonders for its travel appeal and for your luggage carrying confidence.

If you live out of a suitcase your packing technique probably is pretty good. On the other hand, an occasional trip may be the reason suitcase packing does not come easy. Before starting on a trip or a vacation, consider the kind of place at which you'll spend your vacation. Perhaps you'll need only one street dress or dress suit and some comfortable shoes. Go prepared with the clothing that's most comfortable and with clothes for the occasion. Clothes that travel in a suitcase need not have that "slept - in" look when they end the journey. Whether you roll or fold dresses and jackets, they'll hold their shape if you zip up the side plackets and use plenty of tissue paper in folds. You can borrow an old sock from one of the men folk in the family for slipping over shoes for traveling.

Members of at least one group of present - day Indians in New Mexico are descendants of the cliff - dwellers who lived in what is now Bandelier National Monument.

Miss Bonnie June Hearne Is Bride Of Hebert Fisher, Jr.

Wedding Solemnized At Trinity Methodist Church In Ruston

Trinity Methodist Church in Ruston was the scene of the nuptials of Miss Bonnie June Hearn, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Hearn, to Mr. Hebert Fisher, Jr. of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram H. Fisher of Greggton, Texas. The wedding was solemnized on Sunday, June 24r, 1951 at half-past four in the afternoon with Rev. J. E. Hearn, father of the bride, officiating at the impressive double ring ceremony.

The church was artistically decorated in the traditional green and white. Large altar baskets containing white flowers were placed at vantage points inside the pulpit. Beautiful white tapers were arranged along the choir rail and immediately in front in branched candelabra, also along the altar rail. The candlelighting rites were performed by the ushers, Rev. Woodrow Hearn, brother of the bride, and Mr. Andy Fisher, brother of the groom.

Mr. Marshall Bretz, at the organ, presented a program of nuptial music. The traditional wedding marches were used, with Clare de 'lune and Ava Maria being softly played during the ceremony. Mr. Bretz accompanied Mrs. Bretz who sang "Oh, Perfect Love," "I Love Thee," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. Marvin Cappel, Jr., of Burlington, Iowa, the bride's sister, served as matron of honor. The bridesmaid was Miss Mary Fisher of Shreveport, sister of the groom. They wore identically styled dresses of white organdy over acqua taffeta, which were fashioned with full floor length skirts with basques of embroidered organdy. They were tied at the waist with a large acqua taffeta sash. Their tight fitting hats were of lace over acqua. Their mitts were of white organdy. They carried hand bouquets of pink crown asters tied with pink satin ribbons.

As the strains of the wedding march were heard, the bride entered, escorted by her brother, Dr. John E. Hearn, Jr., of Alexandria, who gave her in marriage. The bride was radiant in a gown of white organdy. The full skirt of embroidered organdy terminated in a train and was joined to a fitted bodice in scallops. The bodice was embroidered organdy with a small rolled collar, turned up sleeves and self-covered buttons down the center front. Her long pointed mitts of embroidered organdy came to graceful points over the hands. Her finger tip veil of illusion flowed from a Juliet cap of marquisette which was banded with seed pearls. For her bouquet, she carried a single, perfect, white orchid mounted on a white Bible. The bride was met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, Rev. J. A. S. Fisher of Fort Worth, Texas, brother of the groom.

Following the ceremony, Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Vaughan entertained with a reception in their home. Greeting the guests at the front door was Dr. John E. Hearn, Jr., the bride's brother. The receiving line was formed in the spacious living room in front of the mantle on which a lovely arrangement of crown asters and peonies was placed. Those receiving were Mrs. Vaughan; Mrs. Hearn, Mr. and Mrs. Fisher, parents of the groom; the bride and groom; Mrs. Cappel, and Miss Fisher. The guest book was presided over by Rev. Woodrow Hearn and Mr. Andy Fisher. The only decoration on the registration table was the bride's bouquet.

Focal point of interest in the dining room was the bride's table which held the three tiered wedding cakre that was crested with a minature bride and groom. The bouquets of the attendants were artistically arranged on the table. Presiding at the table were Miss Bert Hearn of Columbia, cousin of the bride; Mrs. W. F. Manning, Jr., of Ruston; Miss Frances Bozeman of Beaumont, Tex.; and Miss Ruth Gill of Homer, La. Assisting in the serving were :Mrs. Eugene Franklin; Mrs. Vernon Lay, Jr.; Miss Nan Terrill; Mrs. R. R. Branton, Mrs. L. C. Aycock, all of Ruston; and Miss Ann Connaughton of Shreveport.

Mrs. G. W. Pomeroy and Rev. J. A. S. Fisher invited the guests into the reception room in which the gifts were on display.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Fisher, and Mrs. J. P. Shultz, grandmother of the groom, of Greggton, Tex.; Mrs. Jerry Fordham, grandmother of the bride, West Monroe; Mrs. J. A. S. Fisher and Mrs. J. L. Cole, Fort Worth, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Vaughan, Monroe; Mrs. Genevieve Carson and Miss Dawne Wilson, Oak Grove; Miss Rosemary McKellar and Mr. H. D. Gray, Springhill; Miss Olive Ann Sumlin, Simsboro; Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Gill and Miss Ruth Gill, Homer; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allen and Mrs. Albert Allen, Homer; Miss Frances Bozeman and Miss Peachy Gill, Beaumont ,Tex.; and Miss Bert Hearn, Columbia.

After the reception the bride changed to her traveling dress of champagne silk shantung. Her accessories were black velvet hat with patent purse and shoes. After the honeymoon the couple will be at home in Oklahoma City, Okla.

MISS HELEN SMELLEY IS BRIDE OF MR. GLENN RODEN

The Jonesboro Baptist Church was the scene of an event of interest when Miss Helen Smelley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Leon Smelley of Jonesboro, and Glenn Roden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Roden, also of Jonesboro, were united in marriage Saturday evening June 30th., at six o'clock.

The Rev. John S. Hurt, Jr., officiated at the double ring ceremony reading the vows before an altar decorated with tall baskets of white gladioli and fern. The baptistry was banked with a sunburst arrangement of white gladioli and greenery flanked on each side with two pairs of seven branched candelabra holding lighted tapers.

As the ushers seated the guests, Mrs. Joe Key of Jonesboro at the organ played softly, "Song without Words" by Mendelssohn, "Troumeri" by Schumann, and "Believe Me if All Those Enduring Young Charms" "Always" was played while J. P. Harvey, uncle of the bride and Lawrence Blewer, brother in law of the bride, both of Jonesboro lighted the candles.

Mrs. Wilfred Scroggin accompanied by Mrs. Key, sang; Herbert's "Oh Sweet Mystery of Life" and De Hardelot's "Because" Soft strains of "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" were heard during the ceremony.

Mrs. Lawrence Blewer, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Her dress was orchid organdy over matching taffeta fashioned with a low scolloped neckline, cap sleeves and small rows of tucks in the full gathered skirt which carried out the scalloped detail. She wore organdy mitts and carried a bouquet of purple crown asters with a matching halo in her hair. The other attendants were; Miss Elaine Roden, sister of the groom, Mrs. James H. Smelley, sister in law of the bride, and Miss Dorothy Baker of Oak Grove, Louisiana. Their dresses were identical to that of the honor attendant in corresponding rainbow colors. Each carried a bouquet of painted daises with streamers matching the hue of her dress and wore a halo of the same flowers in her hair.

Mr. Roden attended his son as best man. Ushers and groomsmen were; Philip Roden and Charles Caroway of Josesboro, both cousins of the groom and James H. Smelley of Vicksburg, Mississippi brother of the bride. Master Dee Smelley, Nephew of the bride, carried the rings on a dainty white satin pillow.

Immediately preceding the bride to the altar, little Miss Marzette Roden, sister of the groom, wearing a blue dress fashioned identical to those of the maids, scattered pink rose petals from a white basket lined with pink satin.

The traditional wedding march heralded the entrance of the bride who was escorted to the altar by her father. She presented a lovely picture in her white wedding dress of white chantilly lace and illusion over satin. The tight-fitting bodice and long sleeves were of lace, the sleeves ending in lily points over the hands. The circular skirt developed into a graceful cathedral train. A coronet of seed pearls held her tiered fingertip veil of illusion in place, and her only ornament was a pearl necklace, a gift from the groom. She carried a white bible topped with a white orchid showered with stephonotis and white satin streamers tied in true love knots.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Smelley chose a dusty rose sheer with navy accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations. Mrs. Roden mother of the bridegroom, wore a brown and white printed sheer. Her corsage was also of white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception for the bride and groom was held in the Church dining room. Receiving with the bridal couple were their mothers and feminine members of the bridal party. The reception room was very pretty with tall baskets of white gladioli and bowls of yellow ester reed and Shasta daisies placed at vantage points of interest. Guests approached the main doorway facing the brides table which was overlaid with a pale yellow satin damask cloth. A bowl of yellow painted daisies within a semicircle of graduated lighted yellow tapers in Crystal Candleholders the bases of which were tied with dainty satin bows formed the centerpiece. At one end of the table mounted on a reflector and surrounded with yellow daises and fern was the three-tiered bridal confection embossed with pale yellow roses and surmounted with a minature bride and groom. Opposite was the cyrstal punch bowl from which Miss Judith Barnes of Jonesboro served. A silver cake knife tied with satin streamers knotted with stephenotis lay ready for the first cutting of the cake over which Mrs. George W. Green of Jonesboro presided. Assisting with the serving courtesies were Mrs. S. D. Clinton of Ruston Mrs. J. P. Harvey of Jonesboro both aunts of the bride. Miss Claudine Crawley of Jonesboro invited the guests to register in the guest book. Out of town guests for the wedding included; Mrs. Mack Alexander, Mrs. W. W. Brooks, Mrs. Elaine Hart, Miss Bertha Spinks, Miss Lucille Spinks of Ruston; Mrs. Homer Smelley of Clay, Mrs. J. D. Harvey of Quitman, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Stall, Miss Shirley Ann Stall of Sterlington Mr. R. P. Vernon of Bastrop; Mr. and Mrs H. G. Miss Mary Lucretia Jowers Weds Marion Ellis Bairnsfather

Impressive Double-Ring Ceremony Is Solemnized At Alto Presbyterian Church

A lovely wedding in June was that of Miss Mary Lucretia Jowers, of Rayville, and Marion Ellis Bairnsfather, of West Monroe.

The double-ring ceremony was held at the Alto Presbyterian church, Saturday afternoon, June 10th, with the Rev. John W. Davis of Minden officiating.

Southern smilax entwined the the arch back of the altar with tall standards of grasses graduating from the center. Massive evergreen cherry laurels flanked the sides. Ivy draped from the edge of the church Bible and was made to encircle the chancel rail. Shasta daisies in the lower standards were in front flanked by more grasses. Crisp white tulle bows were used to accentuate the daisies and was repeated to mark pews.

At the nuptial hour Mr. Raymond Bolton of Rayville gave beautiful and carefully rendered organ selection. He also accompanied Mrs. Clyde Sanders as she sang in reverent and glorious voice, "Oh, Perfect Love." Mrs. Sanders has been a life long friend of the groom and for years teacher and guide in voice. She has also taught the bride for several years. Her afternoon dress of pale pink designed cotton sheer was worn with flowers of deeper hue.

Attending her sister was Mrs. Wilburn Pardue of Alto. In iridescent blue organza, ballerina length, with white starched lace cloche, short nylon gloves, and linen shoes she carried a colonial nosegay of faint pink carnations with net ruffling and satin streamers of deep pink.

Mr. Jowers gave his daughter in marriage after entering to the strains of the 'Bridal Chorus' from Lohengrin. The bride was beautiful in her white ballerina organdy with long fitted bodice of embroidery with high neck line. The close fitting cap of starched lace flowers had individual ones in halo effect catching the short veil which was later thrown back in traditional manner. She wore linen shoes, short nylon gloves, and held a matching white Bible belonging to her only neice, Mattie Sue. Tulle webbed into scallops and with tiny satin ribbons with loop edging were in cascade from the attached flowers with tiny bows holding duo sets of stephanotis.

The groom had as his best man his younger brother, Mr. Leroy Bairnsfather.

Serving as ushers were Mr. Joe Monroe, Jr., of Monroe and Mr. Wilburn Pardue of Alto.

A reception immediately followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pardue. They, with the bride and groom, and Mrs. Bairnsfather, and Mr. Jowers received against a background of organ music played by Mr. Bolton.

On the bride's table was a Hawaiian white handkerchief linen cloth with embroidery of open roses and buds. A five crystal in silver epergne was filled with small double white daisies, carnations, and feverfew. Mrs. E. E. Thomason presided over the punch service. She was assisted by Mrs. Joe Monroe of Monroe, Mrs. Charles Rogers and Mrs. Vernon Scroggin of Oak Ridge, and Mrs. G. A. O'Neal of Fairbanks. Centering the table was the wedding confection designed as a double wedding ring with miniature bridal bouquet of roses and lily of the valley joining. It was mounted on an immense reflector.

The bride and groom cut their cake before they left for a honeymoon on the gulf coast and New Orleans. The bride was wearing a daffodil linen suit with cocoa and beige accessories and wore the flowers from her wedding. Upon their return they will be at home on North Second and Glenmar.

Mrs. Bairnsfather is the daughter of Mr. R. L. Jowers and the late Mrs. Suevilla Jowers. Early education was in the Rayville schools and she graduated at Ouachita Parish High School. After finishing at Mercy Hospital Nursing School she was on the staff of Charity Hospital in New Orleans. Prior to her marriage she was with the Conway Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Bairnsfather is the son of Mrs. Chloe Bairnsfather and the late Mr. J. A. Bairnsfather. He is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and was elected to Boy's State returning the second year as a counselor. He spent two years in the navy and attended North Louisiana State College and Louisiana Tech. He is now employed as teller in the Central Savings Bank and Trust Co.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

Last week when Girl Scout swimming classes came to a close, records showed that more than 140 girls had received instruction during the 20 days classes were held. Beverly Hatchell and Agnes Jones, both Red Cross Water Safety Instructors, report that all the girls made progress, either learning to swim, or improving strokes, or in some cases, just learning not to be afraid of water. In a few weeks the following girls will receive cards from the Red Cross showing that they have passed prescribed tests in swimming.

The following were able to qualify for the Intermediate test, which means, among other things, that they learned the back, side, and breast strokes, as well as the crawl and were able to swim 100 yards: Constance Keller, Ginger Donald, Jerry Dickerson, Sadie Matthews, Joan Williams, Noel Standley, Amy Hood, Nell Coulter, Mildred Levi, Marie Nelson, Mary Elizabeth Webster, Patsy Brunson, Dar Lynn Gilbert, and Ella Jane Sheilds.

Congratulations to all these girls for their persistence. We've heard some mighty nice things from their parents about the good teachers they had, too. Lucky girls!

Just in time for those last-minute registrations for day camp, the Scouts were able to get back into their building last week after using Mrs. T. O. Brown's porch for an office for six weeks. Instead of 412 Hall Street, the address is now 416 Wood Street, but the building has merely been moved on the lot next door and now faces the other street.

With clean, pretty wallpaper all through the house, the Scout organization thinks maybe the enforced absence was worth while, but we know they must be glad to get back to their headquarters.

This week, on Wednesday and Thursday mornings, training sessions will be held at the office for counselors for the day camp which will be held at Camp Ki Ro Li July 24—August 3. Training for program aides will be held during the week also. According to day camp chairman, Lucy Huckabee, there is still need for a few more counselors — women who like children and the out of doors. And she sends a reminder to would-be campers. Don't put off registering any longer. Thursday is the deadline, extended because of the confusion of not being in the office. Hurry down tomorrow so you won't be left out of the fun!

In a few weeks the following girls will receive cards from the Red Cross showing that they have passed prescribed tests in swimming.

The following were able to qualify for the Intermediate test, which means, among other things, that they learned the back, side, and breast strokes, as well as the crawl and were able to swim 100 yards: Constance Keller, Ginger Donald, Jerry Dickerson, Sadie Matthews, Joan Williams, Noel Standley, Amy Hood, Nell Coulter, Mildred Levi, Marie Nelson, Mary Elizabeth Webster, Patsy Brunson, Dar Lynn Gilbert, and Ella Jane Sheilds.

Congratulations to all these girls for their persistence. We've heard some mighty nice things from their parents about the good teachers they had, too. Lucky girls!

Just in time for those last-minute registrations for day camp, the Scouts were able to get back into their building last week after using Mrs. T. O. Brown's porch for an office for six weeks. Instead of 412 Hall Street, the address is now 416 Wood Street, but the building has merely been moved on the lot next door and now faces the other street.

With clean, pretty wallpaper all through the house, the Scout organization thinks maybe the enforced absence was worth while, but we know they must be glad to get back to their headquarters.

This week, on Wednesday and Thursday mornings, training sessions will be held at the office for counselors for the day camp which will be held at Camp Ki Ro Li July 24—August 3. Training for program aides will be held during the week also. According to day camp chairman, Lucy Huckabee, there is still need for a few more counselors — women who like children and the out of doors. And she sends a reminder to would-be campers. Don't put off registering any longer. Thursday is the deadline, extended because of the confusion of not being in the office. Hurry down tomorrow so you won't be left out of the fun!

Madison Parish Garden Club Holds Annual Picnic

The home of Mrs. John Carpenter was the scene of the annual picnic of the Madison Parish Garden Club with members of the two recently organized garden clubs of Tallulah as special guests. Attractive tables were arranged in the garden of Carpenter plantation home, where a delectable luncheon was served.

Following the meal an original and interesting program under the direction of Mrs. J. H. Devine was enjoyed. Though the distribution of paper slips bearing certain inscriptions, Mrs. Claude Grimes was chosen "Queen of the Garden Clubs" and received a crown made of vari-colored zinnias. Holders of the other slips participated in a series of unique and laughable stunts, the winner of each achieving the honor of becoming a lady in waiting of the queen. Those thus elected to serve in the queen's court were Mrs. A. V. Sevier, Miss Hazel Kathan, Mrs. MacCagnolatti, Miss Clara Mize and Mrs. A. E. Sparling.

A group was then chosen by their special talents to entertain the queen and presented burlesque numbers consisting of a reading by Mrs. Devonne Payne, a fan dance by Mrs. George Yerger Sr., a cake walk by Mrs. R. S. Gagle and Mrs. E. A. Sparling and a whistling solo by Mrs. A. B. Kelly.

During the business session which followed, presided over by Mrs. A. V. Sevier the club voted to participate in the Miss Lou Fair in Vicksburg in October in staging a flower show and the other garden clubs were asked to cooperate in the undertaking. There were over forty club members and guests in attendance.

Use Of Sound Logic Made This Contract

By Oswald Jacoby

Today's hand was played in an English match. Most American experts would tend to bid more with the North hand and less with the South, but the final contract would probably be the same.

When the hand was actually played, West got off to a bad start by leading the deuce of clubs. This rode around to South's jack.

Declarer went into a brief trance a came out of it with a decision to play East for the queen of hearts. Hence he led a low heart to the king and returned a low heart to finesse the nine. This lost to West's queen.

West exited with another club to dummy's king. South then led to the ace of hearts, cashed the ace of clubs, discarding a low diamond from dummy, and laid down the ace and king of spades.

South had been hoping that the queen of spades would fall. Since it didn't he had to go over to the king of diamonds and run the rest of the hearts.

When the last heart was led, dummy still had the jack of spades and a low diamond, while South had the ace-jack of diamonds. East kept the ten of diamonds and the ten of spades, while West saved the queen of diamonds and the queen of spades.

Declarer led the low diamond from dummy, and East played the ten. South then went into a second trance. Who had the queen of diamonds? Should he play the ace or finesse the jack?

I'm sure every reader has the right answer; it's a cinch when you can see all the cards. It's not so easy when you have to sweat it out in actual play.

South knew that West might hold either the queen - ten of spades or the blank queen of diamonds. If West had no more diamonds, his original hand had consisted of three queens and a worthless doubleton in diamonds. With such a hand, however, West would have led a diamond; he would not have led away from a high card against a slam in no-trump.

Why, then had West led from his queen of clubs? South saw the answer in a flash. West had held all four queens and had been obliged to lead away from one of them.

After this excellent reasoning South played the ace of diamonds and made his slam contract.

CARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been: North, East, South, West, 1 Heart, Pass, 1 Spade, Pass, 1 N.T. Pass, 3 Diamonds Pass 4 Spades Pass ?

You, South hold: Spades A-J-10-6-3, Hearts 7-5, Diamonds A-Q-J-4-2, Clubs 9. What do you do?

A—Pass North is probably trying to show a hand that was almost worth a raise from one spade to two spades and that has some sort of fit for both diamonds and spades. However, North did bid only one no-trump at his second turn, and is most unlikely to have the cards that you need for a reasonable play for slam.

Today's Question

The bidding has been: North, East, South, West, 1 Heart, Pass, 1 Spade, Pass 2 N.T., Pass ?

You, South, hold: Spades A-J-10-6-3, Hearts 7-5, Diamonds A-Q-J-4-2, Club 9. What do you do?

Use Of Sound Logic Made This Contract

By Oswald Jacoby

Today's hand was played in an English match. Most American experts would tend to bid more with the North hand and less with the South, but the final contract would probably be the same.

When the hand was actually played, West got off to a bad start by leading the deuce of clubs. This rode around to South's jack.

Declarer went into a brief trance a came out of it with a decision to play East for the queen of hearts. Hence he led a low heart to the king and returned a low heart to finesse the nine. This lost to West's queen.

West exited with another club to dummy's king. South then led to the ace of hearts, cashed the ace of clubs, discarding a low diamond from dummy, and laid down the ace and king of spades.

South had been hoping that the queen of spades would fall. Since it didn't he had to go over to the king of diamonds and run the rest of the hearts.

When the last heart was led, dummy still had the jack of spades and a low diamond, while South had the ace-jack of diamonds. East kept the ten of diamonds and the ten of spades, while West saved the queen of diamonds and the queen of spades.

Declarer led the low diamond from dummy, and East played the ten. South then went into a second trance. Who had the queen of diamonds? Should he play the ace or finesse the jack?

I'm sure every reader has the right answer; it's a cinch when you can see all the cards. It's not so easy when you have to sweat it out in actual play.

South knew that West might hold either the queen - ten of spades or the blank queen of diamonds. If West had no more diamonds, his original hand had consisted of three queens and a worthless doubleton in diamonds. With such a hand, however, West would have led a diamond; he would not have led away from a high card against a slam in no-trump.

Why, then had West led from his queen of clubs? South saw the answer in a flash. West had held all four queens and had been obliged to lead away from one of them.

After this excellent reasoning South played the ace of diamonds and made his slam contract.

CARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been: North, East, South, West, 1 Heart, Pass, 1 Spade, Pass, 1 N.T. Pass, 3 Diamonds Pass 4 Spades Pass ?

You, South hold: Spades A-J-10-6-3, Hearts 7-5, Diamonds A-Q-J-4-2, Clubs 9. What do you do?

A—Pass North is probably trying to show a hand that was almost worth a raise from one spade to two spades and that has some sort of fit for both diamonds and spades. However, North did bid only one no-trump at his second turn, and is most unlikely to have the cards that you need for a reasonable play for slam.

Today's Question

The bidding has been: North, East, South, West, 1 Heart, Pass, 1 Spade, Pass 2 N.T., Pass ?

You, South, hold: Spades A- J-10-6-3, Hearts 7-5, Diamonds A-Q-J-4-2, Club 9. What do you do?

NEWS FROM THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Although the Ouachita Parish Public Library is prepared to give many services to its patrons, there is one special service that many people do not know is available. That is the loan of 16mm sound films. Because of a limited budget the Ouachita Parish Public Library does not have a film collection of its own, but borrows the films from the Louisiana State Library in Baton Rouge. The state library has a film collection of 77 modern and up - to - date films, many of them in color. These films may be borrowed through your parish library for the use of individuals or groups. If you would like a copy of the film catalog, call the library No. 3-6647 and a catalog will be mailed to you.

Seven of the films in this collection are on Marshall plan aid to European countries. Produced in Europe to explain the economic cooperation administration to Europeans, the films were recently made available for U. S. showings. The ECA movies are: "Project for Tomorrow," a 22 minute film showing 4-H farm clubs in Austria; "The Island of Faith," a 17 minute film about Holland; "Europe Looks Ahead" is a 20 minute film made by March of Time; "The Miracle of Cassino" is a 12 minute film showing the restoration of the war - torn Italian city; "The Marshall Plan at Work in Greece" is 13 minutes long. "The Jungle that Was" is a showing of ECA aid in an irrigation project in central Africa; "Rice and Bulls" is a 17 minute film describing French farmers use of ECA machinery to improve rice fields and combine rice with cattle raising.

Among the new films recently added to the state loan collection are four beautiful color films; "Power Behind the Nation" is 17 minutes long and was made by the U. S. treasury. It deals with U. S. history, economy and natural resources; "Flying Fisherman and Hunter" is 30 minutes long and was made with a Hollywood cast. "Miracle on the Mesa" is 20 minutes long and deals with the Hopi Indians of Arizona and "Pueble Heritage" is 20 minutes long and is a picture of life among the Pueblo Indians of New Mexico.

There are special films which should appeal to various groups. "The Story Behind Your Doctor's Prescription" is 20 minutes long. "Twenty - four Hours of Progress" is a 28 minute film made by the American Petroleum Institute to show the uses of oil products. "Fight for Better Schools" is a March of Time film showing how the P. T. A. of Arlington, Virginia demanded and won better schools for their children. There are films which will appeal especially to children and there are Christmas films to be had.

Since these films are used by people all over Louisiana, it is wise to book them as far ahead as possible. One book club in Monroe has scheduled and booked films to be shown all next year as part of their program. If you have any use for a 16mm sound film, investigate this important source of supply.

Mission Group To Hear Miss Martin

Miss Martin has spoken to many service clubs and church groups since she went to Angola for an investigation, having been appointed by Gov. Earl Long as chairman of a special committee.

NEWS FROM THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Although the Ouachita Parish Public Library is prepared to give many services to its patrons, there is one special service that many people do not know is available. That is the loan of 16mm sound films. Because of a limited budget the Ouachita Parish Public Library does not have a film collection of its own, but borrows the films from the Louisiana State Library in Baton Rouge. The state library has a film collection of 77 modern and up - to - date films, many of them in color. These films may be borrowed through your parish library for the use of individuals or groups. If you would like a copy of the film catalog, call the library No. 3-6647 and a catalog will be mailed to you.

Seven of the films in this collection are on Marshall plan aid to European countries. Produced in Europe to explain the economic cooperation administration to Europeans, the films were recently made available for U. S. showings. The ECA movies are: "Project for Tomorrow," a 22 minute film showing 4-H farm clubs in Austria; "The Island of Faith," a 17 minute film about Holland; "Europe Looks Ahead" is a 20 minute film made by March of Time; "The Miracle of Cassino" is a 12 minute film showing the restoration of the war - torn Italian city; "The Marshall Plan at Work in Greece" is 13 minutes long. "The Jungle that Was" is a showing of ECA aid in an irrigation project in central Africa; "Rice and Bulls" is a 17 minute film describing French farmers use of ECA machinery to improve rice fields and combine rice with cattle raising.

Among the new films recently added to the state loan collection are four beautiful color films; "Power Behind the Nation" is 17 minutes long and was made by the U. S. treasury. It deals with U. S. history, economy and natural resources; "Flying Fisherman and Hunter" is 30 minutes long and was made with a Hollywood cast. "Miracle on the Mesa" is 20 minutes long and deals with the Hopi Indians of Arizona and "Pueble Heritage" is 20 minutes long and is a picture of life among the Pueblo Indians of New Mexico.

There are special films which should appeal to various groups. "The Story Behind Your Doctor's Prescription" is 20 minutes long. "Twenty - four Hours of Progress" is a 28 minute film made by the American Petroleum Institute to show the uses of oil products. "Fight for Better Schools" is a March of Time film showing how the P. T. A. of Arlington, Virginia demanded and won better schools for their children. There are films which will appeal especially to children and there are Christmas films to be had.

Since these films are used by people all over Louisiana, it is wise to book them as far ahead as possible. One book club in Monroe has scheduled and booked films to be shown all next year as part of their program. If you have any use for a 16mm sound film, investigate this important source of supply.

Mission Group To Hear Miss Martin

Miss Martin has spoken to many service clubs and church groups since she went to Angola for an investigation, having been appointed by Gov. Earl Long as chairman of a special committee.

This one says You've Arrived

For you've a right to expect, when you pay a fine-car price, that your money will buy more distinction, more comfort, more performance than are to be found in vehicles of lesser worth.

So mark well the things that a ROADMASTER offers.

No other car on the American scene has a prouder bearing.

No other automobile has more spacious dimensions, more luxurious comfort, or finer appointments.

No other car has a ride more serenely smooth on curve or straightaway, highway or byway.

And no other car, at ROADMASTER's price or above, has Dynaflow, and the supreme command of every traffic condition which it provides.

So you, at the wheel of Buick's biggest and best, have a right to feel distinguished.

But there's a joy of possession which goes deeper than visible things.

There's the feel of a power plant as brilliantly eager as this great car's valve-in-head Fireball Engine – and the satisfying companionship of a brawny traveler instantly responsive to your every wish.

And there's one thing more, which only ROADMASTER can give you in such generous measure. That is the pride of a wise investment, based on the fact that this car stands alone in price per pound, among fine cars similarly equipped.

So why not take that very important first step – and come in and see us soon?

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

The Story Of The Waves

By

Clinton D. Elliott, QMSC
Navy Recruiting Station, Monroe, La.

From time immemorial, women have played an important role in world history. Nations have become strong due to the influence of a mother, wife, or mistress upon the nation's leaders. Other nations have become weak, have decayed and passed to the pages of history for the same reason. One of the most outstanding marks left on a nation by a woman was that of Cleopatra, queen of the Egyptians, who as co-commander of a naval force of two hundred ships, fought one of the world's decisive battles, the sea engagement of Actium in the year 31 B. C. The combined fleets of Anthony and Cleopatra were defeated in this battle by the ships of Octavius Augustus, thus establishing the imperial power of the Caesars.

Nearly two thousand years have passed since the time of Cleopatra but the likes and dislikes, the joys and sorrows of women have not changed. However, the fairer sex has gradually emancipated from avocations to vecations comparable to those of men. The right of the ballot opened the door for women to many professions formerly held only by men. Then in World War II they were granted the privilege of serving in the armed forces of our country, the last field held exclusively by male citizens.

The mission of the waves in the war was to replace ashore the manpower so vitally needed for the many new ships coming off the ways. They did their task well and with the close of the war, the majority of the women were discharged or released to inactive duty. These girls had done much toward winning the war, and had proved their worth in many fields, and the navy was unwilling to give up their help entirely. So, June 1948 marked a new era in the history of the navy. For the first time women outside the medical service were to become an integral part of the regular navy. All the war-time enlistees had been a part of the naval reserve.

In December 1948 the first class of enlisted women of the regular navy finished their period of recruit training at the training center at Great Lakes (Chicago), Ill. Since that time many more classes have finished training there and have been assigned to many parts of the U. S. and to foreign bases for duty. These women came from every state in the union and during their ten weeks recruit training they learned about naval customs, traditions, naval history, military drill, ships and aircraft, and other pertinent navy subjects.

Many waves are given further training in special service schools. They help the navy operate its far-flung communications network around the world, around the clock. Others assist the doctors and nurses in the many naval hospitals; wave yeoman and storrekeepers do clerical work necessary to maintain the world's mightiest navy. There are more than a score of other jobs to which the waves are trained and assigned.

The navy guards the wave s health and welfare diligently. Waves who become sick are given the best of medical care, without cost to them, by navy nurses, doctors and dentists. Should they need hospitalization, this is also provided without cost to them in one of the navy's modern hospitals. The navy chaplain corps, composed of clergymen of many denominations, provides spiritual guidance. Comfortable living quarters, beauty parlors, free movies, tennis courts, bowling alleys, swimming pools, and libraries are all maintained on the bases where waves are assigned for duty.

Wave enlistees must be between the ages of 18 and 26 and unmarried. They must also be high school graduates, or hold a state recognized equivalent of graduation from high school. Enlistments are for four years. Waves may marry after completion of recruit training and may request discharge from the navy after completing one year service if they do get married. Application may be made in room 303 post office building, Monroe, or by calling 8840.

During my thirty years in the navy I have seen many changes in the passing parade of our fleet. The last of the sailing ships gave way to steam; the slowr coal burners were replaced by the faster oil burning ships. I served on our navy's first airplane carrier and saw naval aviation grow from one carrier and a few planes to more than one hundred carriers and thousands of planes. But the most novel change of all was when "Miss Jones" became "Seaman Jones." What the next thirty years may bring to our navy, only time can tell. Powerful warships of our fleet may sail the seven seas, their destiny under the watchful eye of Captain (Madam) Jones.

Moscow Papers Rap Jap Treaty

Moscow, July 14. —(AP)— Moscow newspapers today denounced the proposed American draft of a Japanese peace treaty as "an aggressive setup directed against the national liberation movements in south and southeast Asia." It said the treaty will blow up stormy protests in Asia.

(Philippines Foreign Secretary Carols P. Romulo said yesterday the draft "filled the Philippine people with disillusionment and dismay.")

Izvestia, the government newspaper, said the opinion of (Communist) China and (north) Korea has been illustrated by their offical notes to Moscow concerning this "illegally worked out project." It said India's opposition had been explained by the second all - India congress of peace partisans which condemned it in advance.

The paper said public figures and the press in other Asian countries have categorically come out against the proposed treaty.

"The sharply negative" attitude of the Asian people, it said, is because these people suffered most of all from Japanese aggression.

SCOUT LEADERS TAKING COURSE

W. W. Stevens And Leon Beasley At Training Project At Camp Boxwell

Two prominent Scout leaders of the Ouachita Valley Boy Scout Council are this week participating in a national wood badge training course being held at Camp Boxwell near Nashville, Tenn.

These men are W. W. Stevens of Monroe and Leon Beasley of Holly Ridge. Both Stevens and Beasley are district commissioners, serving the central and midland districts respectively. These men have both been Scoutmasters of outstanding Scout troops and served as Scoutmasters of National Jamboree troops last year. They also hold special training awards for satisfactory completion of Scoutmaster training.

The Ouachita Valley Cuncil is sending these men to this specialized wood badge course in order that they might assist in improving the training program for Scoutmasters in northeast Louisiana.

Wood badge training is an advanced training experience in scoutmastering. It is an action-packed, eight - day Scoutmaster training course in which the men participating actually live and camp in Scout patrols, cooking their own meals and carrying out patrol duties in the manner in which Scouting was originally designed by Lord Baden - Powell, founder of the Scouting movement

The wood badge course has just recently been conducted by the national council, Boy Scouts of America. The course was first started by Baden-Powell in 1919. It is an intensive course for Scoutmasters and is in use most of the Scouting countries of the world. Its aim is to demonstrate in a practical way the aim and the methods of Scouting. It seeks to develop the spirit of Scouting through camping, camp fires, troop meetings, and other activities.

The term "wood badge" comes from little wooden beads Baden-Powell gave to each man who participated in the first historical course. They were beads from a string given to him by a tribal chieftian in South Africa several years before. Replicas of these wooden beads have been symbolic of this training ever since. They are worn on a throng about the neck only by Scouters who have graduated from this top experience.

After returning from the "wood badge course" these Ouachita Valley council Scouters will help conduct Scoutmasters' training courses in this area. One of the first courses in which they will assist is a junior leaders' training course to be held at Camp Ki-Ro-Li in September.

'Fabiola,' Magnificent Drama Of Old Rome, Opens Engagement At Joy Today

Michele Morgan, Henri Vidal Play Romantic Leads In Spectacle

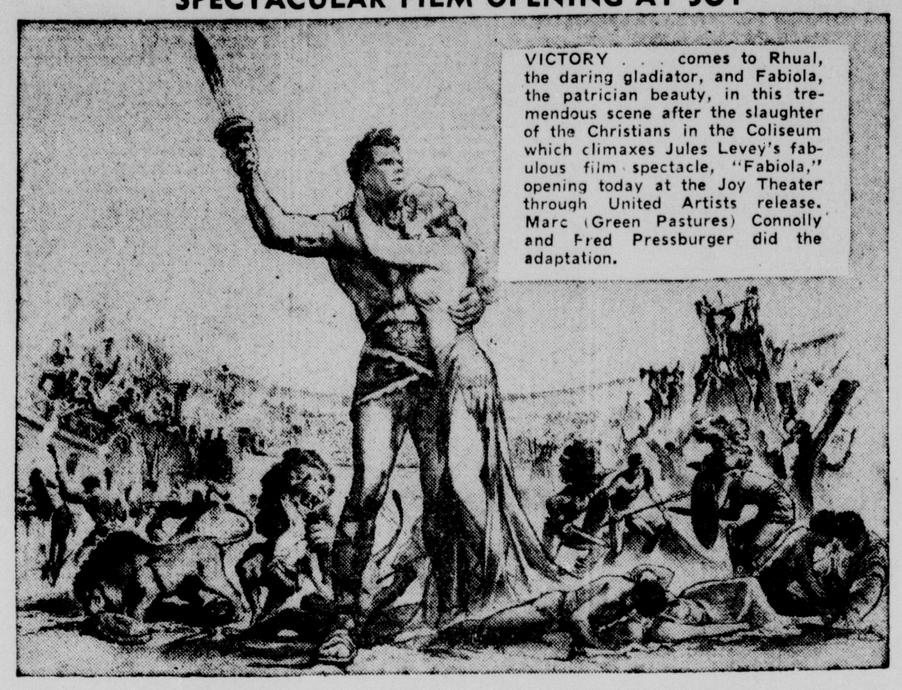

Jules Levey's fabulous production, "Fabiola," released by United Artists, leads off the motion picture industry's current cycle of tremendous film spectacles on the ever-thrilling Biblical and "changing-currents-of-history" theme. The huge production, which opens today at the Joy Theatre, recreates in all its glittering, flaming life the depraved, debauched glory that was Ancient Rome.

Inspired by the famed novel of the same name by Nicholas Cardinal Wiseman, "Fabiola" was filmed entirely in Rome and other authentic location sites in Italy. It was more than a year in preparation, with a total of 74 writers assigned by Producer Jules Levey to the monumental task of advance research and rough drafts of the script. Famed playwright Marc Connelly, author of the Pulitzer prizewinning 'The Green Pastures,' and Fred Pressburger adapted the film for the American screen.

The magnificent spectacle has the advantage of having been filmed in many of the actual sites called for by the script. The Roman basilica — the ancient courthouse where Christian slaves received the mockery of a "trial" before their pre - ordained slaughter — still stands, and has been used as the trial location. Scenes set in the Coliseum were actually shot in the Coliseum in Verona, an exact duplicate of the one built in Rome, and still in perfectly intact condition. Port sequences were mad : in Anzio, where the imposing Roman customs house and centuries - old warehouses dating back to the days of the Imperial Caesars were repaired and refurbished to restore them to their original appearance.

Surrounding stars Michele Morgan, who portrays Fabiola, lovely young patrician Roman daughter of fabulously wealthy Senator Fabius Severus (played by Michel Simon), and Henri Vidal, Miss Morgan's husband and one of France's great actors, is a cast which dwarfs just about everything that has reached the screen in years. More than seven thousand actors are seen in the gigantic arena sequences and in the Forum where skilled orators inflame the Roman hordes to murder the Christians. Two hundred trained French and Italian athletes were brought to Rome to portray the gladiators and warriors who fight in the arena, surrounding star Henri Vidal, himself a former star of the Olympic games . Dozens of savage Nubian lions and Indian tigers were imported for the tremendously exciting scenes showing the Christian slaves being thrown to the jaws of ravenous beasts.

SPECTACULAR FILM OPENING AT JOY

VICTORY . . . comes to Rhual, the daring gladiator, and Fabiola, the patrician beauty, in this tremendous scene after the slaughter of the Christians in the Coliseum which climaxes Jules Levey's fabulous film spectacle, "Fabiola," opening today at the Joy Theater through United Artists release. Marc (Green Pastures) Connolly and Fred Pressburger did the adaptation.

Mrs. Marie Jordan Seriously Ill

Richard Jordan, Mrs. Jordan's son in Monroe, received a message telling that his mother had become suddenly seriously ill. He quickly arranged for a flight to his mother's bedside.

Invitation Sought For Senator Taft

Ruston, July 14.—(Special)—W. W. Durden, secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce, has been requested to write N. B. James of Farmerville, state Republican chairman, relative to the possibility of including north Louisiana on Senator Bob Taft's proposed tour of the south.

Many people believe that Senator Taft's success in receiving favorable action at the Republican convention would be greatly accelerated through southern support.

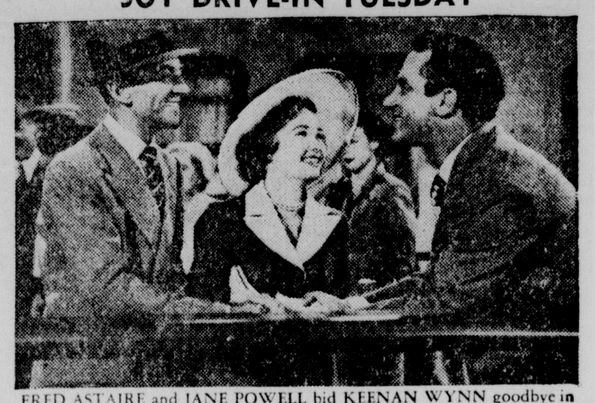

U. S. Highway 80 Group Will Meet

Mr. Durden was accompanied by H. B. Maxwell, Ruston businessman. Representatives from coast to coast along highway 80 will be in attendance at the meeting and Louisiana will have representatives from Tallulah, Delhi, Ruston and Shreveport.

On the agenda will be the election of officers, continuation of plans for the improvement of Highway 80, advertising the states along the highway, and the encouragement of industry.

Scenes set in the Coliseum were actually shot in the Coliseum in Verona, an exact duplicate of the one built in Rome, and still in perfectly intact condition. Port sequences were made in Anzio, where the imposing Roman customs house and centuries-old warehouses dating back to the days of the Imperial Caesars were repaired and refurbished to restore them to their original appearance.

Surrounding stars Michele Morgan, who portrays Fabiola, lovely young patrician Roman daughter of fabulously wealthy Senator Fabius Severus (played by Michel Simon), and Henri Vidal, Miss Morgan's husband and one of France's great actors, is a cast which dwarfs just about everything that has reached the screen in years. More than seven thousand actors are seen in the gigantic arena sequences and in the Forum where skilled orators inflame the Roman hordes to murder the Christians. Two hundred trained French and Italian athletes were brought to Rome to portray the gladiators and warriors who fight in the arena, surrounding star Henri Vidal, himself a former star of the Olympic games. Dozens of savage Nubian lions and Indian tigers were imported for the tremendously exciting scenes showing the Christian slaves being thrown to the jaws of ravenous beasts.

SPECTACULAR FILM OPENING AT JOY

VICTORY . . . comes to Rhual, the daring gladiator, and Fabiola, the patrician beauty, in this tremendous scene after the slaughter of the Christians in the Coliseum which climaxes Jules Levey's fabulous film spectacle, "Fabiola," opening today at the Joy Theater through United Artists release. Marc Connelly (Green Pastures) and Fred Pressburger did the adaptation.

Mrs. Marie Jordan Seriously Ill

Mrs. Marie Jordan, widow of Gene Jordan, who was for years manager of the company which supplies gas to the homes of the Twin Cities, is seriously ill in Germany where she went with her sister and also Rev. Father Nopher of Mansura, to study present day conditions.

Richard Jordan, Mrs. Jordan's son in Monroe, received a message telling that his mother had become suddenly seriously ill. He quickly arranged for a flight to his mother's bedside.

Invitation Sought For Senator Taft

Ruston, July 14.—(Special)—W. W. Durden, secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce, has been requested to write N. B. James of Farmerville, state Republican chairman, relative to the possibility of including north Louisiana on Senator Bob Taft's proposed tour of the south.

Many people believe that Senator Taft's success in receiving favorable action at the Republican convention would be greatly accelerated through southern support.

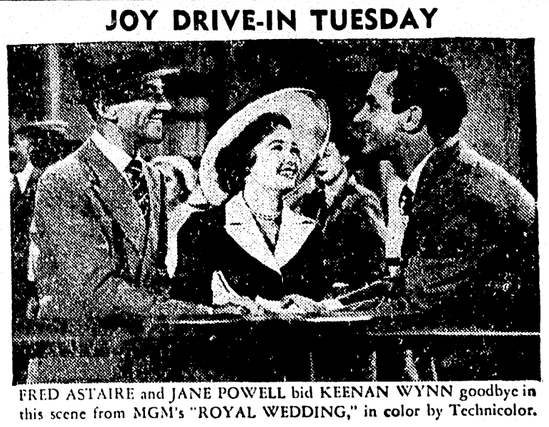

U. S. Highway 80 Group Will Meet

Mr. Durden was accompanied by H. B. Maxwell, Ruston businessman. Representatives from coast to coast along highway 80 will be in attendance at the meeting and Louisiana will have representatives from Tallulah, Delhi, Ruston and Shreveport.

On the agenda will be the election of officers, continuation of plans for the improvement of Highway 80, advertising the states along the highway, and the encouragement of industry.

Cameraman Frank Lovejoy tries to take the joy out of love for competitor Robert Young who romances Joan Crawford in "Goodbye, My Fancy" the new Warner comedy which begins its local engagement at the Paramount Theatre today.

'Goodbye, My Fancy,' Opens Today, Has Joan Crawford In Star Role

Imagine a nationally prominent congresswoman being invited to receive an honorary degree from her alma mater and having it become known that she was expelled from that school 20 years earlier for staying out all night with—of all people—the man who is now the college president himself.

Therein lie the ingredients of "Goodbye, My Fancy," Warner Bros.' romantic comedy which has been termed in advance one of the funniest films in many seasons. The picture, based on Fay Kanin's outstanding Broadway play, begins its local engagement at the Paramount Theatre today.

Joan Crawford, whose latest dramatic successes include "Mildred Pierce," in which she starred with Jack Carson, "Flamingo Road" and "The Damned Don't Cry," gives one of her rare performances as a comedienne, in the role of the female politician who tries to educate a college faculty and winds up taking a few lessons in love.

Debonair Robert Young makes his introductory appearance in a Warner Bros. film as the college president who loses his heart to Miss Crawford. Among Young's recent successes are "Crossfire," "Sitting Pretty" and "The Second Woman."

Frank Lovejoy rounds out the stellar cast of "Goodbye, My Fancy," and it is interesting to note that Lovejoy made the hard climb to stardom in less than a year's time probably due to his sterling portrayals in "Breakthrough" and "Three Secrets."

AT TEM TODAY

Jeanne Crain and Dale Robertson make an impressive couple in Twentieth Century-Fox's Technicolor story of college life, "Take Care of My Little Girl," currently playing at the Tem Theater. Mitzi Gaynor and Jean Peters also co-star.

Film Of College Life Now At Tem

Vigorous and entertaining, "Take Care of My Little Girl," the new feature at the Tem Theatre, reveals a hiterto untouched phase of college life in developing an unusual movie filled with romance, young and good looking people, bright situations and human feeling. Jeanne Crain is the lovely star, whose natural beauty is enhanced by the Technicolor cameras, in this comedy-drama about the snobbery of college sororities and, by implication, fraternities.

Taken from a novel by Peggy Goodin which recounted her authentic experiences on and off campus in facing for the first time the heartbreak which comes from prejudice and discrimination, "Take Care of My Little Girl," as it has emerged on the screen, is in no sense a problem picture. It is a sincere and honest film, and a moving one, but it is presented in the warm spirit of Miss Crain's other collegiate triumph, "Margie," and as a result is primarily entertainment which gains stature from its controversial point of inception.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. S.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. No, she might pull through alive, but a woman can't succeed if she doesn't like half of the human race—naturally, the better half! Unless a girl likes boys in a wholesome way, she can't pick out the best man for keeps. Neither man nor woman can develop a well-rounded personality without a sound, sensible liking for the opposite sex. Our booklet, "How To Be Popular," sent at cost 15 cents (coin only) plus self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. No, judging from a survey by Educator Victor Randolph. When you add to the 14 teaching hours the 12 hours of preparation, five hours of research, four hours of student conferences, three hours of professional reading, two hours of faculty meetings, five hours of office work, and hours for various other duties, the "leisurely professor" workers an average of 52 hours a week. Quite a contrast to the "leisurely life" of labor with its 40-hour week, usually with more pay.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. No, according to Drs. Sheldon and Eleanor Glueck in their book, "Unraveling Juvenile Delinquency," in which is stated that over half the delinquents show their tendencies before reaching eight years. They are restless, extroverted, aggressive, destructive. As children, they are hostile, suspicious, stubborn, adventurous and opposed to authority. Of course many of them come from badly managed or broken homes that bring these traits into action. The time to prevent delinquency is during the first eight years.

Want To Be Popular?

Just follow the easy methods explained by famed Dr. A. E. Wiggam in his 28 page booklet: "How You Too Can Be Popular."

Cameraman Frank Lovejoy tries to take the joy out of love for competitor Robert Young who romances Joan Crawford in "Goodbye, My Fancy" the new Warner comedy which begins its local engagement at the Paramount Theatre today.

'Goodbye, My Fancy,' Opens Today, Has Joan Crawford In Star Role

Imagine a nationally prominent congresswoman being invited to receive an honorary degree from her alma mater and having it become known that she was expelled from that school 20 years earlier for staying out all night with—of all people—the man who is now the college president himself.

Therein lie the ingredients of "Goodbye, My Fancy," Warner Bros.' romantic comedy which has been termed in advance one of the funniest films in many seasons. The picture, based on Fay Kanin's outstanding Broadway play, begins its local engagement at the Paramount Theatre today.

Joan Crawford, whose latest dramatic successes include "Mildred Pierce," in which she starred with Jack Carson, "Flamingo Road" and "The Damned Don't Cry," gives one of her rare performances as a comedienne, in the role of the female politician who tries to educate a college faculty and winds up taking a few lessons in love.

Debonair Robert Young makes his introductory appearance in a Warner Bros. film as the college president who loses his heart to Miss Crawford. Among Young's recent successes are "Crossfire," "Sitting Pretty" and "The Second Woman."

Frank Lovejoy rounds out the stellar cast of "Goodbye, My Fancy," and it is interesting to note that Lovejoy made the hard climb to stardom in less than a year's time probably due to his sterling portrayals in "Breakthrough" and "Three Secrets."

AT TEM TODAY

Jeanne Crain and Dale Robertson make an impressive couple in Twentieth Century-Fox's Technicolor story of college life, "Take Care of My Little Girl," currently playing at the Tem Theater. Mitzi Gaynor and Jean Peters also co-star.

Film Of College Life Now At Tem

Vigorous and entertaining, "Take Care of My Little Girl," the new feature at the Tem Theatre, reveals a hiterto untouched phase of college life in developing an unusual movie filled with romance, young and good looking people, bright situations and human feeling. Jeanne Crain is the lovely star, whose natural beauty is enhanced by the Technicolor cameras, in this comedy-drama about the snobbery of college sororities and, by implication, fraternities.

Taken from a novel by Peggy Goodin which recounted her authentic experiences on and off campus in facing for the first time the heartbreak which comes from prejudice and discrimination, "Take Care of My Little Girl," as it has emerged on the screen, is in no sense a problem picture. It is a sincere and honest film, and a moving one, but it is presented in the warm spirit of Miss Crain's other collegiate triumph, "Margie," and as a result is primarily entertainment which gains stature from its controversial point of inception.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

Answer to Question No. 1

1. No, she might pull through alive, but a woman can't succeed if she doesn't like half of the human race—naturally, the better half! Unless a girl likes boys in a wholesome way, she can't pick out the best man for keeps. Neither man nor woman can develop a well-rounded personality without a sound, sensible liking for the opposite sex. Our booklet, "How To Be Popular," sent at cost 15 cents (coin only) plus self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. No, judging from a survey by Educator Victor Randolph. When you add to the 14 teaching hours the 12 hours of preparation, five hours of research, four hours of student conferences, three hours of professional reading, two hours of faculty meetings, five hours of office work, and hours for various other duties, the "leisurely professor" workers an average of 52 hours a week. Quite a contrast to the "leisurely life" of labor with its 40-hour week, usually with more pay.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. No, according to Drs. Sheldon and Eleanor Glueck in their book, "Unraveling Juvenile Delinquency," in which is stated that over half the delinquents show their tendencies before reaching eight years. They are restless, extroverted, aggressive, destructive. As children, they are hostile, suspicious, stubborn, adventurous and opposed to authority. Of course many of them come from badly managed or broken homes that bring these traits into action. The time to prevent delinquency is during the first eight years.

Want To Be Popular?

Just follow the easy methods explained by famed Dr. A. E. Wiggam in his 28 page booklet: "How You Too Can Be Popular."

Contains tests and 14 easily applied rules. You'll find them highly effective.

STOP! That means you, and it means now, and it means right where you are. How difficult to do it! We are all in such a rush; but where are we going? You've got to stop before you can either look or listen. To stop means to do a little thinking, perhaps even to meditate or to reflect. That is almost a lost art among us. "Be still and know that I am God"; that is, stop to discover where you stand with reference to God and with reference to what you are living for; that is, where you are bound for. Who are we? Animals that must be fed and given bodily care? Or are we eternal children of God on the way to Destiny, and a Destiny beyond the stars? There must be "rests" in music, in order for phrasing and color; there must be a "pause" for that which refreshes the soul. Stop, then, for careful looking and for listening.

LOOK! What are other people doing around you? Who is travelling the highway, and how fast? Is he doing wisely? Do you want to be caught in the same traffic jam that appears in the distance? Has it ever been true that "broad is the way that leads to destruction, and many there be who find it"? Is it a wise policy to let the crowd do your thinking for you? Where so many do so little thinking and that too late, ought I to be more thoughtful, especially about the more important things? Shall I learn by the experience of the race? Is the end of the way fairly clear to those who will look?

LISTEN! There are warnings aplenty for those who will listen. What does the alcoholic have to say about the first drink? He knows; listen! What does the embezzler have to say about the careless use of another's property? What does the killer have to say about hatred in the heart? Listen! Then, on the other side, the wise teachers of the race, who have chosen the straight and narrow path, where too few were travelling, they add their counsel. Christians are women and men and children who have decided to listen to Jesus of Nazareth. This is a good time to read the Sermon on the Mount. Hear Him! Then choose the path along which He will walk with you.

YEARS OF SUCCESS

'Miss Alice' Retires; 40 Successful Years

Miss Alice Henry Attributes Success In Millinery Business To Understanding People; Will Always Be Interested In Business World

For style, for fit, for beauty in design and material, and for that certain lift which only a new hat and much eclan can give a woman—it's been Miss Alice Henry's exclusive Millinery Shop to which many have flocked for 40 years.

"Miss Alice," as she is affectionally known to many, retired recently after having experienced numerous successful years in dealing with people and aiding them in selections of hats best suited to the individual.

"Often the selection was so flattering that ladies even received compliments from their husbands.

Before entering into her own business in 1908, "Miss Alice" taught school for a number of years, having herself graduated from Peabody College in Nashville, Tenn. Among the schools at which she taught courses in mathematics and English, were Collingston High School, Oak Ridge High School, and Mansfield's College for Women.

After teaching for approximately ten years, and regardless of strong persuasion from the school board requesting her not to leave "Miss Alice" said, "I wanted to settle down and have my own business. Although I loved 'my children,' I had become very tired, what with school board meetings, and constand demands."

Upon breaking away from teaching, she ventured into the millinery business, establishing her first shop in West Monroe, as she was reared outside of that city on a farm owned by her father, Mr. James Henry.

Later, she worked for Marks and Cohn department store until they disbanded; whereupon, she set up a shop in the Palace for three years then had a hat department in Mr. Ensel's store three years, and finally combined her shop with the Woman's Shop which had not been established at that time.

"Miss Alice" has maintained her shop in the same store as Bella Scherck Davidson for the past 28 years.

In a recent release issued from the Woman's Shop in honor of "Miss Alice," "Bella" said that, "kind, generous, lovely "Miss Alice is the best friend I've ever had."

"I found the trade wonderfully nice," said "Miss Alice."

Whether it was a chapeau, beret, or large floppy hat the customer desired, "Miss Alice" was nearly always able to satisfy their needs.

When asked what styles she thought the loveliest in the last 40 years, she replied, "I believe the hats of the 20's were the most outstanding. They had exquisite garden hats ornamented with flowers, ribbons, and maline. In those days they trimmed hats."

Even though she is retiring, she points out that "I will always be interested in the millinery business."

"Miss Alice" has always been and still is an untiring and faithful worker of the First Methodist Church in West Monroe. She maintains her residence just behind the church at 308 Park Avenue.

Due to illness, she occupies her time primarily with giving her kindness to friends and reading religious literature and history.

"Miss Alice" will long be remembered for her unselfish service and kindness in serving the people of Monroe, West Monroe, and all of northeast Louisiana.

"If I have been successful, it has not been for the last 40 years but all my life, for I attribute any success I may have had to the fact that I love people and they in turn love me."

Goodwill Built With Cheap Dollars By Advertising

Corporations Save On Income Tax By Advertising; For Every $5,000 Earned, Stockholder Only Retains $575; Advertising Dollar Costs Stockholder 11½ Cents

(Editor's Note: This is the third in a series of articles on the effect of advertising on income tax for which J. S. Garelick, Certified Public Accountant, is the authority.)

"For every dollar spent advertising," J. S. Garelick, local Certified Public Accountant, points out, "stockholders are only out eleven and one-half cents."

In a series of interviews, Mr. Garelick has explained the effect of advertising on income tax which he describes as the best medium through which firms can benefit from profits, ordinarily paid out in taxes.

Breaking down the figures, Mr. Garelick asserts that a corporation earning $15,000 and not subject to excess profits tax must pay $3,750 in tax. Of this amount $11,5250 is retained by the corporation or is subject to dividends. If paid out in dividends to a stockholder in the 50 per cent income bracket, $5,625 will have to paid out in tax by the individual which leaves him only half of the original amount.

The same type corporation earning $20,000 must pay $5,000 in tax and can retain the remaining $25,000. If this amount is paid out to stockholders in the 50 per cent bracket $7,500 of the dividends goes for taxes leaving $7,500 to the stockholder.

This type corporation earning $25,000 pays $6,250 in tax. The remaining $18 750 can be retained by the concern and if paid out in dividends the recipient must pay tion not subject to excess profits tax pays $13,300 in tax which amounts to $26,700 being retained. Of this amount, if distributed to a stockholder, $13,350 is paid in tax.

A larger corporation earning $50,000 pays $18,000 in tax which leaves $32,000 for the stockholder. He in turn will pay half or $16,000 of this amount out in taxes.

When questioned as to the net earnings of a corporation to a stockholder in net dollars, if the stockholder is in the 50 per cent bracket Mr. Garelick replied, that only $5,625 is retainable by a stockholder if the corporation earns $15,000.

Other examples, given by the C. P. A. show that only $7,500 can be kept by a stockholder in a corporation earning $20,000.

With a $25,000 earning, the stockholder actually receives the sum of $9,375.

For a $30,000 corporation earn-

Corporations earning between $15,000 and $50,000 and not subject to excess profits tax:

Amount earned by corporation	Tax Due	Amount retained by corporation	Amount subject to dividends
20,000	5,000	15,000	15,000
25,000	6,250	18,750	18,750
30,000	8,600	21,400	*21,400
35,000	10,950	24,050	*24,050
40,000	13,300	26,700	*26,700
50,000	18,000	32,000	*32,000

*Not subject to excess profits tax.

When these amounts subject to dividends are finally paid out to stockholders who are in the 50% income tax brackets, the results are as follows:

Dividends paid	Tax due on Dividends	Amt. retained by Stoickholder
$11,250	$ 5,625	*$ 5,625
15,000	7,500	*7,500
18,750	9,375	*9,375
21,400	10,700	*10,700
24,050	12,025	*12,025
26,700	13,350	*13,350
32,000	16,000	*16,000

*Not subject to excess profits tax.

What net earnings to corporation means to stockholder in net dollars, if stockholder is in the 50% bracket. (Not subject to excess profits.)

Amount earned by corporation	Amt. retained by stockholder
$15,000	$ 5,625
20,000	7,500
25,000	9,375
30,000	10,700
35,000	12,025
40,000	13,350
50,000	16,000

If corporation is subject to excess profits tax and the earnings are between $30,000 and $50,000.

Amount earned by corporation	Tax due	Amountreturned by corporation	Amount subject to dividends
$30,000	$10,100	$19,900	$19,900
35,000	13,950	21,050	21,050
40,000	17,800	22,200	22,200
50,000	25,500	24,500	24,500

What net earnings to corporation means to stockholder in net dollars, if stockholder is in the 50% bracket.

Amount earned by corporation	Amount retained by stockholder	Individual and corporation tax
$30,000	$ 9 950	$20,050
35,000	10,525	24,475
40,000	11,100	28,900
50,000	12,250	37,750

Frm the above you can see that the additional $5,000 earned between $30,000 and $35,000, the stockholder only retains $575; of the additional $5,000 earned between $35,000 and $40,000, the stockholder retains $575. In other words for every $5,000 earned, the stockholder retains only $575. Therefore, every dollar spent for advertising costs the stockholder 11½ cents.

Individual proprietors pay as follows, after exemptions:

TAXES

Income	If married	If single
$ 5,000	$ 1,020	$ 1,100
10,000	2,200	2,640
20,000	5,280	7,260
30,000	9,460	13,220
40,000	14,520	19,740
50,000	20,300	26,820

$9,375 in tax, leaving him only $9,375.

On $30,000, $8,600 is paid out in tax leaving $21,400 for dividends. The stockholder in turn must pay $10,700 in taxes retaining the same amount for himself.

A tax of $10,950 is paid by a corporation of this type earning $35,000 and $24,050 can be paid in dividends, which results in a $12,025 tax on the dividends, leaving the stockholder $12,025.

A $40,000 earning by a corporaing, the stockholder gets only $10,700 of this amount. In a corporation earning $35,000 the stockholder realizes a $12,025 profit.

In a larger corporation showing earnings of $40,000 the stockholder receives only $13,350. With a $50,000 corporation earning, dividends would amount to $16,000.

If a corporation is subject to excess profits tax and earns $30,000, of this amount $10,100 is due in tax and the business retains $19,900 subject to dividends, the stockholder if in the 50 per cent bracket can only retain $9,950. The individual and corporation tax amounts to $20,050.

A corporation earning $35,000, subject to excess profits tax pays $13,950 in tax, which leaves $21,050 for the corporation. A stockholder in this corporation in the higher tax bracket receives $10,525. Corporation and individual tax on this earning amounts to $24,475.

The same type corporation which earns $40,000 pays $17,800 in tax, leaving $22,200 for the firm. Of this amount the stockholder can retain $11,100. The total individual and corporation tax on this earning amounts to $28,900.

A corporation of this type earning $50,000 pays $25,000 in tax which leaves the corporation $24,500. The stockholder can retain only $12,250, which results in $37,750 being paid out in taxes.

From the figures, the additional $5,000 earned between $30,000 and $35,000, the stockholder only retains $575. Of the additional $5,000 earned between $35,000 and $40,000, the stockholder retains $575.

In other words, Garelick asserted, for every $5,000 earned, the stockholder only retains $575. Therefore, every dollar spent for advertising cost the stockholder only eleven and one - half cents.

Income tax paid by individual proprietors show that with an income of $5,000, if married $1,020 is paid in taxes, if single $1,100 is tax money.

On a $10,000 income, if married $2,200 is tax money and if single $2,640 is paid out in tax.

A $20,000 income amounts to $5,280 being paid in tax by a married person and $7,260 by a single man.

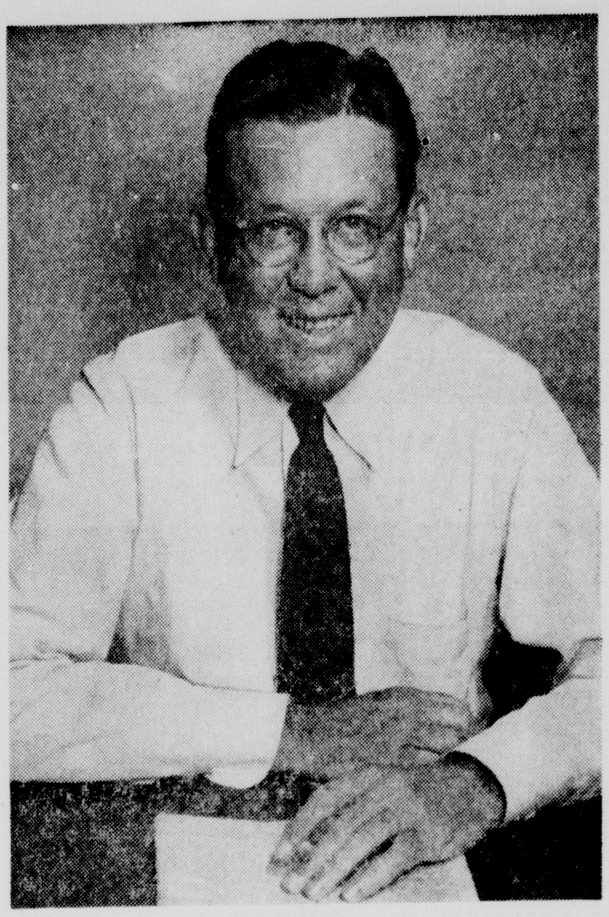

For a $30,000 income, if married $9,460 is paid out in tax, if single the amount is $13,220.

An income of $40,000 results in the individual, if married paying $14,520 or if single $19,740. In the $50,000 bracket, if married the individual pays out 20,300 and if single $26,820.

It was pointed out by Garelick local businesses can build goodwill with cheap dollars by advertising.

HANK SNOW'S 'MOVIN' ON'

Nationally Popular Railroad Songs Are Here To Stay

By Mark Barron

New York, July 14.—(AP)—The famous old railroad songs first made nationally popular by the legendary Jimmie Rodgers will not drift into oblivion.

A one - man crusade to guarantee their longevity is Hank Snow, veteran country music singer, who comes to Broadway occasionally only to make some new records, sign a new contract with his song publishers and then is off again, riding the rails.

A lifelong enthusiast for the tradition of railroad songs which Rodgers, a lanky yodeler and former railroad brakeman, built up, Snow is perpetuating on records and radio such classics as "The Wreck of Old 97" and "Hobo Bill's Last Ride."

On a quick trip to Broadway from the south the other day, Snow said that "As a child I listened by the hour to my idol, Jimmie Rodgers' records of these railroad songs. Oddly enough, my first recognition in Tin Pan Alley came with a railroad song which I wrote myself called "I'm Movin' On." That sold over a half - million copies. I followed it up with another railroad original 'The Golden Rocket.' "

Hank named his son Jimmie Rodgers Snow, now 13, after the legendary singer whose railroad song recordings have been all - time best - sellers. Snow, himself a star now on the "Grand Ole Opry" radio program and on RCA victor records, started singing in the Canadian northwest ,then worked his way through to Texas and then to Nashville, Tenn., capital of the nation's country singers.

"I almost became a seagoing singer instead of a railroad man," Rodgers said. "When I was only 14 my stepfather objected so much to my studying singing that he drove me out of the house.

"I got a job as cabin boy on a ship sailing out of Nova Scotia, but when I got back to port I had enough of thesea and turned to railroading.

The memory of Jimmie Rodgers' singing was so strong that I took a sentimental journey to Texas to meet Rodgers' widow. She gave me Rodgers' guitar and a lot of encouragement.

"I've relized a life's dream in recording this real American folk music. It has been kept alive all these years by the railroad workers. Many of them learned the songs from their fathers, and their fathers before them. They are taken as seriously on the railroads as old - time hymns."

Hank says the first railraod songs originated with farm hands who imitated passing trains on their fiddles, guitars, banjos, mouth harps and harmonicas. They listened to trains whistling past their furrows as fishermen have listened to bell - buoys and fog horns and composed songs based on those sounds.

Many railraod songs such as "Ben Dewberry's final Run" are based on actual news events.

Freedom In Czechoslovakia Has Slowly Been Killed Off

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Two years ago yesterday (July 14) A. I. Goldberg left Prague after serving as Associated Press chief from August, 1947, on through the Communist seizure of control in Czechoslovakia. A reporter for the Associated Press for 25 years, Goldberg is now on the Associated Press staff at the United Nations. In connection with the recent trial of Associated Press Correspondent William Oatis in Prague, Goldberg writes of the developments that have crushed freedom in Czechoslovakia.)

By A. I. Goldberg

Freedom in Czechoslovakia has been killed off by stages for four years.

This death by installments began even before the Communists seized power in 1948. The Kremlin issued a no - appeal order to the Czechoslovaks in early 1947: "Stay out of the Marshall plan."

Freedom is indivisible, a collective thing. Wherever it is attacked, the collective body is wounded.

But freedom is also individual. So long as one man lives with the ideal of freedom in his heart and mind, freedom survives. That is why it takes so long to kill it off, in Czechoslovakia as elsewhere.

That is why the arrest, the mock trial, and the planned conviction of AP Correspondent William Oatis in Prague were but another of a mounting series of attacks on freedom in Czechoslovakia. Almost the first was the regime's throttling of Czechoslovakia's own free press. Another was its attack on organized religion.

Other countries where Soviet push - buttons set the pace for Communist executions have had a number of such spectacles. Bulgaria tried several government officials and a group of Protestant pastors. Hungary put Cardinal Mindszenty and Archbishop Groesz a foreign minister and Robert Vogeler, an American business man in the dock. Romania and Poland tried political leaders.

Czechoslovakia has lagged behind. It has been working up slowly to the trial of its former foreign minister, Vlado Clementis, on spy charges. Somehow it hasn't produced him in court yet. It has held trials of minor Roman Catholic clergy.

But since the Communists cowed ailing President Eduard Benes, later forcing him out, and drove Jan Masaryk in despair to hurl himself to death from a fourth floor window of the foreign office palace, Czechoslovakia has avoided international sensations.

The Oatis trial brought home to America how far Czechoslovakia has gone from the principles of its founding fathers — principles based on the British, French and American democracies and written into a declaration at Pittsburgh in 1918 by the Czechoslovak leaders headed by Thomas G. Masaryk.

In Czechoslovakia I saw how those ideals of freedom, sought for centuries were arrested by the Communists. I saw push - button executions of freedom begin without even mock trials.

Czechoslovakia has become virtually a prison camp. President Klement Gottwald, an old Communist international officer, and the members of his regime guard it zealously. A very small number of people are trusties, allowed occasionally outside the prison walls for such things as United Nations meetings, or to serve in the diplomatic service.

Many of these are often summoned back. The Czechoslovak diplomatic service, including the one at Washington, has just recently been depleted by such summos. New trusties are sent out for a short time.

Some have been so contaminated by freedom outside that they refuse to go back. If they go, they are like Clementis — prisoners. Some are executed — Clementis may yet be one of them.

Push-buttons in Moscow control what goes on in the countries under its influence. In Czechoslovakia the push-button was working when a Soviet ambassador made a sudden reappearance in Prague. Revolution followed quickly.

The Soviet foreign minister nursed his weak heart and his strong bile at a Czechoslovak spa. Czechoslovak delegates in the U.N. began to voice not only the very words of the Kremlin but to speak them in Russian. Before that they used English and French.

A Russian general visited the country. The army got political commissars and Soviet equipment and "reorganization."

What I saw — and reported — when freedom was first attacked were police seizing the headquarters of the principal anti-Communist party. Immediately afterward, troops took over the party's newspaper. Censors were installed in all other newspapers to exercise rigid Communist control so that no word of protest against the regime could get out.

Foreign newspapers and magazines, until then freely sold and widely read, were swept off the news stands. Armed "workers" paraded and patrolled the streets, to keep down any ideas of a struggle for freedom.

An attack was begun, and continues to this day, against the Roman Catholic Church and its leaders because it was the last big organized obstacle to complete Communist domination.

Nationalization of industry and services was pushed to 95 per cent of totality, to crush the shopkeepers, the dangerous middle class.

Work permits and ration cards were issued only if, in effect, a loyalty oath to the Communist regime and to the might and leadership of the Soviet union were subscribed to.

The Soviet flag, it was proclaimed officially, must fly alongside the Czechoslovak Red, white and blue on holidays. The Sokol, an historic national patriotic society, first was infiltrated and then taken over by Communists.

Passports of citizens were recalled. No longer could Czechs or Slovaks leave their prison country for vacations in the west or on the Yugoslav coast, favorite recreation spot. Despite this, thousands braved death to escape across the fortified, guarded borders.

Parliament rubber - stamped a "peoples democracy" constitution that defended class war.

Workers were forced to attend lectures in Marxist history and teachings. They were incited to denounce the west.

The new Marxist educational program was thrust onto the schools, from 602-year-old Charles University down to the primary schools where photographs of Stalin and Gottwald replaced the Crucifix and pictures of the elder Masaryk.

The printing of books was severely censored. Listening to western radios was discouraged. Western embassy libraries and cultural centers were shut down.

EARLY GRADES PRACTICE DRAMA

Saturday Morning Rehearsals At Recreation Center Attract Youngsters

For two and a half years a dozen Twin City youngsters of the fifth, sixth and seventh grades have met once a week at the Recreation Center on Catalpa street for their Dramatic Club under the direction of Kay Causey. From the results of the one hour rehearsal at 9:00 a.m. on Saturday morning they have given a score of plays for the children at the recreation center and on the playgrounds.

Rehearsals now are on the first ready-written play to be produced by the group. "The Pampered Darling," by Beatrice Humiston McNeil, is a one-act comedy about teen-agers which will be put on the first week in September, a production date which was chosen because it was just past the confusion of vacations. The cast for this play is as follows: Dottie Dawson, Gay Renno, Sandra Alsbrook, Nell Coates Melba Harris, Jo Ann Bradley, Virginia Beason, David Brinson, Patsy Glass and Velda Ann Watts.

Scheduled for the remaining weeks of the summer is a plan to shoot a one-reel movie of the play so that the youngsters may have a chance to see themselves in action and learn something about their strong and weak points by seeing themselves.

The plays which the Dramatic Club has produced prior to the one now in rehearsal have all been rehearsed improvisation; that is the plot was outlined, and the scenes planned with characters assigned to each member. After that each actor made up his or her own lines on the stage aided by discussions at each rehearsal of the plot line the characterization, and the necessary exposition for the play.

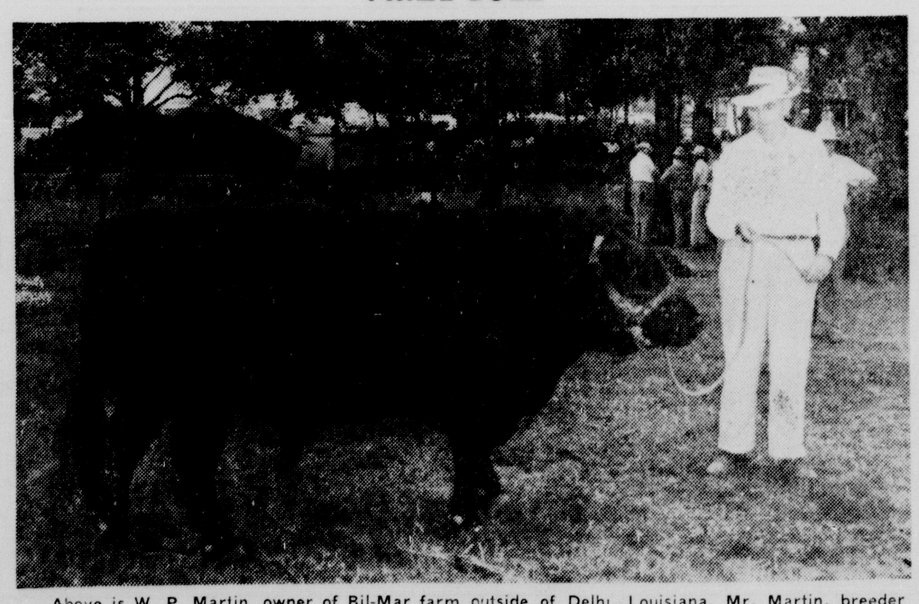

The past two summers the Dramatic Club took a play "on tour" to each of the five playgrounds for morning showings. This involved spur-of-the-moment adaptation to circumstances which were sometimes humorous and always useful to the youngsters in learning more of the art of the stage.

Membership in the club is open to any children of the fifty sixth and seventh grades. There are no dues; all that is required is faithful attendance at 9:00 a.m. each Saturday morning.

Pettit began his service 42 years ago as officer in charge of the old swimming pool. He left this duty to become a patrol officer. Captain Pettit says that those were the good old days before the automobile came along and patroling was carried out on horseback. "I remember the first plow that was put on DeSiard to lay bricks for a paved street," asserted Pettit. The old officer became captain during the Tarver administration. He is captain of the morning patrol shift at the present time. His duties including the supervision of officers on this beat and protection of the public. 'Miss Alice' Retires; 40 Successful Years

Miss Alice Henry Attributes Success In Millinery Business To Understanding People; Will Always Be Interested In Business World

For style, for fit, for beauty in design and material, and for that certain lift which only a new hat and much eclan can give a woman—it's been Miss Alice Henry's exclusive Millinery Shop to which many have flocked for 40 years.

"Miss Alice," as she is affectionally known to many, retired recently after having experienced numerous successful years in dealing with people and aiding them in selections of hats best suited to the individual.

Often the selection was so flattering that ladies even received compliments from their husbands.

Before entering into her own business in 1908, "Miss Alice" taught school for a number of years, having herself graduated from Peabody College in Nashville, Tenn. Among the schools at which she taught courses in mathematics and English, were Collingston High School, Oak Ridge High School, and Mansfield's College for Women.

After teaching for approximately ten years, and regardless of strong persuasion from the school board requesting her not to leave "Miss Alice" said, "I wanted to settle down and have my own business. Although I loved 'my children,' I had become very tired, what with school board meetings, and constand demands."

Upon breaking away from teaching, she ventured into the millinery business, establishing her first shop in West Monroe, as she was reared outside of that city on a farm owned by her father, Mr. James Henry.

Later, she worked for Marks and Cohn department store until they disbanded; whereupon, she set up a shop in the Palace for three years then had a hat department in Mr. Ensel's store three years, and finally combined her shop with the Woman's Shop which had not been established at that time.

"Miss Alice" has maintained her shop in the same store as Bella Scherck Davidson for the past 28 years.

In a recent release issued from the Woman's Shop in honor of "Miss Alice," "Bella" said that, "kind, generous, lovely "Miss Alice is the best friend I've ever had."

Due to illness, she occupies her time primarily with giving her kindness to friends and reading religious literature and history.

"Miss Alice" will long be remembered for her unselfish service and kindness in serving the people of Monroe, West Monroe, and all of northeast Louisiana.

Goodwill Built With Cheap Dollars By Advertising

Corporations Save On Income Tax By Advertising; For Every $5,000 Earned, Stockholder Only Retains $575; Advertising Dollar Costs Stockholder 11½ Cents

(Editor's Note: This is the third in a series of articles on the effect of advertising on income tax for which J. S. Garelick, Certified Public Accountant, is the authority.)

"For every dollar spent advertising," J. S. Garelick, local Certified Public Accountant, points out, "stockholders are only out eleven and one-half cents."

In a series of interviews, Mr. Garelick has explained the effect of advertising on income tax which he describes as the best medium through which firms can benefit from profits, ordinarily paid out in taxes.

Breaking down the figures, Mr. Garelick asserts that a corporation earning $15,000 and not subject to excess profits tax must pay $3,750 in tax. Of this amount $11,5250 is retained by the corporation or is subject to dividends. If paid out in dividends to a stockholder in the 50 per cent income bracket, $5,625 will have to paid out in tax by the individual which leaves him only half of the original amount.

The same type corporation earning $20,000 must pay $5,000 in tax and can retain the remaining $25,000. If this amount is paid out to stockholders in the 50 per cent bracket $7,500 of the dividends goes for taxes leaving $7,500 to the stockholder.

This type corporation earning $25,000 pays $6,250 in tax. The remaining $18 750 can be retained by the concern and if paid out in dividends the recipient must pay tion not subject to excess profits tax pays $13,300 in tax which amounts to $26,700 being retained. Of this amount, if distributed to a stockholder, $13,350 is paid in tax.

A larger corporation earning $50,000 pays $18,000 in tax which leaves $32,000 for the stockholder. He in turn will pay half or $16,000 of this amount out in taxes.

When questioned as to the net earnings of a corporation to a stockholder in net dollars, if the stockholder is in the 50 per cent bracket Mr. Garelick replied, that only $5,625 is retainable by a stockholder if the corporation earns $15,000.

Other examples, given by the C. P. A. show that only $7,500 can be kept by a stockholder in a corporation earning $20,000.

With a $25,000 earning, the stockholder actually receives the sum of $9,375.

For a $30,000 corporation earn-

Corporations earning between $15,000 and $50.000 and not subject to excess profits tax:

Amount earned by corporation	Tax Due	Amount retained by corporation	Amount subject to dividends
$15,000	$ 3,750	$11,250	$11,250
20,000	5,000	15,000	15,000
25,000	6,250	18,750	18,750
30,000	8,600	21,400	*21,400
35,000	10,950	24,050	*24,050

50,000	18,000	32,000	*32,000

When these amounts subject to dividends are finally paid out to stockholders who are in the 50% income tax brackets, the results are as follows:

Dividends paid	Tax due on Dividends	Amt. retained by Stoickholder
$11,250	$ 5,625	*$ 5,625
15,000	7,500	*7,500
18,750	9,375	*9,375
21,400	10,700	*10,700
24,050	12,025	*12,025
26,700	13,350	*13,350
32,000	16,000	*16,000

What net earnings to corporation means to stockholder in net dollars, if stockholder is in the 50% bracket. (Not subject to excess profits.)

Amount earned by corporation	Amt. retained by stockholder
$15,000	$ 5,625
20,000	7,500
25,000	9,375
30,000	10,700
35,000	12,025
40,000	13,350
50,000	16,000

If corporation is subject to excess profits tax and the earnings are between $30,000 and $50,000.

Amount earned by corporation	Tax due	Amountreturned by corporation	Amount subject to dividends
$30,000	$10,100	$19,900	$19,900
35,000	13,950	21,050	21,050
50,000	25,500	24,500	24,500

What net earnings to corporation means to stockholder in net dollars, if stockholder is in the 50% bracket.

Amount earned by corporation	Amount retained by stockholder	Individual and corporation tax
$30,000	$ 9 950	$20,050
35,000	10,525	24,475
40.000	11,100	28,900
50,000	12,250	37,750

Frm the above you can see that the additional $5,000 earned between $30,000 and $35,000, the stockholder only retains $575; of the additional $5,000 earned between $35,000 and $40,000, the stockholder retains $575. In other words for every $5,000 earned, the stockholder retains only $575. Therefore, every dollar spent for advertising costs the stockholder 11½ cents.

Individual proprietors pay as follows, after exemptions:

TAXES

Income	If married	If single
$ 5,000	$ 1,020	$ 1,100
10,000	2,200	2,640
20,000	5,280	7,260
30,000	9,460	13,220
40,000	14,520	19,740
50,000	20,300	26,820

$9,375 in tax, leaving him only $9,375.

On $30,000, $8,600 is paid out in tax leaving $21,400 for dividends. The stockholder in turn must pay $10,700 in taxes retaining the same amount for himself.

A tax of $10,950 is paid by a corporation of this type earning $35,000 and $24,050 can be paid in dividends, which results in a $12,025 tax on the dividends, leaving the stockholder $12,025.

A $40,000 earning by a corporaing, the stockholder gets only $10,700 of this amount. In a corporation earning $35,000 the stockholder realizes a $12,025 profit.

In a larger corporation showing earnings of $40,000 the stockholder receives only $13,350. With a $50,000 corporation earning, dividends would amount to $16,000.

If a corporation is subject to excess profits tax and earns $30,000, of this amount $10,100 is due in tax and the business retains $19,900 subject to dividends, the stockholder if in the 50 per cent bracket can only retain $9,950. The individual and corporation tax amounts to $20,050.

A corporation earning $35,000, subject to excess profits tax pays $13,950 in tax, which leaves $21,050 for the corporation. A stockholder in this corporation in the higher tax bracket receives $10,525. Corporation and individual tax on this earning amounts to $24,475.

The same type corporation which earns $40,000 pays $17,800 in tax, leaving $22,200 for the firm. Of this amount the stockholder can retain $11,100. The total individual and corporation tax on this earning amounts to $28,900.

A corporation of this type earning $50,000 pays $25,000 in tax which leaves the corporation $24,500. The stockholder can retain only $12,250, which results in $37,750 being paid out in taxes.

From the figures, the additional $5,000 earned between $30,000 and $35,000, the stockholder only retains $575. Of the additional $5,000 earned between $35,000 and $40,000, the stockholder retains $575.

In other words, Garelick asserted, for every $5,000 earned, the stockholder only retains $575. Therefore, every dollar spent for advertising cost the stockholder only eleven and one - half cents.

Income tax paid by individual proprietors show that with an income of $5,000, if married $1,020 is paid in taxes, if single $1,100 is tax money.

On a $10,000 income, if married $2,200 is tax money and if single $2,640 is paid out in tax.

A $20,000 income amounts to $5,280 being paid in tax by a married person and $7,260 by a single man.

For a $30,000 income, if married $9,460 is paid out in tax, if single the amount is $13,220.

An income of $40,000 results in the individual, if married paying $14,520 or if single $19,740. In the $50,000 bracket, if married the individual pays out 20,300 and if single $26,820.

It was pointed out by Garelick local businesses can build goodwill with cheap dollars by advertising.

Freedom In Czechoslovakia Has Slowly Been Killed Off

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Two years ago yesterday (July 14) A. I. Goldberg left Prague after serving as Associated Press chief from August, 1947, on through the Communist seizure of control in Czechoslovakia. A reporter for the Associated Press for 25 years, Goldberg is now on the Associated Press staff at the United Nations. In connection with the recent trial of Associated Press Correspondent William Oatis in Prague, Goldberg writes of the developments that have crushed freedom in Czechoslovakia.)

By A. I. Goldberg

Freedom in Czechoslovakia has been killed off by stages for four years.

This death by installments began even before the Communists seized power in 1948. The Kremlin issued a no - appeal order to the Czechoslovaks in early 1947: "Stay out of the Marshall plan."

Freedom is indivisible, a collective thing. Wherever it is attacked, the collective body is wounded.

But freedom is also individual. So long as one man lives with the ideal of freedom in his heart and mind, freedom survives. That is why it takes so long to kill it off, in Czechoslovakia as elsewhere.

That is why the arrest, the mock trial, and the planned conviction of AP Correspondent William Oatis in Prague were but another of a mounting series of attacks on freedom in Czechoslovakia. Almost the first was the regime's throttling of Czechoslovakia's own free press. Another was its attack on organized religion.

Other countries where Soviet push - buttons set the pace for Communist executions have had a number of such spectacles. Bulgaria tried several government officials and a group of Protestant pastors. Hungary put Cardinal Mindszenty and Archbishop Groesz a foreign minister and Robert Vogeler, an American business man, in the dock. Romania and Poland tried political leaders.

Czechoslovakia has lagged behind. It has been working up slowly to the trial of its former foreign minister, Vlado Clementis, on spy charges. Somehow it hasn't produced him in court yet. It has held trials of minor Roman Catholic clergy.

But since the Communists cowed ailing President Eduard Benes, later forcing him out, and drove Jan Masaryk in despair to hurl himself to death from a fourth floor window of the foreign office palace, Czechoslovakia has avoided international sensations.

The Oatis trial brought home to America how far Czechoslovakia has gone from the principles of its founding fathers — principles based on the British, French and American democracies and written into a declaration at Pittsburgh in 1918 by the Czechoslovak leaders headed by Thomas G. Masaryk.

In Czechoslovakia I saw how those ideals of freedom, sought for centuries were arrested by the Communists. I saw push - button executions of freedom begin without even mock trials.

Czechoslovakia has become virtually a prison camp. President Klement Gottwald, an old Communist international officer, and the members of his regime guard it zealously. A very small number of people are trusties, allowed occasionally outside the prison walls for such things as United Nations meetings, or to serve in the diplomatic service.

Many of these are often summoned back. The Czechoslovak diplomatic service, including the one at Washington, has just recently been depleted by such summos. New trusties are sent out for a short time.

Some have been so contaminated by freedom outside that they refuse to go back. If they go, they are like Clementis — prisoners. Some are executed — Clementis may yet be one of them.

Push-buttons in Moscow control what goes on in the countries under its influence. In Czechoslovakia the push-button was working when a Soviet ambassador made a sudden reappearance in Prague. Revolution followed quickly.

A Soviet politburo member, heavily guarded, made a speech at a Communist party rally in Czechoslovakia. A purge followed.

The Soviet foreign minister nursed his weak heart and his strong bile at a Czechoslovak spa. Czechoslovak delegates in the U.N. began to voice not only the very words of the Kremlin but to speak them in Russian. Before that they used English and French.

A Russian general visited the country. The army got political commissars and Soviet equipment and "reorganization."

What I saw -- and reported — when freedom was first attacked were police seizing the headquarters of the principal anti-Communist party. Immediately afterward, troops took over the party's newspaper. Censors were installed in all other newspapers to exercise rigid Communist control so that no word of protest against the regime could get out.

Foreign newspapers and magazines, until then freely sold and widely read, were swept off the news stands. Armed "workers" paraded and patrolled the streets, to keep down any ideas of a struggle for freedom.

An attack was begun, and continues to this day, against the Roman Catholic Church and its leaders because it was the last big organized obstacle to complete Communist domination.

Nationalization of industry and services was pushed to 95 per cent of totality, to crush the shopkeepers, the dangerous middle class.

Work permits and ration cards were issued only if, in effect, a loyalty oath to the Communist regime and to the might and leadership of the Soviet union were subscribed to.

The Soviet flag, it was proclaimed officially, must fly alongside the Czechoslovak Red, white and blue on holidays. The Sokol, an historic national patriotic society, first was infiltrated and then taken over by Communists.

Passports of citizens were recalled. No longer could Czechs or Slovaks leave their prison country for vacations in the west or on the Yugoslav coast, favorite recreation spot. Despite this, thousands braved death to escape across the fortified, guarded borders.

Parliament rubber - stamped a "peoples democracy" constitution that defended class war.

Workers were forced to attend lectures in Marxist history and teachings. They were incited to denounce the west.

The new Marxist educational program was thrust onto the schools, from 6½-year-old Charles University down to the primary schools where photographs of Stalin and Gottwald replaced the Crucifix and pictures of the elder Masaryk.

The printing of books was severely censored. Listening to western radios was discouraged. Western embassy libraries and cultural centers were shut down.

HANK SNOW'S 'MOVIN' ON'

Nationally Popular Railroad Songs Are Here To Stay

By Mark Barron

New York, July 14.—(AP)—The famous old railroad songs first made nationally popular by the legendary Jimmie Rodgers will not drift into oblivion.

A one - man crusade to guarantee their longevity is Hank Snow, veteran country music singer, who comes to Broadway occasionally only to make some new records, sign a new contract with his song publishers and then is off again, riding the rails.

A lifelong enthusiast for the tradition of railroad songs which Rodgers, a lanky yodeler and former railroad brakeman, built up, Snow is perpetuating on records and radio such classics as "The Wreck of Old 97" and "Hobo Bill's Last Ride."

On a quick trip to Broadway from the south the other day, Snow said that "As a child I listened by the hour to my idol, Jimmie Rodgers' records of these railroad songs. Oddly enough, my first recognition in Tin Pan Alley came with a railroad song which I wrote myself called "I'm Movin' On." That sold over a half - million copies. I followed it up with another railroad original 'The Golden Rocket.' "

Hank named his son Jimmie Rodgers Snow, now 13, after the legendary singer whose railroad song recordings have been all - time best - sellers. Snow, himself a star now on the "Grand Ole Opry" radio program and on RCA victor records, started singing in the Canadian northwest ,then worked his way through to Texas and then to Nashville, Tenn., capital of the nation's country singers.

"I almost became a seagoing singer instead of a railroad man," Rodgers said. "When I was only 14 my stepfather objected so much to my studying singing that he drove me out of the house.

"I got a job as cabin boy on a ship sailing out of Nova Scotia, but when I got back to port I had enough of thesea and turned to railroading.

The memory of Jimmie Rodgers' singing was so strong that I took a sentimental journey to Texas to meet Rodgers' widow. She gave me Rodgers' guitar and a lot of encouragement.

"I've relized a life's dream in recording this real American folk music. It has been kept alive all these years by the railroad workers. Many of them learned the songs from their fathers, and their fathers before them. They are taken as seriously on the railroads as old - time hymns."

Hank says the first railraod songs originated with farm hands who imitated passing trains on their fiddles, guitars, banjos, mouth harps and harmonicas. They listened to trains whistling past their furrows as fishermen have listened to bell - buoys and fog horns and composed songs based on those sounds.

Many railraod songs such as "Ben Dewberry's final Run" are based on actual news events.

Pettit began his service 42 years ago as officer in charge of the old swimming pool. He left this duty to become a patrol officer. Captain Pettit says that those were the good old days before the automobile came along and patroling was carried out on horseback. "I remember the first plow that was put on DeSiard to lay bricks for a paved street," asserted Pettit. The old officer became captain during the Tarver administration. EARLY GRADES PRACTICE DRAMA

For two and a half years a dozen Twin City youngsters of the fifth, sixth and seventh grades have met once a week at the Recreation Center on Catalpa street for their Dramatic Club under the direction of Kay Causey. From the results of the one hour rehearsal at 9:00 a.m. on Saturday morning they have given a score of plays for the children at the recreation center and on the playgrounds.

Rehearsals now are on the first ready-written play to be produced by the group. "The Pampered Darling," by Beatrice Humiston McNeil, is a one-act comedy about teen-agers which will be put on the first week in September, a production date which was chosen because it was just past the confusion of vacations. The cast for this play is as follows: Dottie Dawson, Gay Renno, Sandra Alsbrook, Nell Coates, Melba Harris, Jo Ann Bradley, Virginia Beason, David Brinson, Patsy Glass and Velda Ann Watts.

Scheduled for the remaining weeks of the summer is a plan to shoot a one-reel movie of the play so that the youngsters may have a chance to see themselves in action and learn something about their strong and weak points by seeing themselves.

The plays which the Dramatic Club has produced prior to the one now in rehearsal have all been rehearsed improvisation; that is the plot was outlined, and the scenes planned with characters assigned to each member. After that each actor made up his or her own lines on the stage aided by discussions at each rehearsal of the plot line the characterization, and the necessary exposition for the play.

The past two summers the Dramatic Club took a play "on tour" to each of the five playgrounds for morning showings. This involved spur-of-the-moment adaptation to circumstances which were sometimes humorous and always useful to the youngsters in learning more of the art of the stage.

Membership in the club is open to any children of the fifty sixth and seventh grades. There are no dues; all that is required is faithful attendance at 9:00 a.m. each Saturday morning.

DOROTHY DIX

Unreasonable View

Fiance Opposed To Girl Learning A Profession

DEAR MISS DIX: We have a daughter of 20 who has had two years in college. She is engaged to a nice young man, but it will be at least two or three years before he can afford to marry. We are anxious for our daughter to finish her college course, or take a business course, but her fiance strongly objects to her doing either one, as he says he will never consent to his wife working after they are married. That is all right, but my husband and I both think that every girl should be taught some way of making a living, whether she follows it or not after marriage. Is it fair for the young man to take the position he does, and should my daughter give in to him? A MOTHER

DOROTHY DIX

ANSWER: The young man is very unreasonable in the position he takes. A trade or profession is the best protection a girl can have against the rainy day that possibly may come to anyone.

A WISE PRECAUTION

It is hard to see how anyone can be so narrow and bigoted and prejudiced as to fail to see the wisdom of this. Who is so helpless as the girl who has not been taught any gainful occupation, who has no business experience and who finds it impossible to compete with women who are expert in some line of work? You would think that any man in the world would be glad to know that his wife could stand on her own feet and support herself if the necessity arose.

It is a fine thing for a man to want to support his family and stand between his wife and the world and keep her soft within the circle of the home. It is the way things should be, because being a good wife and mother and a good housekeeper and manager is the woman's end of a marriage, and it involves all the work that any one woman should be expected to do. Besides, it leaves the jobs open for unmarried women. Even if the wife never has to use her knowledge, it gives her poise and self-respect to know that she could make a living if she had to.

Your daughter will be very foolish if she gives in to her young man's silly objection to her taking a business course. It will give her something to do to fill in her time while she is waiting for him, instead of sitting at home and sucking her thumb. And it will give her something to fall back on if he falls out of love with her, or if she loses her taste for him. A lot of things can happen to young people in two years that change all of their plans.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am entrusted with the sending of cards (Get Well, Sympathy, Anniversary, etc.) for a club. I'd like to know if it is good taste to write a message on the inside of these cards.

It has been my custom to sign the name of the club below the verse, then write a little message or appropriate poem inside the card. When a member is very ill, or hospitalized, I send a gift, such as a hankie, with the card and message. I have been told that this is wrong, and I should use a separate sheet of paper for the extra message. KATHRYN

ANSWER: Not only is your idea in good taste, but it is a very courteous and gracious gesture to write an additional message on printed greeting cards. The warmth of your own words enhance the value of the printed poem and will certainly be more appreciated by the recipient than a plain signature.

The road to friendship is paved with just such thoughtfulness; one who has softened pain or sorrow with a personal blessing or added a cheery note to the jubilations of an anniversary is not soon forgotten.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 26 years of age, yet my parents still try to tell me I shouldn't date and am too young to think of marriage. I am in love with a man who has been married, but his wife has been dead for two years. He has declared his love for me, too. My parents refuse to meet him and say if I marry him they will never speak to him. I love my father and mother, but how can I let them know I also love this man? MARION

ANSWER: At 26 you are certainly old enough to marry, and as your beau seems quite ideal, I think your parents' opposition is very foolish. Better go ahead and marry the man, or you'll just grow old waiting for your father and mother to decide when you have reached the age of discretion. They'll be hurt, of course, but you have no choice except to marry and make your own life, or sit at the family hearth for the rest of your days.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

By Oswald Jacoby

Tips To End Scoring Arguments

Written for NEA Service

"I'm ashamed to say that we still have trouble about scoring in Canasta," admits a Cincinnati reader. "We're really not beginners; in fact we play pretty well—in our opinion. But we still have arguments about the right way to score.

"For example, last night my wife and I had one canasta and all four red threes down on the table. In our hands we had cards that added up to 215 points. We discovered that fact when one of the opponents melded out unexpectedly.

"The cards in our canasta happened to be five sevens and two deuces—totaling only 65 points. We wanted to pay the 215 points for cards in our hands by canceling part of our canasta bonus. The opponents insisted that we had to break up our red threes, thus getting a much smaller bonus.

"Please tell us exactly what should be done in this case and also in general."

When a hand comes to an end, your first step is to count your bonus points. That includes the bonuses for canastas, for red threes, and for melding out. Before you do anything else you write those bonus totals down on the scorepad.

Only after you have written down your bonus points is it time to count up the card points. You begin by counting the cards still in your hand. Then you count the cards that you have melded. If the melded cards come to more than the cards in your hand, you score the difference in your favor as plus points. If the melded cards come to less than the cards in your hand, you score the difference against you as minus points.

For example, in the case given by my correspondent, his first step is to count up a bonus of 1100 points. This consists of 800 points for all four red threes and 300 points for a mixed canasta.

They next count card points, finding 215 in their hands and 65 on the table. Card points are therefore minus 150 points.

Their full score for the hand is plus 950 points. This is what they get for plus 1100 and minus 150 points.

The confusion arises because it is customary to balance off the cards in your hand by means of melded cards. For example, suppose you get stuck with 20 points at the end of a hand. You usually pick up 20 points of melded cards and throw them into the discard pile before you count up.

This practice is followed only for convenience in counting. It should never be an excuse for breaking up a canasta or any other bonus. This confusion will not arise if you always count your bonus points first and if you write those points down on the scorepad before you make another move.

Thurman Sensing

"MEN HAVE LOST REASON"

It is a terrifying fact to realize—but it is true—that we have apparently reached a point in this country where we depend upon war and government spending to keep us out of a depression.

Such an attitude is contrary to all the principles upon which our nation was founded. It is also contrary to just ordinary common sense.

Yet we hardly ever read a news service or an economic analysis that we don't find set forth the thought that we would now be facing a depression except for the enormous amounts of cash being poured into business by the government due to war and preparation for war.

What a way to avoid a depression!

Can any person with good sense believe that war expenditures bring real prosperity?

I found the same kind of thinking among certain people in Great Britain while over there studying what happens to a people's freedom and to a people's economy under a socialist government. I found those who thought we had devised the Marshall plan to aid our own economy, that we found ourselves with a surplus of goods, that we wanted to keep our factories busy, that we wanted full employment — that we therefore conceived the idea of gaining those ends by giving the nations of Europe money with which to buy our goods.

What a way to avoid a depression!

Both of these are fine examples of "reverse thinking," of putting the cart before the horse, of confusing cause and effect.

We started this type of thinking in the depression 30's with "made - work" with pump-priming with doles and subsidies, with "government aid". All such efforts to bring about prosperity are fallacious from beginning to end.

We refused to face facts in the 30's and work ourselves out of the depression we were in. We had a government that encouraged us to believe we didn't have to work our way out. And, tragically, we accepted that promise — most all of us, from the WPA worker to the banker. We accepted the subsidies and the doles. We didn't ask ourselves where the money was coming from. We were getting "something for nothing."

All through those years we exhibited none of the courage that had built America. We had many depressions before. we suffered from them, as people always suffer from their mistakes, but we emerged from them stronger than ever. And we knew that even during the depressions our standard of living looked high to the peoples of other lands who did not have the freedom to work their way out of the permanent depressions they were in.

And so we never came out of the depression of the 30's. We just increased the national debt. Some think we came out of it with the advent of World War II. That belief is also fallacious. All of us were employed, all right winning the war — but in doing so we used up much of the resources accumulated throughout our history. Now our debt is more than a quarter of a trillion dollars. And we have not reduced the debt since the end of that war. Instead, we have spent more money during the past six years than was spent by our government in all the years of its history, including the cost of all wars up to the beginning of the Second World War.

And yet now we read that the only thing that is keeping us out of a depression are the billions being poured by the government into rearmament and foreign aid! We can be quite sure that if we are depending upon this now, we shall be depending upon it ten years from now. And so again we ask, where are the billions coming from?

We might well exclaim, as did Shakespeare's Mark Antony,

"Oh, Judgement, thou art fled to brutish beasts,
And men have lost their reason."

The Vatican, with more than 4,000 rooms, is the largest palace in the world.

SINGING SCHOOL BEING PLANNED

Will Be Held In West Monroe For Three Weeks, Open To All

A group of gospel music lovers met in the home of E. C. Monroe for the purpose of having a singing school in this vicinity. A committee was selected at that time to make plans and to secure a place and teachers for the school. Garland May was elected to act as chairman of that committee. Working with Mr. May, were E. C. Monroe, Pat Ray, Lawson Smith, Rev. C. H. Reed, Rev. W. T. Hemphill and Mack Owens.

The committee was fortunate in securing three teachers from the Stamps quartet music company. The teachers are Professor L. D. Huffstudler, who will teach class singing and rudiments of music. Uncle Huff comes from Dallas, Texas. To teach voice will be Harley Lester from Little Rock, Ark., and teaching piano will be Weldon Colinger, a student at Baylor University.

The school will be held at the Penticostal church in Bawcomville beginning Monday, July 23rd and running for three weeks with morning afternoon and night classes and is open to everyone regardless of faith. There will be no tuition fee for general class work such as practical rudiments and music reading as funds are being donated by friends of gospel music to take care of this expense, however those desiring to take private lessons in voice or piano the fee will be $12.00 for nine lessons.

Anyone desiring to make a contribution for this cause may do so by contacting any member of the committee. The funds are being raised this way so that all children will have the opportunity of learning music. For any additional information, contact any member of committee mentioned above. Listen to the Quartet Sings program on KLIC each morning at 7:00 o'clock for further announcements and information about the school.

DOROTHY DIX

Unreasonable View

Fiance Opposed To Girl Learning A Profession

DEAR MISS DIX: We have a daughter of 20 who has had two years in college. She is engaged to a nice young man, but it will be at least two or three years before he can afford to marry. We are anxious for our daughter to finish her college course, or take a business course, but her fiance strongly objects to her doing either one, as he says he will never consent to his wife working after they are married. That is all right, but my husband and I both think that every girl should be taught some way of making a living, whether she follows it or not after marriage. Is it fair for the young man to take the position he does, and should my daughter give in to him? A MOTHER

DOROTHY DIX

ANSWER: The young man is very unreasonable in the position he takes. A trade or profession is the best protection a girl can have against the rainy day that possibly may come to anyone.

A WISE PRECAUTION

It is hard to see how anyone can be so narrow and bigoted and prejudiced as to fail to see the wisdom of this. Who is so helpless as the girl who has not been taught any gainful occupation, who has no business experience and who finds it impossible to compete with women who are expert in some line of work? You would think that any man in the world would be glad to know that his wife could stand on her own feet and support herself if the necessity arose.

It is a fine thing for a man to want to support his family and stand between his wife and the world and keep her soft within the circle of the home. It is the way things should be, because being a good wife and mother and a good housekeeper and manager is the woman's end of a marriage, and it involves all the work that any one woman should be expected to do. Besides, it leaves the jobs open for unmarried women. Even if the wife never has to use her knowledge, it gives her poise and self-respect to know that she could make a living if she had to.

Your daughter will be very foolish if she gives in to her young man's silly objection to her taking a business course. It will give her something to do to fill in her time while she is waiting for him, instead of sitting at home and sucking her thumb. And it will give her something to fall back on if he falls out of love with her, or if she loses her taste for him. A lot of things can happen to young people in two years that change all of their plans.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am entrusted with the sending of cards (Get Well, Sympathy, Anniversary, etc.) for a club. I'd like to know if it is good taste to write a message on the inside of these cards.

It has been my custom to sign the name of the club below the verse, then write a little message or appropriate poem inside the card. When a member is very ill, or hospitalized, I send a gift, such as a hankie, with the card and message. I have been told that this is wrong, and I should use a separate sheet of paper for the extra message. KATHRYN

ANSWER: Not only is your idea in good taste, but it is a very courteous and gracious gesture to write an additional message on printed greeting cards. The warmth of your own words enhance the value of the printed poem and will certainly be more appreciated by the recipient than a plain signature.

The road to friendship is paved with just such thoughtfulness; one who has softened pain or sorrow with a personal blessing or added a cheery note to the jubilations of an anniversary is not soon forgotten.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 26 years of age, yet my parents still try to tell me I shouldn't date and am too young to think of marriage. I am in love with a man who has been married, but his wife has been dead for two years. He has declared his love for me, too. My parents refuse to meet him and say if I marry him they will never speak to him. I love my father and mother, but how can I let them know I also love this man? MARION

ANSWER: At 26 you are certainly old enough to marry, and as your beau seems quite ideal, I think your parents' opposition is very foolish. Better go ahead and marry the man, or you'll just grow old waiting for your father and mother to decide when you have reached the age of discretion. They'll be hurt, of course, but you have no choice except to marry and make your own life, or sit at the family hearth for the rest of your days.

INTERESTING FAMILY

JACOBY ON CANASTA

By Oswald Jacoby

Tips To End Scoring Arguments

Written for NEA Service

"I'm ashamed to say that we still have trouble about scoring in Canasta," admits a Cincinnati reader. "We're really not beginners; in fact we play pretty well—in our opinion. But we still have arguments about the right way to score.

"For example, last night my wife and I had one canasta and all four red threes down on the table. In our hands we had cards that added up to 215 points. We discovered that fact when one of the opponents melded out unexpectedly.

"The cards in our canasta happened to be five sevens and two deuces—totaling only 65 points. We wanted to pay the 215 points for cards in our hands by canceling part of our canasta bonus. The opponents insisted that we had to break up our red threes, thus getting a much smaller bonus.

"Please tell us exactly what should be done in this case and also in general."

When a hand comes to an end, your first step is to count your bonus points. That includes the bonuses for canastas, for red threes, and for melding out. Before you do anything else you write those bonus totals down on the scorepad.

Only after you have written down your bonus points is it time to count up the card points. You begin by counting the cards still in your hand. Then you count the cards that you have melded. If the melded cards come to more than the cards in your hand, you score the difference in your favor as plus points. If the melded cards come to less than the cards in your hand, you score the difference against you as minus points.

For example, in the case given by my correspondent, his first step is to count up a bonus of 1100 points. This consists of 800 points for all four red threes and 300 points for a mixed canasta.

They next count card points, finding 215 in their hands and 65 on the table. Card points are therefore minus 150 points.

Their full score for the hand is plus 950 points. This is what they get for plus 1100 and minus 150 points.

The confusion arises because it is customary to balance off the cards in your hand by means of melded cards. For example, suppose you get stuck with 20 points at the end of a hand. You usually pick up 20 points of melded cards and throw them into the discard pile before you count up.

This practice is followed only for convenience in counting. It should never be an excuse for breaking up a canasta or any other bonus. This confusion will not arise if you always count your bonus points first and if you write those points down on the scorepad before you make another move.

Thurman Sensing

"MEN HAVE LOST REASON"

It is a terrifying fact to realize—but it is true—that we have apparently reached a point in this country where we depend upon war and government spending to keep us out of a depression.

Such an attitude is contrary to all the principles upon which our nation was founded. It is also contrary to just ordinary common sense.

Yet we hardly ever read a news service or an economic analysis that we don't find set forth the thought that we would now be facing a depression except for the enormous amounts of cash being poured into business by the government due to war and preparation for war.

What a way to avoid a depression!

Can any person with good sense believe that war expenditures bring real prosperity?

I found the same kind of thinking among certain peoole in Great Britain while over there studying what happens to a people's freedom and to a people's economy under a socialist government. I found those who thought we had devised the Marshall plan to aid our own economy, that we found ourselves with a surplus of goods, that we wanted to keep our factories busy, that we wanted full employment — that we therefore conceived the idea of gaining those ends by giving the nations of Europe money with which to buy our goods.

What a way to avoid a depression!

Both of these are fine examples of "reverse thinking," of putting the cart before the horse, of confusing cause and effect.

We started this type of thinking in the depression 30's with "made - work" with pump-priming with doles and subsidies, with "government aid". All such efforts to bring about prosperity are fallacious from beginning to end.

We refused to face facts in the 30's and work ourselves out of the depression we were in. We had a government that encouraged us to believe we didn't have to work our way out. And, tragically, we accepted that promise — most all of us, from the WPA worker to the banker. We accepted the subsidies and the doles. We didn't ask ourselves where the money was coming from. We were getting "something for nothing."

All through those years we exhibited none of the courage that had built America. We had many depressions before. we suffered from them, as people always suffer from their mistakes, but we emerged from them stronger than ever. And we knew that even during the depressions our standard of living looked high to the peoples of other lands who did not have the freedom to work their way out of the permanent depressions they were in.

And so we never came out of the depression of the 30's. We just increased the national debt. Some think we came out of it with the advent of World War II. That belief is also fallacious. All of us were employed, all right winning the war — but in doing so we used up much of the resources accumulated throughout our history. Now our debt is more than a quarter of a trillion dollars. And we have not reduced the debt since the end of that war. Instead, we have spent more money during the past six years than was spent by our government in all the years of its history, including the cost of all wars up to the beginning of the Second World War.

And yet now we read that the only thing that is keeping us out of a depression are the billions being poured by the government into rearmament and foreign aid! We can be quite sure that if we are depending upon this now, we shall be depending upon it ten years from now. And so again we ask, where are the billions coming from?

We might well exclaim, as did Shakespeare's Mark Antony,

"Oh, Judgement, thou art fled to brutish beasts,

Will Be Held In West Monroe For Three Weeks, Open To All

A group of gospel music lovers met in the home of E. C. Monroe for the purpose of having a singing school in this vicinity. A committee was selected at that time to make plans and to secure a place and teachers for the school. Garland May was elected to act as chairman of that committee. Working with Mr. May, were E. C. Monroe, Pat Ray, Lawson Smith, Rev. C. H. Reed, Rev. W. T. Hemphill and Mack Owens.

The committee was fortunate in securing three teachers from the Stamps quartet music company. The teachers are Professor L. D. Huffstudler, who will teach class singing and rudiments of music. Uncle Huff comes from Dallas, Texas. To teach voice will be Harley Lester from Little Rock, Ark., and teaching piano will be Weldon Colinger, a student at Baylor University.

The school will be held at the Penticostal church in Bawcomville beginning Monday, July 23rd and running for three weeks with morning afternoon and night classes and is open to everyone regardless of faith. There will be no tuition fee for general class work such as practical rudiments and music reading as funds are being donated by friends of gospel music to take care of this expense, however those desiring to take private lessons in voice or piano the fee will be $12.00 for nine lessons.

Anyone desiring to make a contribution for this cause may do so by contacting any member of the committee. The funds are being raised this way so that all children will have the opportunity of learning music. For any additional information, contact any member of committee mentioned above. Listen to the Quartet Sings program on KLIC each morning at 7:00 o'clock for further announcements and information about the school.

Yachtsman Tells Of Horror During Period In Pacific

By Roy Essoyan

Honolulu, July 14.—(AP)—A yachtsman who killed a shark that "kinda nibbled" at his toes while he bobbed alone in the Pacific was en route to Honolulu today, agreeing with his friends that he's "the luckiest man in the world."

Ted Sierks' friends in Pasadena, Calif., messaged him aboard the U. S. destroyer Escort Douglas A. Munro: "No more poker with anyone having your luck. . . ."

Sierks fell overboard from the sloop L'Apache Wednesday during the annual 2,225-mile Los Angeles-Honolulu yacht race. Thirty hours later he was picked up by the Munro, which was making one last desperate sweep of the Pacific before heeding orders to abandon the search.

The rescue was just in time.

"I was pooped," he said yesterday in a radio interview. I was falling asleep in my buoy (life-ring). I couldn't keep my balance. . . . I think I owe my life to the whole pattern of things, to the creator and the navy."

He told how he killed one of the sharks that bothered him:

"It was after my bare feet. It kinda nibbled on them. I grabbed it by the tail, turned it over and ripped its belly with my knife. . . . The whole thing was over in 20 seconds."

Sierks fended off many other sharks that swam around him.

Several times before he was finally picked up ships passed tantalizingly close without seeing him.

"One ship passed 30 yards from me," he said. "It could not spot me, and it was to far to hail. Another ship turned around and came towards me. Then 200 yards away it, too, turned about and went away.

"I thought this was it. I felt this was a stupid way to leave this world, all so healthy and everything. But I did feel it would take a little time."

Chances for a new record were fading, but the Morning Star appeared certain to finish first, sometime late Saturday.

On a corrected - time basis however, the real winner of the race will probably be the tiny Ketch Sea Witch of San Francisco. The Sea Witch should finish Wednesday. It had a six-day handicap.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Bob Thomas In Movieland

By Jack Quigg

(For Bob Thomas)

Hollywood, July 14.—(AP)—Meet a countess with her fingers crossed.

She is beautiful, blonde Betsy Von Furstenburg, born in a castle in Westphalia, Germany, who prefers not to use her title here.

But in Europe, where they take nobility seriously, she is the Countess Caroline Maria Felicitas Agatha Elizabeth Von Furstenburg. She is the daughter of a former German industrialist who now is an inventor.

Betsy has her fingers crossed because she's here to make a screen test. If it's successful there's a movie contract and possible stardom in her future.

It's not every day that movie-struck countesses come knocking on Hollywood's door, so I looked her up. I found her lounging beside the swimming pool of a lavish hotel where MGM has put her up.

She is due to make her test next Wednesday and I thought she'd be excited. She wasn't. Neither was she moviestruck.

Miss Von Furstenburg can afford to be nonchalant — she has $2,000,000. True, it's tied up in Germany and she can't spend it here, but even without it she would have no money worries. She has proven she can support herself in style.

At 19 she's no novice in show business. She said she studied ballet as a child and at ten she was the youngest featured player ever to appear at the New York ballet theater. A couple of years later she won prizes for fancy ice skating.

Yachtsman Tells Of Horror During Period In Pacific

By Roy Essoyan

Honolulu, July 14.—(AP)—A yachtsman who killed a shark that "kinda nibbled" at his toes while he bobbed alone in the Pacific was en route to Honolulu today, agreeing with his friends that he's "the luckiest man in the world."

Ted Sierks' friends in Pasadena, Calif., messaged him aboard the U. S. destroyer Escort Douglas A. Munro: "No more poker with anyone having your luck. . . ."

Sierks fell overboard from the sloop L'Apache Wednesday during the annual 2,225-mile Los Angeles-Honolulu yacht race. Thirty hours later he was picked up by the Munro, which was making one last desperate sweep of the Pacific before heeding orders to abandon the search.

The rescue was just in time.

"I was pooped," he said yesterday in a radio interview. I was falling asleep in my buoy (lifering). I couldn't keep my balance. . . . I think I owe my life to the whole pattern of things, to the creator and the navy."

He told how he killed one of the sharks that bothered him:

"It was after my bare feet. It kinda nibbled on them. I grabbed it by the tail, turned it over and ripped its belly with my knife. . . . The whole thing was over in 20 seconds."

Sierks fended off many other sharks that swam around him.

Several times before he was finally picked up ships passed tantalizingly close without seeing him.

"One ship passed 30 yards from me," he said. "It could not spot me, and it was to far to hail. Another ship turned around and came towards me. Then 200 yards away it, too, turned about and went away.

"I thought this was it. I felt this was a stupid way to leave this world, all so healthy and everything. But I did feel it would take a little time."

Chances for a new record were fading, but the Morning Star appeared certain to finish first, sometime late Saturday.

On a corrected - time basis however, the real winner of the race will probably be the tiny Ketch Sea Witch of San Francisco. The Sea Witch should finish Wednesday. It had a six-day handicap.

Bob Thomas In Movieland

By Jack Quigg

(For Bob Thomas)

Hollywood, July 14.—(AP)—Meet a countess with her fingers crossed.

She is beautiful, blonde Betsy Von Furstenburg, born in a castle in Westphalia, Germany, who prefers not to use her title here.

But in Europe, where they take nobility seriously, she is the Countess Caroline Maria Felicitas Agatha Elizabeth Von Furstenburg. She is the daughter of a former German industrialist who now is an inventor.

Betsy has her fingers crossed because she's here to make a screen test. If it's successful there's a movie contract and possible stardom in her future.

It's not every day that movie-struck countesses come knocking on Hollywood's door, so I looked her up. I found her lounging beside the swimming pool of a lavish hotel where MGM has put her up.

She is due to make her test next Wednesday and I thought she'd be excited. She wasn't. Neither was she moviestruck.

Miss Von Furstenburg can afford to be nonchalant — she has $2,000,000. True, it's tied up in Germany and she can't spend it here, but even without it she would have no money worries. She has proven she can support herself in style.

At 19 she's no novice in show business. She said she studied ballet as a child and at ten she was the youngest featured player ever to appear at the New York ballet theater. A couple of years later she won prizes for fancy ice skating.

OOOOH! LET ME KNOW IF HE MAKES IT, TERRY.

THAT'S WHAT I MEAN, CHAZZ. CARRIER FLYING IS A HIGHLY SPECIALIZED TECHNIQUE...WITHOUT BEING BRIEFED ON IT, WE'D BE A CINCH TO SPLASH A TAXPAYERS' AIRCRAFT ALL OVER THAT FLIGHT DECK.

USUALLY, NAVY PILOTS LEARN THE TRADE UNDER SIMULATED CONDITIONS ASHORE BEFORE THEY'RE GIVEN SEA DUTY— BUT THIS BUCKET TOOK OFF AS SOON AS WE CHECKED ABOARD. I DON'T GET IT.

AND I DON'T GET THAT HUMOROUS THREE-STRIPER IN AIR OPERATIONS WHO FLUFFED US OFF WHEN WE TRIED TO TELL HIM ABOUT IT. IF THIS IS SOME LOW, SNEAKY NAVY-TYPE GAG...

MEANWHILE, IN ANOTHER PART OF THE SHIP...

BLAST IT, JOE. FLYING PLANES IS MY JOB. THIS FANCY CLOAK-AND-DAGGER STUFF IS YOUR SPECIALTY...FELT LIKE A DARN FOOL MAKING JUVENILE CRACKS ABOUT AIR FORCE VERSUS NAVY PILOTS TO THEM.

THE "TOUR OF DUTY" GAG WORKED O.K. WE'RE AT SEA. THERE'S NO POSSIBILITY OF A LEAK TO THE ENEMY. WHY NOT JUNK THE FARCE AND TELL THEM WHAT THE SCORE REALLY IS.

HMMM... O.K., BOB, MIGHT AS WELL...

JONES! FIND THOSE TWO AIR FORCE OFFICERS. I WANT TO TALK TO THEM.

COULDN'T A PAIR OF YOUR OWN MEN HAVE HANDLED THIS DETAIL? HOW COME WE CALL ON THE AIR FORCE?

NO DICE! THE SLIPPERY TYPE WE'RE TRYING TO DO BUSINESS WITH WON'T EVEN TALK TO ANYBODY BUT LEE AND CHARLES.

FLASH GORDON

by MAC RABOY and DON MOORE

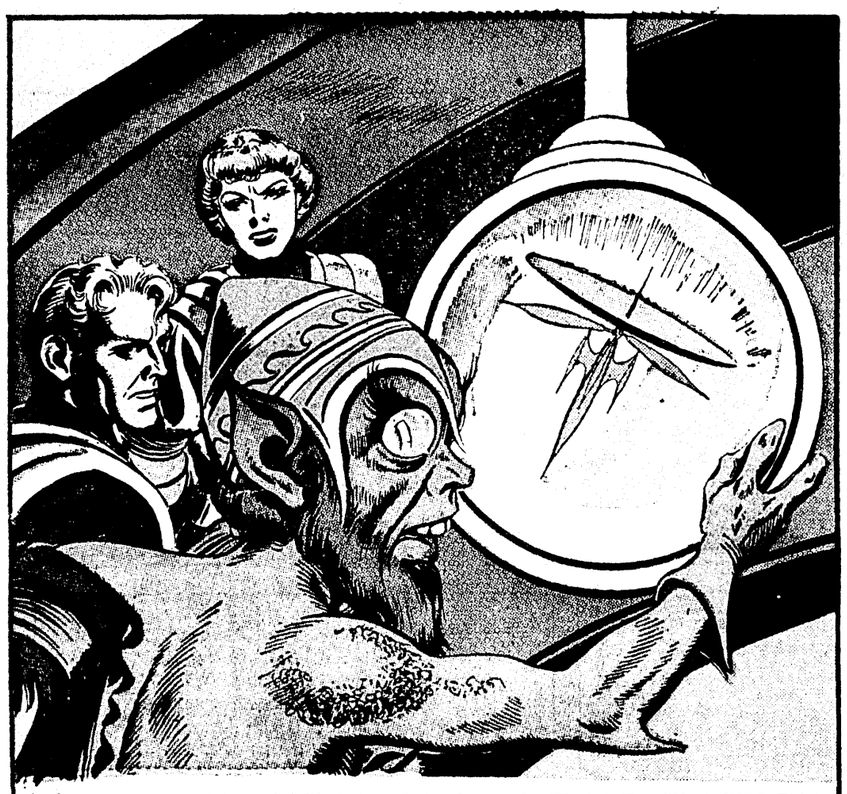

DR. RUFF CLIMBS INSIDE THE ROCKET-PLATFORM CIRCLING THE EARTH. "WE'VE LOST FLASH AND GINGER," HE TELLS DALE. "SHE WAS THROWN OFF. HE JUMPED AFTER HER. THEY'VE VANISHED IN SPACE AND THEIR OXYGEN WON'T LAST."

"TURN AROUND AND GET THEM," DALE PLEADS. "WE MUST SAVE FLASH!" THE SCIENTIST'S FACE IS GRIM. "NO," HE MUTTERS. "GINGER IS MY NIECE -- BUT TO TURN BACK WOULD ENDANGER MORE CREW MEMBERS. WE CAN'T DO IT!"

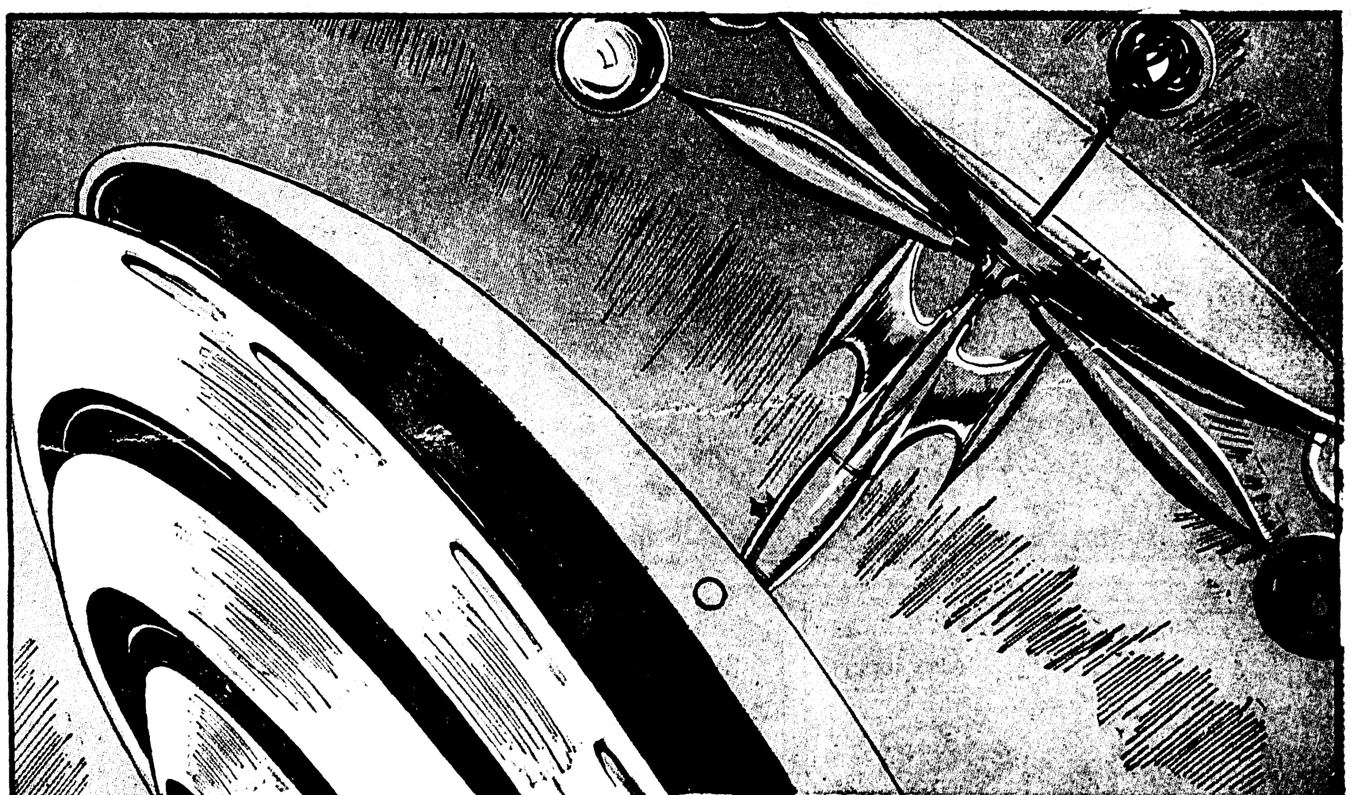

MEANTIME, ON THE MYSTERIOUS SPACE-SHIP THAT HAS PICKED UP FLASH AND GINGER, THEIR CAPTORS REVEAL THEMSELVES AS MEN FROM MARS. THEIR CHIEF, TOXO, USES HYPNOTIC BRAIN WAVES TO MAKE FLASH ANSWER QUESTIONS ABOUT HIS UNFINISHED SPACE-PLATFORM.

"I'LL LET THE EARTHMEN BUILD THEIR PLATFORM, THEN I'LL CAPTURE IT," TOXO GLOATS. FLASH, SLOWLY COMING TO, KNOWS FROM GINGER'S BITTER CHARGES OF TREACHERY THAT HE MUST HAVE GIVEN AWAY SECRETS. DESPERATELY, HE TRIES TO PLAN SOME WAY TO OUTWIT THE MARTIANS.

THE CAMOUFLAGED TOP OF THE MARTIAN SHIP MAKES IT INVISIBLE TO THE WORKERS ON THE SPACE-PLATFORM, WHO FORGE AHEAD IN THEIR BUILDING OPERATIONS, UNAWARE OF THE DANGER THAT LURKS NEAR-BY. THE MARTIAN OBSERVERS KEEP A CLOSE WATCH, BIDING THEIR TIME TO STRIKE AT THE GREAT LABORATORY-FORTRESS FLOATING THOUSANDS OF MILES ABOVE THE EARTH.

Reader's Digest recently reported the very same research which proves that the Colgate way of brushing teeth right after eating stops tooth decay best! The most thoroughly proved and accepted home method of oral hygiene known today!

Yes, and two years' research showed the Colgate way stopped more decay for more people than ever before reported in all dentifrice history! No other dentifrice—ammoniated or not—offers such proof—the most conclusive proof ever reported for a dentifrice of any type!

YOU SHOULD KNOW! Colgate's, while not mentioned by name, was the one and only toothpaste used in the scientific research on tooth decay recently reported in Reader's Digest.
